NCAA PREVIEW: BEARS SEEK EIGHTH NCAA TITLE
No. 8 Brown University women’s crew will make its 23rd straight appearance in the NCAA Championships and will aim for its eighth national title when the Bears compete in the 2019 NCAA Division I Women’s Rowing Championships at the Indianapolis Rowing Center at Eagle Creek Park in Indianapolis, Ind., from May 31 to June 2.

THE PATH TO A NATIONAL TITLE
The NCAA Division I Women’s Rowing Championships feature 22 teams, which compete for a national title based on a points system that weighs the finish of each boat in its respective race.

The championship begins with four heats for each of the three boats – the first varsity eight, second varsity eight, and varsity four – on Friday. The top two boats from each heat advance to the A/B semifinals while the remaining crews proceed to the repechage races on Friday afternoon. The top two crews from the repechages also advance to the A/B semifinals while the remainders are placed in the C/D semifinals.

From there, the top three boats in each of the A/B semifinals move onto the grand final with the remainder proceeding to the petite final. The top three crews in the C/D semifinals advance to the C final while the rest compete in the D final.

In the finals, each boat earns points based off its finish in its race, and the program with the most points between its three crews at the conclusion of all the races earns the title of NCAA Champion.

BROWN’S HEATS
Brown’s first varsity eight gained the No. 7 seed and will race in heat two on Friday, May 31 at 9:12 a.m., facing second-seeded Princeton, 10th-seeded Iowa, 15th-seeded Navy, and 18th-seeded UCF.

The Bears’ second varsity eight earned the No. 9 seed and will race in heat one on Friday, May 31 at 9:48 a.m., competing against top-seeded Washington, eighth-seeded Princeton, 16th-seeded UCF, and 17th-seeded Navy.

Brown’s A varsity four garnered the No. 8 seed and will race in heat one on Friday, May 31 at 10:36 a.m., meeting top-seeded Washington, ninth-seeded California, 16th-seeded Iowa, and 17th-seeded Radcliffe.
BRUNO AT THE NCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS

Head coach John Murphy has directed the Bears to all of those titles, and under his watch, Brown has finished in the top five of the championship in 17 of its previous 22 appearances and in the top 10 in 21 of those 22 appearances.

RETURNING TO THE HOOSIER STATE

AT THE IVY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP
Brown came in second place in the team standings in both the team points trophy standings and the NCAA automatic qualifier standings. The Bears came in second with 75 points trailing only Princeton (87) and eclipsing Yale (64), No. 16 Radcliffe (48), Penn (41), Dartmouth (28), Columbia (17), and Cornell (17).

All six of Brown's boats earned medals on the day with the first varsity eight, second varsity eight, and A varsity four all taking silver. The Bears’ C varsity four took gold while the B varsity four and third varsity eight both claimed bronze.

As a team Brown has finished in the top three of the Ivy standings in each of the last seven years. The Bears’ 1V8 has come in first or second in five of the last six seasons, the 2V8 has medaled in all eight Ivy championships since it began in 2012, and the AV4 has medaled in each of the last seven seasons.

The Bears’ BV4 earned a medal at Ivies for the sixth time in the last seven years, and the 3V8 garnered a medal for the seventh time in the last eight years. Brown’s CV4 won an Ivy title for the fourth straight season and gained a medal for the fifth time in the last seven years.

IN THE POLLS
Brown checks in at No. 8 nationally in the USRowing/CRCA Coaches Poll from May 23. No. 6 Princeton, No. 9 Yale, and No. 16 Radcliffe represent the other Ivy League schools in the poll. No. 1 Washington, No. 2 Stanford, and No. 3 California hold the top three spots in the rankings while No. 4 Texas, No. 5 Michigan, No. 7 Ohio State, and No. 10 Virginia round out the top 10. The top 16 teams in the rankings are all included in the NCAA field.

