Second Grade Studies George Washington Carver

Mrs. Patton's second grade class studied the research of George Washington Carver as they read about his life in reading.

Students learned about his investigation into the wide uses of peanuts. They created their own peanut butter in much of the same manner as Mr. Carver (with the exception of Mrs. Patton's modern-day blender.) The peanut butter they did not eat was placed in pine cones and rolled in seed for birdfeeders.

“Annie Jr.” Cast Attends Theater

In case you didn't know, our own Ms. Gray is working with elementary through high school students to perform the musical “Annie Jr.” The production will be on the Indianhoma stage later this spring.

In December, Ms. Gray arranged for all cast members to get a taste of live theater by taking them to see Lawton Community Theater's “A Christmas Story.” Students loaded a bus for dinner and a musical, and had a great time. They were treated to the talents of Indianhoma High's own Hope Gray. Hope is a junior, and has performed in past Lawton Community Theater productions to include “Gypsy.” She played many roles in “A Christmas Story” and the students were very excited to see her each time she entered the stage (once with a disembodied leg, during the leg-lamp scene.) Hope will play Miss Hannigan in “Annie Jr.”

The students were exceptionally well behaved and a good time was had by all. Our students make taking them on trips a real joy.

Please make plans to support our students and music program by attending “Annie Jr.” this spring!

Sometimes Learning is All Fun and Games

Play is the work of a child and Pre-kindergarten students at Indianhoma Elementary take their work seriously.

Max McClung shows off the bicycle he created from interlocking pieces during free play. He got the idea from a picture on the box. Max said he made his sister Logan's bike because she had a big bike.
