

BIG SOUTH CONFERENCE FOOTBALL HISTORY

For 20 years, Big South Conference football has grown from a small start-up league into a national player in the FCS landscape, and has enjoyed a decade of remarkable and historic achievements since becoming an AQ conference in 2010, including:

- Five appearances in the FCS quarterfinals in a six-season span from 2013-18
- The No. 1-ranked FCS program in the nation in 2014 and 2015
- Three National Seeds in the FCS Playoffs
- Multiple playoff teams five times
- Eight seasons with a playoff victory since 2010
- Six FBS victories
- 113-82 record (=57.9 percent) against non-conference FCS opponents since 2013
- Jerry Rice National Freshman of the Year award winner (2017) and twice runner-up for the Walter Payton National Player of the Year award (2012 & 2018)
- Three teams ranked in the national Top 25 polls in the same week twice (2014 and 2015)
- 83 consecutive weeks with a nationally-ranked member from Week 9 of 2011 to Week 6 of 2017
- Multiple nationally-ranked programs in the same week 53 times since 2013, including two Top 10 teams for the first time in 2015
- Six seasons with an NFL Draft pick, including league-record three selections in 2014

The growth of Big South football has been exceptional since its inception 20 seasons ago -- and especially in the last decade alone. The formidable years of 2002-05 with just five members featured historic feats -- including the league's first win over the nation's No. 1 team in 2005 -- that set the tone for the future. The Big South's first true breakthrough onto the national scene occurred in 2006 when league champion Coastal Carolina became the first member to advance to the postseason when the Chanticleers received an at-large berth in the 16-team NCAA Division I Football Championship.

At that same time, the league progressed closer to cementing its status as a viable football conference as well as the coveted automatic bid to the NCAA postseason. Big South administrators earned appointments to national NCAA committees starting in 2006, membership growth in 2008 (Presbyterian College and Stony Brook) vaulted the league above the six-team requirement for automatic playoff entry, plus consistent nationally-ranked programs, notable non-conference victories, national award finalists and the league's first-ever NFL Draft picks (2007 and 2008) accelerated the conference's national profile. All the successes and efforts came to fruition in the spring of 2008 when the NCAA announced the expansion of the FCS Playoffs from 16 to 20 teams in 2010, and granted the Big South an automatic bid starting that year -- boosting the conference into a new stratosphere.

Big South Conference football came into existence in the Fall of 2002 after a long and arduous process. Football had always been a long range goal of the conference. In the early 1990s, football seemed on the horizon in the Big South, as Charleston Southern fielded its first team in 1991 and the conference added Liberty, which was already playing on the gridiron. However, football never got off the ground in the early part of the decade as other issues came to the forefront, including the Big South's emergence as a basketball conference. The league was awarded its first automatic bid to the NCAA men's basketball championship in 1992 and football was put on the back burner while basketball began to flourish.

The idea was revived in 1997 when Elon joined the Big South. That gave the conference three full-time members with football programs -- half the number needed to be recognized as a conference by the NCAA. Two years later on Nov. 10, 1999, Coastal Carolina announced it would add football by the Fall of 2003. The wheels were set in motion to establish a conference home for the league's football-playing members.

After attempts to form a joint football conference with the ASUN Conference failed, the Big South began recruiting more members to join its fledgling football league. On May 23, 2001, the original dream became a reality when the Big South's Council of Chief Executive Officers voted unanimously to add football as the conference's 18th championship sport.

Shortly after the approval of football, the Big South's recruiting efforts paid off, as the addition of Gardner-Webb as an associate football member was announced on June 20, 2001. There were hopes that a four-team league could begin play later that Fall, but scheduling conflicts could not be worked out and the Fall of 2002 was designated as the inaugural kickoff for Big South Football. The Big South continued to look for additional members, with a goal of eventually having seven or eight. On Dec. 10, 2001, Virginia Military Institute, announced it would join the Big South in all sports in 2003 and maintain the conference's football membership at five following Elon's departure.

