

Thesis Statements

GOOD NEWS EVERYONE

What is a thesis statement?

- A thesis statement is the main idea of an essay.
- It is often a point you want to argue or support in an essay.

SO

- The thesis statement explains to a reader the main idea of the essay, and the writer's opinion on that idea. (NOT persuasive)

What is a thesis statement?

- A thesis statement is usually one sentence.
- It is often placed in the introductory paragraph of an essay.
- A thesis statement is a claim that could be argued.
- The essay will contain evidence and opinions that support the argument.

Thesis statements avoid the following:

- the first person (I believe, In my opinion, etc.)
- unclear language (It seems, etc.)
- attempting two topics at once (even if they seem related). Pick one and stick with it.
- just stating a fact - A thesis is something you plan to make an argument about.

A thesis statement should

- contain a topic (main idea of what you are writing about)
- contain an opinion about the topic (what your attitude is toward the topic)
- Contain key star ideas / blueprint (what you will write about in your essay)

Read the following quotation.

Topic?

- The “Topic” is the short 1-2 word idea that you will be writing about.

Take risks. Ask big questions. Don't be afraid to make mistakes; if you don't make mistakes, you're not reaching far enough.

—David Packard, co-founder of Hewlett-Packard

Taking a risk means acting without knowing whether the outcome will be good.
Think carefully about this statement.

Write an essay explaining why it is sometimes necessary to take a chance.

Be sure to —

- clearly state your thesis
- organize and develop your ideas effectively
- choose your words carefully
- edit your writing for grammar, mechanics, and spelling
