Dr. Alexander Marmureanu, a distinguished board-certified Thoracic and Cardiovascular surgeon, is the founder and CEO of the California Heart & Lung Surgery Medical Center. His dedication to providing compassionate, impactful, patient-centered care is the cornerstone of his practice, while his personal journey inspires all who encounter him.

Born in Romania to a family of physicians, Dr. Marmureanu was immersed in the medical world early on. He learned by example the traits vital for a top-tier surgeon: poise under pressure and adaptability.

He further honed these attributes during his military service in the Romanian special forces and leading both Mountain and Sea Rescue teams. After the Romanian revolution, Dr. Marmureanu fulfilled his goal of moving west. He trained at NYU and Mount Sinai Medical Center before joining UCLA Medical Center.

Currently, Dr. Marmureanu runs a busy cardiothoracic surgery practice in Los Angeles, performing over 300 procedures annually. He demonstrates a passion for patient care, a commitment to continuous learning and precision in his work, even in the most challenging, complex situations.

“The chance to save lives is what fuels my passion for cardiothoracic surgery” says Dr. Marmureanu, who has pioneered minimally invasive surgical techniques, authored research papers, and been an invited speaker worldwide. Committed to community service, he leads medical outreach programs locally while training other surgeons and performing pro-bono surgeries internationally.

Acknowledged among Los Angeles Magazine’s 2024 Top Doctors, Dr. Marmureanu prioritizes service, compassion, and excellence in his surgical practice, serving as an inspiration for colleagues and patients alike.