ALL-IVY ACCOLADES
Based off its second-place finish in the first varsity eight, Brown earned five All-Ivy honorees. Senior Sophie Paine (Freeport, Bahamas) and junior Louise Sommer (Evanston, Illinois) gained First Team All-Ivy honors while seniors Keenae Tiersma (Woodinville, Wash.) and Amy Tarczynski (Oakland, Calif.) as well as junior coxswain Anna Odell (Austin, Texas) garnered Second Team All-Ivy accolades. Sommer earned All-Ivy for the second time after collecting Second Team All-Ivy laurels in 2017.

MIDWEST REPRESENTATION
Brown does not carry any student-athletes on its roster from the state of Indiana, but junior Louise Sommer hails from neighboring Illinois and the city of Evanston. Moving just over the Illinois border to the west, sophomore Larissa Dorn came to the Bears from Missouri and the city of St. Louis.

GEOGRAPHY 101
With the NCAA Championships taking place in the Midwest in Indianapolis this season, Brown's seniors will have competed in four distinct areas of the country at NCAAs during their four years. In 2016, NCAAs took place on the West Coast in Gold River, Calif., in 2017 the championship moved to the Northeast in West Windsor, N.J., and in 2018 the event took place in the Southeast in Sarasota, Fla. Brown has not competed in the Midwest this season but did race at the Lake Natoma Invitational in Gold River, Calif., from Apr. 13-14.

THE BEARS’ RECORDS
Entering the NCAA Championships, Brown’s first varsity eight carries a 16-4 overall record, including a 9-3 regular season mark, 7-1 record at the Ivy League Championship, and 7-4 mark against ranked opponents. The second varsity eight brings a 15-5 overall mark with an 8-4 regular season record, 7-1 mark at the Ivy championship, and 6-5 record against ranked foes. The A varsity four holds an 18-2 overall record behind an 11-1 regular season mark, 7-1 record at the Ivy championship, and 8-2 mark against ranked teams.

FAMILIAR FOES
Brown has raced against six of the schools represented in the NCAA field thus far this season, including California, Ohio State, Princeton, Radcliffe, Stanford, and Yale. Against the field, the Bears’ first varsity eight brings a 6-4 record into the weekend, the second varsity eight carries a 5-5 mark, and the A varsity four holds a 7-2 record.

Brown’s 1996 Eastern Sprints Champs

HEAD COACH JOHN MURPHY

As he enters his 35th season as the head coach of the Brown women’s crew in 2018-19, John Murphy is considered the premier coach in the nation. Along with his wife, associate head coach Phoebe Murphy, he has won seven NCAA championships in the 22 seasons since the competition began. After winning the program’s first championship in 1999, Murphy and the Bears went on to win again in 2000, 2002, 2004, 2007, 2008 and 2011, an astonishing run of seven titles in 13 years. Murphy is also a six-time winner of the EAWRC Coach of the Year award, taking home the honor in 1988, 1996, 1999, 2000, 2002, and 2008.

In 2015, the Bears came in third at the NCAA Championships for the second straight season. Brown captured the first varsity eight race and the team trophy at the 2015 Ivy Championship for its ninth Ivy title all-time and first since 2008. Murphy won Ivy League Coach of the Year and CRCA Regional Coach of the Year honors. Murphy’s crew competed at both the Henley Women’s Regatta and the Henley Royal Regatta in the summer of 2015.

The Bears won their third and fourth straight Ivy team point trophies in 2016 and 2017 while making their 20th and 21st consecutive appearances at the NCAA Championships. Brown made its 22nd straight appearance at NCAAs in 2018 and recorded its 21st top-10 finish out of 22 championships. The Bears stand as one of three programs to compete in every NCAA Championship since its inception.

Brown placed third at the 2014 NCAA Championships on the strength of a silver medal finish in the varsity eight race. The Bears swept Ivy League competition during the regular season to secure the team’s first No. 1 national ranking since 2007, a position the crew maintained for five weeks. Brown won the team trophy at the Ivy Championship, accumulating the most overall points and finishing second in the varsity eight race. The successful season earned Murphy his fourth CRCA New England Region Coach of the Year award and an induction into the CRCA Hall of Fame.

In 2011, the Bears showed a true team effort, coming from behind to end in a virtual tie with Stanford in the final event. Thanks to Brown’s higher finish in the varsity eight race (less than a second difference) the Bears were awarded their seventh national championship crown while under the tutelage of the Murphy’s.

Murphy was recognized by US Rowing with the Fan’s Choice Award for the National Collegiate Coach of the Year 2011, presented at the inaugural Golden Oars Awards Dinner at the New York Athletic Club.

In 2008 the Bears easily won the team title with an impressive eight-point margin over second place Washington. The second varsity eight led the way for Bruno, winning a gold medal with a time of 6:42, more than two seconds ahead of the next boat. The varsity eight and varsity four each took the bronze, illustrating Brown’s depth and team approach. The combination was enough to give the Bears 67 points, well ahead of the rest of the field.

At the 2007 NCAA Championships in Oak Ridge, Tenn., all three of Bruno’s crews made it into the grand finals and captured their fifth NCAA Championship in 10 years. After the season, Murphy guided the crew to a semifinal appearance at the Henley Royal Regatta in London, England. To top off the successful 2007 season, Murphy also had one student athlete named to the First Team of the District 1 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America team.
HEAD COACH JOHN MURPHY

In 2004, the second varsity eight went undefeated as Brown captured first place in both the varsity and second varsity eight races at the national championships in Gold River, Calif. Brown finished its 2002 season undefeated in the regular season and ended with a record of 10-1, earning its third national title. In 2001 the Bears finished third in the NCAA Championships at Lake Lanier in Gainesville, Ga. The team compiled an 11-1 overall record and captured its fourth straight Eastern Championship on Cooper River in Pennsauken, N.J.

In 2000, Murphy was named the Division I Rowing Coach of the Year by the CRCA after his crew captured its second consecutive NCAA Championship with victories in the varsity and second varsity races at Cooper River. In addition to a second consecutive NCAA title, the Bears' won the 2000 Eastern Sprints title and an Ivy League championship. In 1999, Murphy led his crew to the first NCAA Division I Championship in Brown University history after defeating the University of Virginia by a three-second margin at the NCAA Championship at Lake Natoma in Gold River, Calif. The Bears' also captured the Eastern Sprints Championships and the Ivy Championship while setting a new course record.

Murphy coached the '98 women's crew team in the prestigious Henley Royal Regatta in London. In 1997, he guided the crew to a third-place finish at the inaugural NCAA Women's Rowing Championships on Lake Natoma in Gold River, Calif. That year, his varsity four won the first gold medals ever awarded at the NCAA Championship. After finishing the 1996 season undefeated, Coach Murphy's crew became the first women's crew to capture the "Triple Crown" of collegiate racing - the Eastern Sprints, the IRAs, and the National Collegiate Rowing Championship. Murphy coached his crew to back-to-back IRA Championships in 1993 and 1994.

He also tallied an EAWRC team Championship in 1990, capturing the Charles G. Willing trophy after winning gold medals in the first varsity and the second varsity. Coach Murphy was recognized in '88 being named the EAWRC coach of the year after his varsity eight captured the Women's Eastern Sprints Championship for the first time in Brown history. Murphy began his coaching career in 1976 at Cal-Berkeley where he was responsible for the men's novice crew. He continued to coach the men's novice crew in 1977 and 1978.

In 1979-80, Murphy coached the women's novice crew at the University of Washington with the first novice eight going undefeated in the Pac-10 and claiming the West Coast Championship. Murphy returned to Cal-Berkeley as the novice women's coach in 1980, winning the Pac-10 West Coast Championship in 1981. His 1982 and 1983 crews were both silver medal winners and his 1984 crew were undefeated National Champions.

