Did you know there is now a new music room? It is part of a remodeling of the old elementary gym. The entire space now consists of the music room and a new science laboratory, which is still being developed. The old locker rooms have been transformed into fully functioning restrooms. I had the privilege of visiting the new classroom and letting the music teacher, Mrs. Cote, explain the features of the new room, most notably the acoustics.

The new classroom has sound panels that keep sounds from echoing by absorbing them. The roof is specially designed with many angles to equally distribute sound so everyone in the room can hear it.

There is better air-conditioning and it is a great haven for those who are into music. For anyone who has ever been in the old music classroom, it is obvious that the new classroom is a grand improvement.
