TALLAHASSEE – The Florida League of Cities proudly announces that Scott Dudley has been promoted to Director of its Legislative Affairs Department.

Dudley has worked for the League since October 2002 and previously served as senior legislative advocate and associate director of legislative affairs.

“I have worked in the legislative field more than 25 years for a wide range of clients and interests. Promoting municipal home rule and representing the interests of municipal governments at the state and federal levels is the most satisfying and challenging work I have ever done,” Dudley said. “I am excited and honored that the Florida League of Cities selected me to lead the excellent Legislative Team we have assembled here.”

Dudley is active in a variety of civic organizations including Leadership Tallahassee, the Guardian ad Litem program and Habitat for Humanity and has staffed the League’s Transportation; Urban Administration; Energy and Environmental Quality; and Intergovernmental Relations committees. He was also named the 2010 Florida League of Cities Employee of the Year.

He and his team are busy preparing for the upcoming legislative session.

“We will be dealing with municipal pension reform, economic development, water quality and supply, and a variety of other issues important to the 410 municipalities the League represents,” Dudley said.

The Legislative Affairs Department develops and implements the League’s legislative agenda and directing the League’s state and federal advocacy efforts for its membership.

Founded in 1922, the Florida League of Cities is the united voice for Florida’s municipal governments. Its goals are to promote local self-government and serve the needs of Florida’s cities. Florida’s cities are formed by their citizens and governed by their citizens. The League is founded on the belief that local self-government is the keystone of American democracy.
