This diverse group of universities and junior colleges brought students into contact with public, private, multi-denominational Christian, secular, large, small, medium, liberal arts, and other type higher education institutions. The variety of schools was intended to provide our students with a greater optic and understanding of what is available to them within close and relatively close driving distances from their homes. This understanding took into account distance, cost, availability of scholarships, clubs, focus areas, athletics and more. Students were required each day to review the literature provided them on the particular higher education institutions and draft ten questions that they would want to ask during their visit. Every student was involved in asking these questions on campus and the admissions counselors and school administrators were highly complimentary of their preparedness and knowledge of higher education. In order to participate in the trip (which was scheduled as quickly as possible to "fill the gap" due to our school being out for two weeks), calls, texts and emails were provided to all students in Grade 12 initially in order to encourage their attendance. After all seniors had an opportunity to respond, the same process was used for our junior class. The trips filled up within 48 hours. With two remaining spots available on the final trip day, two sophomores were selected who had written in those two schools listed for the final trip day as top choices during the College Fair in December. Pictures from a few of the tours are below.

Our character pillar for the month of February is Responsibility

"Responsibility finds a way.
Irresponsibility makes excuses!"

Possible Inclement Weather Days!!!

Parents will be notified through the school messenger text and Facebook, if the school goes virtual on inclement weather days.

Students must check in with their teacher daily! It is the students responsibility to do their assignments on the assigned days. Many of the JH/HS teachers are not accepting late work. Please be diligent!
