

Jonathan Gully, MD

gullyjt@mail.uc.edu ♦ (513) 907-0293
305 Klotter Avenue, Cincinnati, OH 45219

Medical Education:

University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, Cincinnati, OH
August, 2007 – June, 2011
M.D. – June, 2011

Undergraduate Education:

Miami University, Oxford, OH
Business Economics, Pre-Medical Studies
August, 2001– August, 2006
B.S. – May, 2004

Residency Training:

Family Medicine Resident
MacNeal Memorial Hospital, Berwyn, IL
June, 2011 – June 2014

Certifications:

Board Certified in Family Medicine
American Board of Family Medicine
Initial Certification- June, 2014
Recertification: 2017 and 2020

Current Position:

Mercy Health Springdale Family Medicine
Cincinnati, OH
Primary Care Physician
October 2017 to present

Previous Positions:

Northwest Community Hospital
Arlington Heights, IL
Immediate Care physician
July 2014 to December 2016

Unity Point Health
Peoria, IL
Immediate Care physician, locums
February-August 2017

Research Experience:

Cincinnati Children's Hospital, Cincinnati, OH
Research Fellow/ Research Assistant, Xiaonan Han
June, 2008 – August, 2008

Publications:

Peer Reviewed Journal Articles/ Abstracts

- Han X, Gilbert S, Groschwitz K, Hogan S, Urickova I, Trapnell B, Samson C, Gully J. Loss of GM-CSF Signaling in Non-Haematopoietic Cells Increases NSAID Ileal Injury. Gut. 2010 Aug; 59(8): 1066-1078
- Han X, Gilbert S, Jurickova I, Samson C, Gully J, Willson T, Denson L. Autocrine Intestinal Epithelial Cell GM-CSF Signaling Promotes Homeostatic Responses to Gut Injury. Gastroenterology. 2009 May; 136(5): A-81