WHAT THE SADDLE BOOKS :

THE SADDLE BOOKS.

By W. A. HARLEY.

Dear Mr. Wright,

May we have an interest in your prayers, that the little Church in Lincolns may not dwindie away and die.

W. A. PRAGER.

CONTINUED.

THE FRESHWATER BILL. — The effect of the anticipated passage of the new Funding Bill by both Houses of Congress will, it is believed, be most beneficial to the financial interests of the country. The new measure has been designed to relieve the country of its burdensome debt, and to establish a more stable currency. The President has signed the bill, and the necessary steps have been taken to enable the country to meet its obligations. The bill provides for the creation of a new national bank, which will replace the old one. The new bank will be capitalized at $500,000,000, and will have a capital stock of $250,000,000. The new bank will be directed by a board of directors, consisting of five members, who will be appointed by the President.

A ROYAL WEDDING. — The marriage of Prince William, eldest son of the crown Prince Frederick William of Prussia, and Princess Augusta Victoria of Hohenzollern, will take place in the Royal Palace of Berlin, on the 21st inst. The ceremony will be performed by the Archbishop of Berlin, and the Prince and Princess will be married in the presence of the King and Queen of Prussia, and the other members of the Royal family. The wedding will be followed by a grand banquet and entertainment in the palace. The English and German governments have expressed their highest regrets at the news of the marriage, and have sent their representatives to Berlin to convey their congratulations.

PREPARATIONS. — Arrangements are being made for a large and盛大 wedding celebration to be held next Friday. After that event, the business of "Cabinet making," which has been in progress for some time, will be put aside. The project has been well received, and the demand for similar work has increased. The work will be carried on in the usual manner, and the finished pieces will be delivered in time for the wedding.

THE ARMS OF THE SADDLE BOOKS. — The Arms of the SADDLE BOOKS are as follows: On a field of gold, a saddle with a bridle and reins, all proper. The crest is a horse's head, and the motto is "Equus maximus." The foundation stone of the new building will be laid on the 21st inst.

Selected Miscellany.

A MATRON'S JUDE. By LOYCE E. RAINES.

Over the city she looked down. The whole city was her home - the city of her youth, the city of her childhood. The city of her dreams.

The whole city was her home. But she had been away for so long. She had left her heart behind in this city. She had left her dreams. She had left her childhood.

And now, as she looked down at the city, she felt a sense of loneliness. She felt as if she were alone in the world. She felt as if she were lost.

And then she saw the lights of the city. They were like stars in the sky. They were like the stars she had seen in her dreams. And she knew that she wanted to go home. She wanted to go back to the city she loved.

So she stood there, looking down at the city, and she felt a sense of longing. She felt a sense of homesickness. She felt a sense of sadness.

And then she looked up at the sky. And she saw the moon. And she knew that she was not alone. She knew that there were others out there, just like her. And she felt a sense of comfort. She felt a sense of belonging.

And then she closed her eyes. And she began to cry. And she knew that she would go back. She would go back to the city she loved. She would go back to the city of her dreams.

The end.
LEONARD W. DAVIS.
