Eagle News

Enid Public Schools and Eisenhower Elementary have adopted Great Expectations for our Character Development program. In case you are not familiar with GE here is a little background information. The mission of Great Expectations is to motivate, inspire, and challenge individuals to achieve excellence in learning and living. The GE model is guided by six principles: high expectations, teacher attitude and responsibility, a belief that all children can learn, building self-esteem, a climate of mutual respect, and teacher knowledge and skill. We are excited to implement the GE model throughout our school this year.

ATTENDANCE:

Just want parents to be aware of the Enid Public School's Attendance Policy. Students must attend school 90% of the school year to be promoted to the next grade level. That means students can miss a maximum of 7 day 1st semester and/or 8 days the second semester before a retention meeting with parents is mandatory. Regular attendance is critical to helping your child excel and succeed in their academics. We appreciate your help with this.
