A United Way Tradition

For over a decade, United Way representatives from Paris ISD and North Lamar ISD have pledged a donation to the United Way based upon the outcome of the annual Crosstown Showdown game. In addition to the donation, the loser must wear the jersey of the winning team for a day.

This year, the two school superintendents took the challenge. Superintendent Paul Jones welcomed North Lamar superintendent John McCullough to the district as he put on a Paris Wildcat football jersey and shook hands with Assistant Superintendent Robert High who is a United Way board member.
