Mike Fasano Endorses John Legg for State Senate

Port Richey ~ “Now more than ever we need elected leaders who have the political courage, legislative insight, and principled leadership to fight for our conservative values. I can think of no greater person to succeed me in the State Senate and fight for the people of Florida than John Legg.” states Sen. Mike Fasano. “I have known John for over 20 years and have worked alongside him in protecting our seniors, our families and our conservative values. John is a Jeb Bush education reformer, a consumer advocate and a true fiscal and social conservative. I look forward to helping him become the next State Senator from Pasco.”

John Legg is running for State Senate District 11 which currently is being held by Sen. Mike Fasano who is leaving the State Senate due to term limits. John Legg is a leader in the community serving on a countless number of civic and community boards. John is the co-founder of Dayspring Academy School which has been one of the highest performing schools since inception, receiving an A rating every year. John Legg is a life long Republican who is Speaker Pro-Tempore of the Florida House of Representatives and currently represents House District 46. John has his Associates Degree from Pasco Hernando Community College, and his Bachelors and Masters of Public Administration from the University of South Florida. John is married to Suzanne Legg and has five children.
