MIGRANT EDUCATION PROGRAM

What is the Migrant Education Program?

Migrant Education is a national program that provides supplemental instructional and support services to eligible migrant children each year.

Migrant children and youth have many needs that require specialized help and services. In order to meet the needs of this unique group of children the Migrant Education Program was established in 1966 by an amendment to Title I Public Law 89-10.

Who are migrant workers?

Migrant workers seek temporary or seasonal work in agriculture, fishing, or related industries. They follow the growing seasons across the country and are largely responsible for the cultivation and harvest of fruits, vegetables, and many other food products.

The average income of many migrant families is below the national poverty line.

The migrant population is made up of diverse ethnic groups. In Arkansas, Hispanics and Whites make up the largest groups with Southeast Asians, African American, and other racial and ethnic groups completing the remainder of the migrant population. While many migrant families consider Arkansas to be their home base, others come from Texas, California, Florida, Mexico, and many other states and countries.

Why give specialized help to migrant children and youth?

- Migrants follow the growing seasons or work at jobs that are temporary.
- Migrant families may move several times during the school year, interrupting the student's education as well as their lives.
- Migrant labor often involves having a low-income job.
- Conditions related to the migrant lifestyle may cause a high incidence of health problems.
- Migrant children and youth may have limited English skills and/or few successful experiences in school.

These problems, combined with irregular school attendance, may produce an overall frustration and low academic performance. The result is that a large percentage of migrant teens drop out of school. Since they are poorly prepared for and have little knowledge of other kinds of work, migrant youth face a high risk of unemployment or part of the migrant work force.

The goal of the Migrant Education Program is to ensure that all migrant students:

- Achieve challenging academic standards
- Overcome difficulties related to the migrant lifestyle
- Develop self-confidence and self-esteem.
- Graduate with a high school diploma or complete a General Equivalency Diploma (GED)
- Develop skills that prepare them for responsible citizenship, further learning, and productive employment
