FOUR TALENTED STUDENT-ATHLETES HIGHLIGHT 2021-22 WOMEN'S TRACK & FIELD/CROSS COUNTRY ACADEMIC ALL-AMERICA® TEAMS

AUSTIN, Texas – Four standouts in competition and in the classroom – Arizona State University's Jorinde van Klinken, Colorado School of Mines' Zoe Baker, Messiah University's Esther Seeland and Concordia (Neb.) University's Josie Puelz – highlight the 2021-22 Academic All-America® women's track & field/cross country teams selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA).

Van Klinken (Division I), Baker (Division II), Seeland (Division III) and Puelz (NAIA) have each been named the Academic All-America® Team Member of the Year award winner for their respective divisions.

Division I

Van Klinken claims her inaugural first team Academic All-America award after making the second team in 2021. The graduate student concluded her two-year ASU track and field career by defending her discus title at the NCAA Division I championships June 11 in Eugene, Oregon. The ASU Heather Farr Student-Athlete award winner compiled a 4.00 cumulative grade-point average in her global management and global business program.

She won the Pac-12 women's field Athlete of the Year award following both of her ASU seasons. Van Klinken won both the shot put and the discus at the 2022 Pac-12 championships. Earlier, she won the NCAA indoor shot put title in March. Arizona State's record holder in the discus has won two NCAA titles and three PAC-12 crowns during her time as a Sun Devil.

Four student-athletes receive Academic All-America® honors for the third consecutive year. Louisiana State University's Lisa Gunnarsson leads this elite list with three first team awards. University of Michigan's Alice Hill collects her second straight first team nod after making the second team in 2020. Both Bethany Hasz (University of Minnesota) and Cailie Logue (Iowa State University) both made the third team in 2020 before picking up back-to-back first team honors.

North Carolina State University's Kelsey Chmiel receives first team Academic All-America® laurels for the second straight year. Maudie Skyring (Florida State University) and Kaitlin Smith (Houston Baptist University) move to the first team after making the second team in 2021. Molly Leppelmeier (University of Kentucky) jumps from the 2021 third team to the 2022 first team.

The remaining Academic All-America® track & field/cross country repeat selections include McKenzie Altmayer (Bradley University), Laura Ehrenberger (Duquesne University), Abby Kohut-Jackson (Minnesota), Val Larson (Minnesota) and Emily Mackay (Binghamton University). Ehrenberger makes the third team for the second year in a row, while the other four make the move from the 2021 third team to the 2022 second team.

Thirty-one members of the Academic All-America® Division I women's track & field/cross country teams boast a perfect 4.0 GPA in their undergraduate work or graduate school. The 15 members of the first team have an average GPA of 3.95, with the entire women's team holding a collective average GPA of 3.90.

Division II

Baker is a three-time Academic All-America® honoree with her second consecutive first team selection. In the competitive arena, the senior is a 10-time All-American counting honors in cross country, the indoor 3000 and 5000 meters and the outdoor 10,000 meters this year.

Baker graduated this year with degrees in both computer science and applied mathematics and statistics, posting a 4.00 GPA in the process. She is a two-time NCAA Elite 90 winner and five-time Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference Academic Runner of the Year (including three-of-three seasons in 2021-22).

The Division II Academic All-America® program is being financially supported by the NCAA Division II national governance structure to assist CoSIDA with handling the awards fulfillment aspects for the 2021-22 Division II Academic All-America® program.

University of Illinois Springfield senior Taryn Christy joins Baker as a three-time Academic All-America choice. Christy also boasts back-to-back first team laurels. Baker made the second team in 2020, while Christy found a spot on the third team.

Eleven student-athletes join Baker and Christy as repeat selections on the Academic All-America® Division II women's track & field/cross country teams. They include first team members Chin Agina (Azusa Pacific University), Hannah Miller (Colorado School of Mines), Rachel Miller (Ashland University), D'Andra Morris (University of Mary) and Natalia Novak (Academy of Art University). Agina and Rachel Miller were first team picks in 2021.

