

The Upanishad of Infinite Egolessness

© Chinmoy Mukherjee 2026–2046. No part of this document may be used without the author's express written permission.

This is a work of fiction. All characters, events, and places are entirely fictional, and any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead, or actual events is purely coincidental.

The Upanishad of Infinite Egolessness

Introduction: The Threshold of the Unnamable

1. The Foundational Invocation: Transcending Light, Awareness, and Ego
 2. Transcending Knowledge and Truth
 3. Transcending Bliss and Realization
 4. Transcending Discernment and Choice
 5. Transcending the Final Negation (Neti Neti)
 6. Transcending the Mahāvākyas (I am Brahman)
 7. Transcending the Witness (The Two Birds)
 8. Transcending the Search
 9. Transcending Fullness
 10. Transcending Renunciation
 11. Transcending Dimensional Vastness
 12. Transcending Universal Vision
 13. Transcending Control (The Chariot Metaphor)
 14. Transcending Cause and Effect
 15. Transcending Higher Knowledge
 16. Transcending Being and Non-Being
 17. Transcending the Formless
 18. Transcending Creation and the Creator (The Spider and Web)
 19. Transcending the Infinite
 20. Transcending Immortality
 21. Transcending Bondage and Liberation
 22. Transcending the Inner Divine
 23. Transcending Origin and Dissolution
- Conclusion: The Dissolution of the Path

Introduction: The Threshold of the

Unnamable

For millennia, the spiritual seeker has relied on sacred invocations to navigate the journey of awakening. Traditional mantras guide the soul from darkness to light, from ignorance to truth, and from death to immortality. However, there remains a final frontier—a threshold where even the highest spiritual concepts, the most divine realizations, and the very identity of the seeker must be entirely surrendered.

The Upanishad of Infinite Egolessness (Anantanirahamkāropanishad) is a text of ultimate transcendence. It is not merely a guide to spiritual awakening; it is a systematic dismantling of every construct the mind holds sacred. The twenty-three verses contained within these pages serve as a ladder of profound negation and supreme liberation. They do not just ask us to abandon the negative—such as ego, vengeance, and limitation—but also challenge us to release the positive—knowledge, bliss, oneness, and even the cherished realization of Aham Brahmasmi (I am Brahman).

In this text, you will notice the deliberate absence of the traditional closing invocation, Om Shanti (Peace). This omission is not an oversight, but a vital teaching: in the absolute, boundless void, there is no duality left to require peace, no disturbance to be quieted, and no 'I' remaining to experience it.

As you read these verses, do not merely intellectualize them. Let them act as a solvent, gently dissolving the boundaries of your perception. Step beyond the known, beyond the seeker, and beyond the Infinite itself, into the effortless embrace of pure, unnamable existence.

1. The Foundational Invocation:

Transcending Light, Awareness, and Ego

वैरात् मा क्षमां गमय ।
ज्योतिषो मा ज्योतिस्तमसोरतीतं गमय ।
एकाग्रताया मा ध्यानातीतं गमय ।
बोधात् मा बोधातीतं गमय ।