Murphy attended Kent School and Columbia University. At Kent, he captained the National Schoolboy Championship crew and rowed in the Royal Henley Regatta in his junior and senior years. He and his wife, Phoebe, have three children, Jack, Penelope and the late Patrick D. Murphy, and reside in Barrington, R.I.

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH PHOEBE MURPHY

Entering her 33rd season with the Brown program in 2018-19, Phoebe Murphy, wife of head coach John Murphy, has helped lead the Bears to unprecedented success. Under the Murphy’s leadership, Brown has become the winningest program in NCAA Championship history, winning seven NCAA rowing championships in a span of 13 years from 1999-2011.

Both Phoebe and John earned induction into the CRCA Hall of Fame in 2014 after the conclusion of a season in which the Bears finished third at the NCAA Championships.

In 2015, Murphy helped the Bears win their ninth all-time Ivy Championship and first since 2008 while finishing third in the team standings at the NCAA Championships for the second straight year.

The Bears won their third and fourth straight Ivy team points trophies in 2016 and 2017 while making their 20th and 21st consecutive appearances at the NCAA Championships. Brown made its 22nd straight appearance at NCAAs in 2018 and recorded its 21st top-10 finish out of 22 championships. The Bears stand as one of three programs to compete in every NCAA Championship since its inception.

Murphy, who was named the associate head coach in 2010, has provided steady leadership and an amazing knack for getting the most out of her student-athletes. She was named the CRCA Assistant Coach of the Year in 2011 after helping guide the Brown squad to its unprecedented seventh NCAA Division I Championship.

The husband-wife duo of John and Phoebe has helped the Bears become one of the most respected programs in the country as they continuously compete for national championships.

In the 2007 season, Murphy's novice eights and second varsity eight went undefeated during the regular season and went on to win the grand finals at the EAWRC Sprints. The second eight placed third at the NCAA Championships in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and helped Brown claim an NCAA Championship. In 2004, the second varsity eight and second novice eight went undefeated, winning gold medals at the Eastern Sprints. The second varsity eight also placed first in the grand finals at the NCAA Championships.

In 1999, Murphy’s first novice crew posted a perfect 10-0 record while the second novice boat compiled an unblemished record of 8-0. Both the first and second novice boats captured the EAWRC Championship. It is no surprise that she was voted the EAWRC Novice Coach of the Year.

A distinguished athlete, Murphy began her career as a single sculler. She captained the Brown crew in 1980 and stroked the varsity four which won the national championship in Oak Ridge, Tenn. Her other accomplishments include a Junior National Championship at age 16, gold medals in the lightweight single at the Head of the Charles in 1979 and 1980, and being a member of the United States Lightweight National Team which won gold medals at the U.S. Nationals as well as the Canadian Henley.

Phoebe and her husband, John, the women’s varsity coach at Brown, reside in Barrington, R.I. The coaching tandem has three children, Jack, Penelope, and the late Patrick D. Murphy.
ASSISTANT COACH ALEXANDER BUNKERS

Alexander Bunkers, a former standout and four-time IRA National Champion at the University of Washington, enters his fourth season as an assistant coach with the Brown University women's crew program in 2018-19.

In 2017, Bunkers helped guide the Bears to their fourth consecutive Ivy team points trophy while the second varsity eight, third varsity eight, and C varsity four all won gold medals. In 2018, Brown made its 22nd straight appearance at the NCAA Championships, recording its 21st top-10 finish out of 22 championships.

During his first season with the Bears in 2016, Bunkers aided Brown to the Ivy team points trophy for the third straight year with the second varsity eight, B varsity four, and C varsity four winning gold medals. The Bears made their 20th straight appearance at the NCAA Championships and placed sixth.

Bunkers competed at Washington from 2009-13, rowing with the first varsity eight, third varsity eight, and C varsity four all won gold medals. The Bears made their 20th straight appearance at the NCAA Championships and placed sixth.