Additional repeaters include second team members Casey Berberich (Maryville (Mo.) University), Laia Gonzalez (Central Missouri University) and Marisa Gwinner (Tiffin University). Three third team members also earned their second Academic All-America® nod. They include Marlee Baker (Carson-Newman University), Kylie Dahlberg (Lenoir-Rhyne University) and Ayana Fields (Cal Poly Pomona).

Twenty-three members of the Academic All-America® Division II women's track & field/cross country teams boast a perfect 4.0 GPA in their undergraduate work or graduate school. The 15 members of the first team have an average GPA of 3.89, with the entire women's team holding a collective average GPA of 3.88.

Division III

Esther Seeland claims her third first team Academic All-America® award in track & field/cross country. Collectively, she has five Academic All-America plaques counting two she earned in women's soccer. Seeland graduated with a 3.99 cumulative GPA as a biomedical engineering major.

Seeland finished her track & field career with national championships in the 800- and the 1500-meter races at the NCAA Division III championships in Ohio, giving her five national titles in track & field. Seeland was also a starting defender on the Messiah women's soccer team that claimed the 2019 NCAA Division III national championship.

The senior was a seven-time All-American in track & field. She earned both the indoor and outdoor Middle Atlantic Conference Senior Scholar-Athlete honors as well.

The Division III Academic All-America® program is being financially supported by the NCAA Division III national governance structure to assist CoSIDA with handling the awards fulfillment aspects for the 2021-22 Division III Academic All-America® program.

Three student-athletes join Seeland as three-time Academic All-America® picks. They include Gina Dello Russo (Stevens Institute of Technology), Izzi Gengaro (MIT) and Sydney Packard (Worcester Polytechnic Institute). Dello Russo and Packard match Seeland with three first-team awards.

Eleven student-athletes join Seeland, Dello Russo, Gengaro and Packard as repeat selections on the Academic All-America® Division III women's track & field/cross country teams. They include first team members Elayna Bahl (Loras College), Ella Baran (Johns Hopkins University), Marion Edwards (Loras), Olivia Hurr (John Carroll University), Madison Mulder (SUNY Geneseo) and Birgen Nelson (Gustavus Adolphus College). Mulder was a first team choice in 2021.

Additional repeaters include second team members Eileen Bequette (University of Rochester), Aubrie Fisher (Wartburg College) and Annie Gutierrez (Johns Hopkins). Two third team members also earned their second Academic All-America® nod. They include Alison Beeman (University of Dubuque) and Rachel TerHaar (University of Chicago).

Fifteen members of the Academic All-America® Division III women's track & field/cross country teams boast a perfect 4.0 GPA in their undergraduate work or graduate school. The 15 members of the first team have an average GPA of 3.91, with the entire women's team holding a collective average GPA of 3.87.

NAIA

Puelz claims her second consecutive first team Academic All-America® honor in track & field/cross country. The junior pole vaulter holds a perfect 4.00 GPA with her elementary education major.

Puelz is one of only two Concordia female student-athletes with four consecutive individual national championships with her two indoor and two outdoor crowns. Puelz owns the Great Plains Athletic Conference meet records for both indoor and outdoor pole vault. She holds the Concordia school records in the indoor and outdoor pole vault as well. The four-time GPAC champion was named Nebraska's 2021 State College Female Athlete of the Year by the Lincoln Journal Star.

The NAIA Academic All-America® program is being financially supported by the NAIA national governance structure to assist CoSIDA with handling the awards fulfillment aspects for the 2021-22 NAIA Academic All-America® program.

Concordia (Neb.) student-athlete Rachel Battershell received her third first team Academic All-America® award to lead the veterans. Destiny Copeland (Indiana Institute of Technology) and Julia Rohm (Southeastern University) celebrate their second consecutive first team nod after picking up second team laurels in 2020.

All total, 10 student-athletes are repeat selections. In addition to Puelz, Battershell, Copeland and Rohm, Emily Bayer (Missouri Baptist University), