

Refusal of Entry or Ejection of Unauthorized Persons

School administrators, school resource officers and school district peace officers may refuse entry to or eject a person from district property if the person refuses to leave peaceably on request and:

- The person poses a substantial risk of harm to any person: or
- The person behaves in a manner that is inappropriate for school setting and:
 - The administrator, resource officer or peace officer issue a verbal warning to the person that the person's behavior is inappropriate and may result in the person's refusal of entry or ejection; and
 - The person persists in the inappropriate behavior.

When refusing entry to or eject a person from district property the district shall provide the person with a written notice explaining how to appeal the district's decision to refuse entry to or eject the person from district property.

The term of any refusal of entry or ejection from school property may not exceed two years. If the person refused entry or ejected from district property is a parent or guardian of a student, the district must accommodate the parent or guardian to ensure that they may still participate in the child's ARD committee and /or Section 504 meetings.

District's must maintain a record of each verbal warning issued to district visitors under this procedure, to include the name of the person receiving the warning and the date the warning was issued.
