

Superintendent Report
November 28, 2016

The schools continue to move forward with instruction at the forefront. Our math curriculum continues to be strong, yet a challenge at the same time. As we predicted, test scores fell just a little, but should be rebounding soon. Once our students have three years under their belt, the score should start the slow climb up. Now that our curriculum is closer to the expectations of the state standards, we will test better in the future.

Once we return from the Thanksgiving holiday, many winter activities will begin their competition. Once this has begun they will be in full force until the first of March. Please check the calendar for updates as we move through the winter.

The inservice January will be a shared inservice with Eudora and Baldwin. It will showcase the Commissioner of Education, along with staff members from the three districts giving clinics. Eudora will host this event. I am looking forward to the day.

Christmas in Wellsville will be hosted here on the first weekend in December. There is always a big crowd and many people get to see our high school. Always a pack house.