A four-time gold-medal winner at the Pacific-12 Conference Championships, Bunkers spent two years rowing for USRowing's U23 team. He won gold medals with the US U23 men's eight at the world championships in both Amsterdam, Netherlands in 2011 and in Lithuania in 2012. In 2009, he came in fourth with the US Junior National Team's eight at the world championships in Brive-La-Gaillarde, France.

During his time at Washington, Bunkers earned All Pac-12 honors, Pac-12 All-Academic accolades, and the Huskies' Dick Erickson Award, given to the oarsman who demonstrates excellent athletic and academic performance. In 2014-15, he served as a coach with North Orlando Rowing, leading the women's four to a silver medal at the Florida State Championships.

A native of Maitland, Fla., and a 2009 graduate of Winter Park High School, Bunkers attained a bachelor’s degree in communications from Washington in 2013.

Brown's crew was established in 1974 under the direction of its first head coach, Peter Amram '61, a Brown graduate who had rowed with the men's varsity crew as an undergraduate.

Brown was victorious in its first intercollegiate meet, defeating Assumption College, Clark University, and Holy Cross on Lake Quinsigamond in Worcester, Mass., on May 4, 1974.

Two Brown rowers, Betts Howes '77 and Kathryn Reight '78, earned gold medals at the U.S. National Women's Rowing Championships in Long Beach, Calif., on June 20, 1976. Both women rowed in the open four and open eight races for the College Boat Club of the University of Pennsylvania.

Gavin Viano was named head coach of women's crew in 1979, following Amram's decision to leave the team to pursue other interests.

Brown women's lightweight fours finished first at the Eastern Sprints on May 11, 1980, marking their first ever Sprints title. The lightweight fours went on to finish third in the College Nationals and sixth in the Open Nationals at the 1980 NWRA Women's Collegiate & National Rowing Championships held from June 18-22, 1980.

In 1983, the second novice boat became the first Brown women's shell ever to qualify for the grand finals at the Eastern Sprints.

Four Brown rowers, Ginny Golder '84, Tina Hartest '85, Anne Sobieski '85, and Alexa Lambert '85, competed in the National Championships held at Madison, Wisconsin on June 4-5, 1983.

John Murphy became the women's crew's third head coach in 1984, coming to Brown after coaching stints at Cal Berkeley and the University of Washington.

The varsity eight captured the Women's Eastern Sprints Championship for the first time in Brown history in 1988.

Brown women's crew won its first team title at the Eastern Sprints on May 13, 1990, as the second varsity and first novice boats earned gold medals, the varsity fours took home silver, and the varsity eight and second novice boats won bronze medals.

The Bears’ varsity eight won the first women’s race ever held at the Intercollegiate Rowing Association (IRA) Championships on June 5, 1993.

The Bears repeated as IRA Champions in the second annual women’s IRA Championship held on June 4, 1994. The women's crew had earlier finished second only to eventual national champion Princeton at the Eastern Sprints.

Brown's varsity eight decisively defeated two-time defending national champion Princeton during the 1996 regular season and went on to win the 1996 Eastern Sprints, the IRAs, and the Collegiate National Championship, becoming the first women's crew to capture the “Triple Crown” of collegiate rowing.

Brown's varsity four won the first NCAA Championship, narrowly defeating the University of Washington on Lake Natoma in Rancho Cordova, Calif., on June 1, 1997. As a team, Brown finished third overall.

In 1998, Brown placed second at the NCAA Championship, and won the Eastern Sprint and Ivy Championship. The crew went on to Henley and captured the open eight and club eight titles.

Coach John Murphy’s crew captured the first NCAA Division I Championship in Brown University history after defeating the University of Virginia by a three-second margin at the 1999 NCAA Championship at Lake Natoma in Rancho Cordova, Calif. The Bears' varsity also captured the Eastern Sprint Championship and the Ivy Championship while setting a new course record. Brown's freshmen and varsity four also won at the Sprints, completing an undefeated season.

Murphy's crew repeated as NCAA Champions, edging the University of Washington by 3.9 seconds to capture its second NCAA title in as many years in 2000. Brown defeated Washington by four points to earn the title. Additionally, the Bears' varsity and second varsity also captured the Eastern Sprint Championship and Ivy Championship, as both eights finished undefeated seasons.

BROWN UNIVERSITY WOMEN’S CREW

PROGRAM HISTORY (2000-18)

• The Bears captured their fourth straight Eastern Championship in 2001 after posting an 11-1 regular season record. At the NCAA Championships, Brown placed third despite losing five members of the varsity eight boat from the previous season.

• Brown won its third national title in four years at the 2002 NCAA Championships in Indianapolis, Ind., after going undefeated during the regular season. The Bears placed first in the varsity four grand finals and second in both the varsity and second varsity eight grand finals, defeating defending champion Washington by four points in the final standings. Brown was the only school to qualify all of its crew for the grand finals.

• In 2003, Brown claimed second place at the NCAAs with strong performances by the varsity four and second varsity eight. Both crews earned first place, allowing the Bears to finish just two points behind Radcliffe in the overall standings, despite the varsity eight placing seventh overall.

• Brown captured its fourth national title in six years at the 2004 NCAA Championships in Sacramento, Calif. The Bears won both varsity eight races while the varsity four placed third. With the win, the Bears became the winningest program in NCAA Championship history. The team also won the Eastern Sprints Team Title, recording first place victories in five of seven races.

• Brown women’s crew assistant coach Phoebe Murphy was named the National Assistant Coach of the Year by CRCA. She was previously named the 2005 New England Region Assistant Coach of the Year after helping the Bears to a third-place finish at the 2005 NCAA Championship.

• The Collegiate Rowing Association (CRCA) announced its All-America teams for the 2006 season, which included Brown seniors Deborah Dryer and Gillian Almy, both First Team selections, in addition to junior Rachel Dearborn, a Second Team honoree. The three were all part of Brown’s varsity eight, which placed third at the NCAA Championships and second at Eastern Sprints.

• In 2007, Brown claimed its fifth NCAA championship on Melton Hill Lake in Oak Ridge, Tenn., with a combined 58 points. The Bears placed second at the EAWRC Sprints, behind the Yale Bulldogs, who eventually went on to win the varsity eight race at the NCAA Championships. The crew went on to compete at Henley, claiming the Sports Council Cup after taking first place at the 2007 Henley Women’s Regatta.

• In 2008, the Bears took a record sixth championship at Lake Natoma in Sacramento, Calif. Brown used excellence across the board to win the title, taking first in the second varsity eight and third in both the first eight and the varsity four to amass 67 points, easily holding off second-place Washington, which had 59.

• Brown continued its amazing run of top-five finishes, placing fifth overall in the team standings in 2009. The Bears were just 14 points from being on the podium, and only 17 away from first place in an extraordinarily competitive field. Brown was led by the second varsity eight, which placed fourth overall. The varsity eight took fifth, while the four took second in the petite finals, good for eighth overall.

• In 2011, Brown secured its seventh national title by the slimmest of margins, as the Bears ended in an 85-point tie with Stanford for the team championship. Bruno’s performance in the varsity eight race made the difference however, as Brown finished ahead of the Cardinal by .05 seconds to claim its third title in five years.

• After placing 14th in 2012 and seventh in 2013, Brown came in third place at the NCAA Championships in both 2014 and 2015. The Bears competed at both the Henley Women’s Regatta and Henley Royal Regatta in 2015.

• Brown won four consecutive Ivy League Team Points titles from 2014-17, while finishing sixth at the NCAA Championships in 2016, eighth in 2017, and 10th in 2018.