Playoff success was immediate and propelled the conference to new heights -- notably an 18-point comeback win in 2011, three consecutive FCS Quarterfinal appearances from 2013-15, two national seeds (2014-15), as well as the league's first No. 1 nationally-ranked program. While the inevitable trickle-down impact of conference realignment and other factors reached the Big South with the departures of Stony Brook, VMI, and Presbyterian, as well as Coastal Carolina and Liberty moving to FBS, the Big South remained prosperous. During this time, the league added Monmouth (2014), Kennesaw State (2015), Campbell (2018) and North Alabama (2019). Further expansion brought Hampton into the league in 2019, and in a four-month span in 2020, Big South Football announced the additions of North Carolina A&T (February) and Robert Morris (June) -- pushing the conference to an all-time high nine-playing members in this, the conference's 20th season of football sponsorship.

With its seismic growth, ongoing success and multiple playoff-caliber programs, the Big South remains a major national competitor in FCS football with an everlasting eye on the ultimate prize -- a National Championship.

ABOUT THE 2020-21 SEASON ...

On Aug. 12, 2020, the Big South Conference the Big South Conference announced that with the health and well-being of its student-athletes as its top priority, the league was delaying its fall sports seasons with the intent of playing in the spring due to the ongoing impacts of the coronavirus pandemic.

The Big South Football Membership voted to allow up to four non-conference games in the fall at institutional discretion, and Campbell and North Alabama competed in the fall 2020 season. On Nov. 9, the conference released plans to conduct a spring 2021 season, in accordance with the Conference's and NCAA's Return to Competition COVID-19 Guidelines to ensure the safety of all participants.

Charleston Southern, Gardner-Webb, Kennesaw State, Monmouth and new associate member Robert Morris committed to play a four-game Big South slate. Campbell and North Alabama opted out of the spring season, while Hampton had suspended all sport activities in July and would not play football in the spring.

While the league endured several postponements and eventual cancellations, it was still able to play the minimum games to crown a champion and participate in the FCS Playoffs.

BIG SOUTH FCS PLAYOFF HISTORY

The Big South Conference made its first appearance in the FCS Playoffs in 2006 when Coastal Carolina received an at-large bid into the 16-team field. The league secured an automatic bid starting in 2010, and has enjoyed great success since -- including three consecutive trips to the Quarterfinals from 2013-15 and five overall. The Big South has received multiple bids five times in the 11 years as an AQ conference, has earned three national seeds and associated byes, and has advanced in the postseason 11 times in its 17 total appearances. The conference enters the 2021 campaign with a 12-17 all-time record in the postseason. Below is a look at the league's all-time year-by-year playoff history:

As part of the Big South's 30th Anniversary celebration in 2013-14, the conference announced its first-ever All-Decade Teams to recognize the student-athletes and coaches who excelled in their respective sport since the conference's founding in 1983. A committee of Big South Conference administrators served as the official voting panel to determine the All-Decade Teams, with fan voting comprising 20 percent of the overall total.

The Football All-Decade Teams are listed to the left in alphabetical order by position and features one quarterback, three running backs, four wide receivers, one tight end, five offensive linemen, four defensive linemen, four linebackers, four defensive backs, one placekicker, one punter, one long snapper, two kick return specialists and one head coach. In case of ties, additional honorees are added.

Football All-Decade Team candidates were determined based on being at least one of the following: 1) Was a multiple All-Conference honoree; 2) Was named an All-American; 3) Is a member of the Big South Conference Hall of Fame; 4) Student-athletes must be a college graduate or in good academic standing with their respective institution; 5) Won a Conference Championship as a coach and/or was voted Conference Coach of the Year. Candidates that participated in two different decades were placed in a specific decade based on consultation from member institutions. Member institutions also had final determination in regards to inclusion of student-athletes and coaches.

The next Football All-Decade Team will cover 2020-29.
