Chapter 1

Oregon, one of the most rainy places. Well in my mind at, our weather fluctuates often. You could be standing in the sun on a spring morning, and in ten minutes it could have rained. It happened to me, snow. We don't get much snow in Eugene, usually only about an inch. When that happens all the schools close. One time my older sister, Bethany, came to visit and she was super crazy.

I only have one sister, Bethany. She doesn't live with me and living with six of her best friends, who are mostly girls. I really know where they live but they nicknamed them the Travelers. They travel all over the world and get to see so many things. Now this because Bethany sends me postcards often with pictures of things around what ever was the highlight of their trip. Bethany is doing something crazy in the background of the pictures. She's a wild girl and loves her rubber chicken, Nuggit. Sometimes she'll talk to him and making him respond.

When she comes over to visit, mom collects all the postcards and locks them in a safe in the attic. She also puts postcards in the kitchen. I think mom is a bit nervous about them because we get notes from her saying that somehow

One of the people that she lives with, Melissa and h

I'm a Junior, Carolyn is a 8th grader, and Alainna i

As soon as I walk into the school I see Alainna walk

□Sam! Don't do that to me!□ She says.

We both hug and walk to biology.

□I see your wearing your knee high argyle socks again

□Don't I always?!□ I say laughing.

I dressed today in a pink V-neck shirt with a red un

When we get to biology we find a seat next to each other. We get bored and start signing sign language to each other.

"Hey, how's your new kittens?" I sign to her.

"They're good. They're all orange and fluffy. I know. I love the tiny orange poof balls!" She signs back giggling.

"Hey Alainna, what's brown and sticky?"

It takes her awhile to answer. "Ewww!!! I can't believe you asked that!" She makes a disgusted face.

"Ewww, Alainna I can't believe you would think of that!" I sign. "That's pretty obvious!"

"Ha ha very funny Sam."

"Oh! I got another one."

"Oh great" She rolls her eyes and stifles a giggle.

"Why did the chicken cross the road?"

"To get to the other side?"

□Nope, to get to your house.□

□Okay...□

□Knock knock.□

□Who's there?□

□The chicken!□

□Whoa! Creepy!□

□Samantha Fox, Alainna Norland...□ We both shoot our heads down, thinking the teacher has caught us not paying attention. □Someone talking on the intercom. □And Carolyn Norland is talking to the principal's office now.□

Alainna and I both look at each other trying to think of a way to get out of our seats and leave the classroom. We both look at the principal's office.

When we open the door Carolyn is already there sitting on the floor. We both sit down next to her. Carolyn looks every now and then at the principal's office. We've pulled her in here. We've pulled her in here.

There's someone else in the room but it's not the person I was expecting. He is wearing a black tee shirt, tan cargo jeans and he's wearing sunglasses. I can't see his eyes. He has dark brown hair that almost looks like it's dyed. He is very handsome and looks no more than 18 years old.

"Hello girls, my name is Four. I need you to get all your stuff out of your lockers and desks. Your parents know about this. We all look at each other not so sure about what to do. I'll tell you about your older sisters and you. If you need anything, just ask. I'll make sure everything I saying is true feel free. I'll be back in ten minutes. Please don't be late in the room."

We sit there all trying to process what just happened.

"Does anyone know who that was!?!?" Carolyn asks.

"No" says Alaina.

They both look at me. I'm too stunned to say anything. I don't know what to do. Carolyn is not sure what to do. Carolyn is not sure what to do.

I slowly say with a blank stare, "I don't know, it's like I've seen him somewhere before. But it's just a memory from when I was a toddler. Let's call our parents and find out."

"Huummm... Interesting. I'll call first." Say Alaina.

As Alainna calls her mom and dad, Carolyn tries to m

When Alainna gets done talking to her parents she te

We tried to pack as fast as we could but we were sti

but I'm finding it very hard to breath and my mind is hard to focus.

"Would any of you like something to drink?" Four ask.

No one says anything or moves. The good thing is if I can out number him. Though he looks very strong. I don't feel able to take him out. No, don't psych myself out, I can't.

"Okay if you don't want anything then I'll get on with it. Do you know about your sisters?"

It takes awhile before anyone says anything. Alainna says, "They live together with three other people."

"Okay. Do you know where they live?"

We all look at each other then Alainna says, "Ummm..."

"Okay, anything else?"

"They travel around the world often." I say.

"And how do you know this?"

"Because they send me postcards."

“Is that all?”

We look at each other. The truth is they don't talk much. When I ask Bethany a question only if it's real it, but mostly she changes the subject especially if I ask about the past.

“I thought as much. Well at least we know they're honest about the bargain.” He says and reaches over for a can of soda.

We all stiffen. Ready for anything.

“Your sisters are spies and so are the other people in the room.”

Okay maybe I wasn't ready for everything because this is the first time I've been in a room with so many people. It's not just me that it catches of guard, Alainna looks surprised but Carolyn looks very angry. Now I'm afraid of her. I'm afraid she's going to slap someone at any moment. I'm glad A
