INFLUENCE OF THE BIBLE-SCHOOL.

We were more than pleased in reading the message of Rev. Usher to Sabbath-school teachers. The message was written for the purpose of considering the influence of the Bible-school and the responsibility of the teacher which goes with it. The teacher's influence is of capital importance to the success of the Sabbath-school. It is an important question in life is said to be the major part of a Christian's heritage. How is this accuracy of the Bible-school to be obtained? The ideal Sabbath-school would so prepare the minds and hearts of its members that they would be more than a matter of a class. Many Sabbath-school children today are better acquainted with the book of books, and better informed on Bible subjects than their parents who habitually stay at home; and the child who has been a regular attendant upon the Sabbath-school service for months, not for months, but for years, not only has an education, but, in addition, an education in religious life. Those who have had many such influences have a greater respect for the Bible, and as a result like the books better, and as a result like the Bible better. This is a great influence on children, and especially to the younger members, not so much by holding up others, as by holding up the Bible, the books of the religion of Jesus cannot fail to give. The influence of this kind of education is in our classes, and especially to the younger members, not so much by holding up others, as by holding up the Bible, the books of the religion of Jesus cannot fail to give. The growth of American literature has been rapid in recent years. The United States has a large and varied national life, and it has captured the imagination of many of the best writers in the world. The growth of American literature is reflected in the increased production of books and in the growth of the reading public. The American writer has come into his own, and his works are now being read throughout the world.

Excerpts from the April 18, 1883 issue of The Sabbath Recorder.

The news of revival work going on in the churches East and West, and North and South, has been indeed good news. Let all the good men in our land take note of it and move on it. The three sections of the West, the North, and the South, have all three been filled with the spirit of God, and we have seen a great work going on, and the churches are full of good news.

To the many friends of E. J. Charles C. Lewis, who eagerly sought the Revivals for some time during his lifetime, we are now happy to say that he is gone to his reward. He was a man of God, and his name shall live forever.

Two weeks ago we published an article under the heading "Draw thy Bow," written by Oliver Cross. In the same number, at the head of our page of miscellaneous literature, he said,"To thy Father's eye, and to your own conscience, it will be as if you had never sinned." His words were very timely and should be a comfort to all who have sinned, and who are seeking to be forgiven.

The Sabbath Recorder, April 18, 1883.

Speeches of the young brother-in-laws recently published in the Recorder, for the benefit of the young people of the church.

A man who is not large in body, much less in heart, but who is large in mind, the church regards as one of the most valuable assets. The man who is not large in body, much less in heart, but who is large in mind, the church regards as one of the most valuable assets.

The young people of the church should take note of this advice, and try to follow it. They should try to be large in thought, and large in action, and large in heart.

The Sabbath Recorder, April 18, 1883.

Revised Version of the Bible.

The Revised Version of the Bible is a valuable addition to the literature of the church. It is a work of great merit, and will be a great blessing to the churches. It is a work that will be of great use to the young people of the church, as it will help them to understand the Bible better.

The Sabbath Recorder, April 18, 1883.

The Church in the World.

The Church in the world is a powerful force for good. It is a beacon of light in the darkness of sin and error. It is a refuge of safety in the storm of temptation. It is a source of strength and comfort in the trials of life.

The Sabbath Recorder, April 18, 1883.

The Church and the State.

The Church and the State are two great institutions, and they should work together for the common good. The Church should make its influence felt in the State, and the State should make its influence felt in the Church.

The Sabbath Recorder, April 18, 1883.
AMEN

I can not say, beneath the beneficent ray of day
Lovelorn and longed for, I yearn to say.
Our Lord, in adoration, may He have your grace
And may your will forever be our guide and face.

Yes, a praying soul, when shall we come again?
In the place where the sun sets, and the stars shine above.
In the silence of the night, and in the peace of the morn.
So may our journey be, from the earth to the Heavens, and more.

When I am older, Velvets and breeches, and all those fine things will be new to me.
But now I feel like a child upon the sea,
So I wish you all to be happy, and may you find the right path in your life.

The way of the world.

In this world, there are many who suffer
And few who are truly happy.
But I believe that in the end, everything will be fine.

Give the boys a break—on your knees you'll find and you'll find the joy of life.

Give the boys a break—on your knees you'll find
And in the end, you'll be free.
