ADMINISTRATION

Superintendent's Message

The good work of the pupils and the fine co-operation and splendid attitude of the faculty and parents have brought to a close another successful school year at the Fayetteville Rural High School for the year, 1951-52.

What a community thinks of its children is reflected in the kind of schools it provides for them. Compare our school with any small school of its size and you will find that this community has amply provided a school of which we feel proud.

May the school relations that you have formed here lead to good relations in your community in whatever place you may live.

Sincerely yours.

Class Will Of 52 From Us To You

We, the seniors of 1952, having minds and bodies, do hereby and hereon, will and bequeath as follows: to wit:

Elmond Baumbach wills his technique of complaining, which gets him nowhere, to Jimmy Sarrazin.

Percy Pudloff wills his ability of playing baseball to J. O. Koehl, our next "Home Run King".

Jesse Coufal wills his ability of finding a sweetheart and keeping her to Jesse Lee Wied and Gladys Mae Rodiek.

Ivan Kaltwasser wills his way with the girls to Lowe Lang Galle.

Alfred Cordes wills his studious habits and great memory to Gloria Baca.

Cleburn Lincke wills his spelling ability to Genelle Obermueller.

Aljos Keilers wills his toughness to Alex Wied and Leo Eilers.

Eddie Krivacka wills his industrious ways to Juliann Blaha and Bessie Holub.

Valerian Chovanec wills her streamlined handwriting to Ruby Jo Norwood.

Class Prophecy

I got up and tore off yesterday from the face of the office calendar, which read February 17, 1962, courtesy of the Brook~~s~~ Morning News. I went to my desk where the little white card read CORDES and sat down. I went into my top drawer for my glasses and found a letter for my boss from the Abblain Law Firm. I got the assignment so off I went.

I walked into the big office building and gathered the story from the big whig, PERCY L. RUDLOFF. He shoved the secretary from his lap and gave me his side of the story. A sudden squealing of tires and a crashing blast echoed through the building. I grabbed my papers and ran into the street. A siren blasted its sharp warning and the patrol car driven by IVAN KALTWASSER skidded to a stop. I rode with him to the hospital and got a real story. Intern EDDIE KRIVACKA wheeled the victim inside of the hospital. With the help of EDDIE, I got inside to get the victim's story and learned his identity.

JESSE CAUFAL, who had been in a wreck, looked very disgusted as he peered between the white covers of the hospital bed. He told the investigators that "Where I come from there are no red lights". The cattle king from San Saba left his trusty steed, a new Cadillac at the garage. He was only shaken up, so he went out and bought himself a new one.

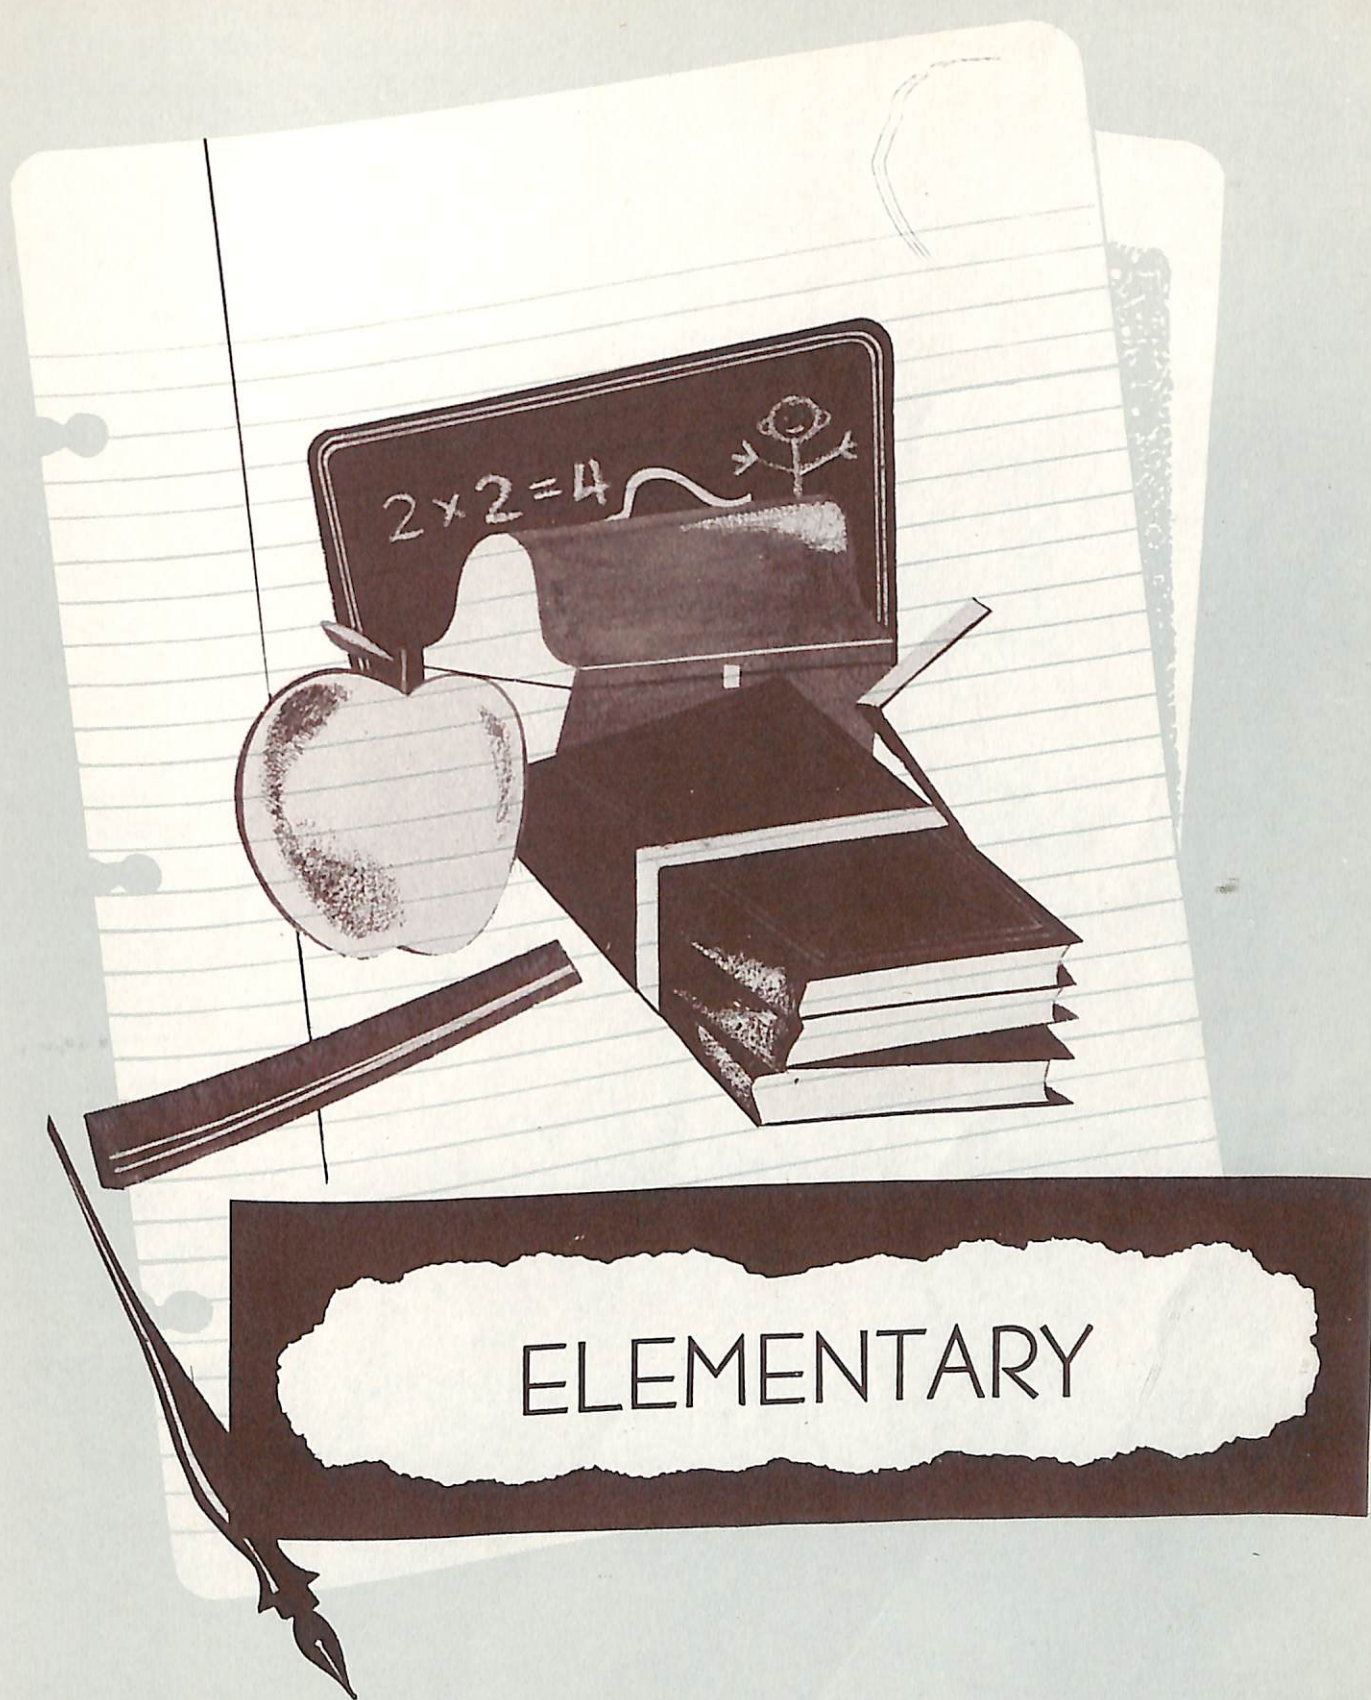

The next assignment took me to the Keiler's School of Dancing for Girls. ALOIS KEILERS was rehearsing his new pupils for Saturday night's recital. He was always a lady's man so he didn't mind his work.

An out-of-town assignment took me to the site of a new chemical plant which was being erected. The sound of a loud voice barking at his workers turned my head and ELMOND BAUMBACH was pushing the construction crew at top speed.

On the way back to town, I stopped at a new gas station CLEBURN LINCKE, in a neat uniform, stepped out of his station and filled my car.

VALERIAN CHOVANEC of the Lake Oaks Country Club informed me of the annual Masquerade Ball.

Back in the office I pounded the keys of my battered typewriter until the clear cut call of my boss sent me out on another story.

F. F. A. News

The Fayetteville Future Farmers of America Chapter Number 592, was led during the 1951-52 year by its aggressive president, Lowe Lang Galle, who was ably assisted by a group of enthusiastic and cognizant officers.

They proposed to have and had its annual bar-b-q at Brendle's Park. The guests were the honorary members and the boys' dates. Some of the other activities included a Father and Son Banquet, Barn Dance, and a movie held at Dawn Theatre. Since the tour was omitted last year due to a financial reason, a longer and a more enjoyable one is anticipated this year.

The boys also participated in some livestock shows; namely, the Fayette County Fair, Houston Fat Stock Show and Livestock Exposition, San Antonio Fat Stock Show, and the Junior Livestock Show in La Grange. Some of the different ribbons won at different shows are as follows; Fayette County Fair--seventeen blue ribbons and thirteen red ribbons. At San Antonio--two second place ribbons and one fifth and one eleventh.

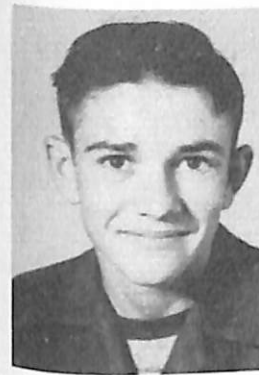

At the Houston Livestock Show and Fat Stock Exposition Alios Keilers won a $100 cash award for his scramble calf, which he caught at the 1951 show showing the most gain per month. The Dairy Judging Team won third out of the 150 teams participating. The team was presented a banner by the one and only Roy Rogers. The boys also got to shake his hand. The team was composed of Lowe Lang Galle, Paul Burnside, and J. O. Koehl.

The chapter entered two quiz teams, Junior and Senior, in the District Leadership contests. Junior and Senior Farm Demonstration teams also participated but lost out.

The chapter is planning to enter the area judging contests. There will be several teams qualifying. The teams qualifying will be the Meats, Poultry, Milk Products, Dairy, Livestock, and Soil Conservation. The boys have high hopes of some teams winning the Area and State Meets.

The chapter purchased a calf which is being fattened by Jesse Lee Wied free of charge. If it places high, the chapter will prosper greatly by this. The chapter also purchased a gilt and is being fattened by J. O. Koehl, also the work is being done free of charge.

The boys have very promising plans and if all comes out as planned, they may declare the year of 1951-52 the most successful of all past years and years to come.

Baseball

The Fayetteville Lions baseball team started the year with all but one letterman returning. The Lions started working out early under the coaching of Harry Meyer. The boys are hoping to win district and even go farther in the play-offs. The strongest opponent which the Lions are sure of beating is Round Top-Carmine. Elmond Baumbach and Percy Rudloff have been chosen team Co-captains. The team has power in the batting lineup and a smooth fielding infield. All the players are enthusiastic and if injuries don't mar the roster, the Lions of '52 should "go to town".
