2002 Revised School Academic Performance Index (API) Scores

The information below presents revised API scores for 2002, reflecting changes in the API calculations require by No Child Left Behind. Revised baseline scores will allow for meaningful comparisons between 2002 and 2003 scores and data.

Academic Performance Index (API)

JUSTICE PUBLIC SCHOOL has an API of 1056 for Regular Education Students which is above the state average of 1000. The Goal of 100% Proficiency (equivalent to an API of 1500) is to be achieved by 2013-2014.

The API is a numeric score that measures school and district performance based on a variety of educational indicators.

The API Scale ranges from 0-1500 with 1000 the State average for regular education students.

The Benchmarks for 2001-2002 are:
Math - 648 Reading - 622

Percent of students tested must also be 95% or greater.

All student groups are required to reach the benchmarks for 2001-2002.

Numbers indicated in blue have not made the benchmark for 2001-2002.

In compliance with federal legislation, this report contains new baseline data and scores that are not comparable with the 2000-2001 reports.
