

SCRUM MASTERY IN A NUTSHELL

Written and illustrated by

Bjorn van den Einden

Special thanks to everyone that provided feedback and helped me to get this on paper!

Meet Sam, Sam is a Scrum Master. Plenty of people know Sam nowadays. Many people believe everyone can be like Sam. Some even get tired of people like Sam. However, there are many misconceptions about Sam.

Organizations and managers sometimes appoint a Sam because 'it is required'. Other times they need a Sam, just to have one point of contact with the team. Some people want Sam's job because they think it gives them power over the team or status towards management. Other people want Sam's job because they think it is about managing the work. In short, few people understand what Sam is all about.

So, let's take a look at what drives Sam, who he is, what he does and what his responsibilities are, and why Sam is such a busy man.

