PLACES AND PEOPLE IN THE SOUTHWEST.

Nevada.

At several of the stations on the Santa Fe Road in Western Nevada, the train received endless loads of coal and wood, and the engines travelled faster than trains on the plains. At some of the stations, hundreds of cattle were seen feeding on the grass.

This section of onr journey home last fall and winter was the most exciting and adventurous part of the trip. The scenery was magnificent, and the climate was perfect.

The President was instructed to appoint the standing committee, and the motion was seconded.

To think that the paper has met a hearty response is an extremely encouraging thought. But, there is no need for the paper to stop here. It will continue to grow and flourish, and will become an even more powerful force for good.

Now in closing this Report we desire to express our deepening sentiments of gratitude and appreciation for the support and encouragement we have received.

A better time is coming. The Lord is near. Keep the Sabbath holy and live in the fear of the Lord.
MISSIONS.

From R. L. ferris,

SABBATH RECORDER, OCTOBER 9, 1884.

MISSIONS.

"Do you not fill the world, and tane the gospel to every corner?"

Persons who furnish any names or data of this kind are cordially invited to submit similar information. Life Members of our Missionary Society as well as others are specially invited to remember in their generosity the Society's mission to the Chinese people. Let each one ask himself how his or her gift will do most to help the cause of missions, and give accordingly.

MARRIAGE.

MARRIAGE.

The Bible Society has recently completed a mission to the Chinese people. It has been in operation for many years, and has been most successful in its efforts. The object of the Bible Society is to spread the gospel of Christ among the Chinese people, and to promote the welfare of their families. The Society has been active in organizing churches, and in establishing schools and hospitals. The Chinese people have a great respect for the Bible Society, and have shown a willingness to accept its teachings.

I hope this field will be carefully looked after. May God bless the dear people of Dear. Fort.

PRESIDENTS AND MISSIONS.

Presidents are much interested in the evangelization of the world. They have their eyes fixed upon the great work of missions. They are anxious to know how the gospel is being spread abroad. They are interested in the work of the colporteurs, and they are always ready to give them their support.

The chief of the Chinese people, having heard that the Bibles had been sent to them, came and took hold of me. He said, 'What shall we do with these Bibles? We do not know how to read them.' I said, 'They are for the use of the Chinese people. They are written in their own language.' He replied, 'Yes, but I do not know how to read them.' I told him, 'You can learn to read them. They are for you. They are not for others. They are for the Chinese people. You can learn to read them. You can learn to understand them. You can learn to profit by them. You can learn to be saved by them.'

The Chinese people are as much interested in the evangelization of the world as the people of any other country. They are as much interested in the spread of the gospel as the people of any other country. They are as much interested in the work of the missionaries as the people of any other country. They are as much interested in the work of the colporteurs as the people of any other country.

I have just been to see the Chinese people. They are as much interested in the evangelization of the world as the people of any other country. They are as much interested in the spread of the gospel as the people of any other country. They are as much interested in the work of the missionaries as the people of any other country. SABBATH Reform.

In the Sabbath Recorder, Sept. 6, 1846, an article is published under the title of "The Sabbath Reform." The article discusses the importance of observing the Sabbath and the need for a reformation of the Sabbath observance. It argues that the Sabbath is a day of rest and a time for spiritual reflection, and that its observance should be a priority for all believers. The article calls for a return to the true meaning of the Sabbath, as taught by the early church fathers, and for an end to the excesses and abuses that have come to be associated with it.

The article further explains that the Sabbath is a day of rest and a time for spiritual reflection, and that its observance should be a priority for all believers. THE TESTIMONY.

The moral character of the man must be understood in connection with the time in which he lived or writes, and this standard is made by the degree of light given to the age, and the stage of development reached at the time by the race. To judge the character of David or Solomon was made possible by the standard of morality set in the Talmud and other Talmudic literature by the light of the New Testament scriptures. In the days of David, the prime question was the justice of the true God as opposed to the practices of idolatry. On this question David was always true to his convictions, and on that point his position was never in doubt. In all that he claimed, we think, mean and accept the acceptance of all that he requires his disciples to be and to do. In our day, we must also understand, the practice of idolatry, of course, we mean the acceptance of the highest ideals and purest motives as possible, the full recognition of such an ideal. This is a Christian education. The Missionary Society feels this movement is quite remote from the great work of the Conference, but the opportunity for larger and better work is the same. During the past year, this is an encouraging sign, and we look forward to the coming year. It is gratifying that the facilities are increasing for larger and better contributions. As the people on Lost Mission are so sympathetic and increasing in number, the work of the Conference is carried on, by the contributions of the above-named churches, and the increase of their patronage, and the generous support, for we need to be able to do more as they receive larger patronage, and the funds are used promptly and heartily to the call of the Conference business. This is simply a necessity, and the Missionary Society has arrived at the conclusion that it is necessary to have a systematic plan of publicizing its work in the working machinery of our organization. The conference was the second most crowded that we have had, and at the same time, it was the most interesting. Resolved, That we, the representatives of the Seventh-day Baptist Church, in the meeting of this General Conference, do hereby adopt the following resolutions, which we submit to the Bishops of our Church, to the same as the authors of the resolutions themselves, and we hope that the same will be adopted by the General Conference, and that they may be referred to the same:

Last Sabbath, 4th inst., instead of the usual sermon, the large audience was treated to a brief review of the late astronomical phenomena, which was delivered by Dr. L. E. Davis, of this city, to the delight of the audience.

The Sabbath School in attendance in this city was a rich treat, and the new and excellent and legislation for the good work.

A NEW ODYSSEY.
What did God tell him to do? What did he have to sacrifice? Had God promised him more pleasing to God than what? Solomon's unnatural birth could be seen. The main objects of the sacrifice were "the chief things in the kingdom." The chief of the first offerer was "to seek the face of God." Solomon was the third-born son of David and Bathsheba, and he was an expression to represent the high position of his highness. The chief of the offerings was according to Solomon. The child was eight days old. "Behold, I have done according to thy word," said God, "and have given thee the wife of thy youth, namely, the daughter of Pharaoh." "And David gave unto his son Solomon..." Thus, the king's promise was fulfilled. The king asked when the child was eight days old, and he was expressed in a dream that it occurred. Solomon desired to see the face of God, and he prayed that whatever thing he desired he would have. The Lord's promise was that he would do all that the king asked. Solomon asked for wisdom to rule the people. "And Solomon awoke; and behold, a dream was upon him." The king's heart was prepared for wisdom, and he asked for it. The Spirit of God came upon Solomon. This was the first sign of the coming of the Holy Spirit. Solomon's wisdom was a result of the Spirit of God. Solomon became the wisest man in all the earth. His wisdom was so great that it surpassed the wisdom of the wise men of the East. Solomon's wisdom was not only in matters of state but also in matters of religious interest. The king's wisdom was a result of his experience in the period of peace. Solomon's reign was just and righteously. The king was a man of peace, and he was a man of truth.
