MISSIONS.

‘Do ye good unto all men, and especially unto your brethren.’

AFRICA is opening in a wonderful manner both for commerce and missions. The Churches of England and the United States of America have an interest in the area of 5,000,000 square miles, and twenty-three missionaries now on the field and all the buildings and appointments.

This is one of the most important steps steps we have ever taken in connection with foreign missions. It will increase their responsibilities, call for greater organization, and enlarge their field of labor.

The Trustees of this great Society, the first appointed in 1818, now called the Missionary Union, have taken

To the Editor of the Times:

I published certain opinions relative to it, in the columns just printed by Hilgenfeld and now by Bryennios himself, in which I pointed out what I considered the nature of the question, and which I sent to him in order to bring it into the open. I have sent this to him for publication in order that he may have an opportunity to answer it, if he so desires. I believe that it is in the best interests of the cause to have this question debated in public, and I have therefore sent it to him for this purpose.

I have written several letters to him, and I believe that he is well aware of my position regarding this question. I have also written to him about the subject of the Teaching of the Apostles, and I believe that he is aware of my views on this matter.

I am informed that the question of the Teaching of the Apostles is of great importance to the cause, and I believe that it is necessary to have this question debated in public. I believe that it is in the best interests of the cause to have this question debated in public, and I have therefore sent it to him for this purpose.

The usual young people's prayer meeting was held in the church at three P. M., with Charles S. Oman, William E. Gribbons, and B. H. Tabor presiding.

TUPELO

We have been looking forward to the time of our annual semiannual, held May 5, 1889, when we gathered to pray and to work. We have had a very warm and favorable response from all the members present. The meeting was opened at 9 o'clock by the President, who gave the chair to the committee on program for the afternoon, and the meeting adjourned until 9 a.m. of the following morning. The committee on program was: H. T. Tabor, W. E. Gribbons, and B. H. Tabor.

Newspaper

We, the members of the Southern Baptist Convention, have received the news with great regret, of the unexpected death of Dr. W. F. Rogers, the missionary to the University of the South, in Charleston, S.C., on May 12, 1889, at the age of 45 years. He was the son of A. H. Rogers of Charlestown, Mass., and was graduated from the University of Texas, in 1870.

The Southern Baptist Convention, in its resolutions, says: "We deplore the loss of a man of such a faculty. An inferior quality of moral substance of mind, which, though fragile, will gradually develop into a larger and more perfect being, and we trust that the influence of Dr. Rogers' life and work will endure, not only in the minds of those with whom he was associated, but also in the hearts of those who will come to know and love him in the years to come."

SMALL POX MARKS CAN BE REMOVED.
Leon & Co.,

The method used by Leon & Co. for removing smallpox marks has been demonstrated by the Department of Public Health. The process is simple and harmless. The mark is scratched with a needle, and a solution of zinc chloride is applied. The mark disappears within a few minutes. The process is painless and does not require any special equipment.

PATENTS

Albion Academy, Albion, N.Y.

Two recent patents are of special interest. The first is a device for the removal of smallpox marks, and the second is a method for the treatment of tuberculosis. The device is simple and effective, and the treatment is painless and harmless. Both patents are available for purchase.
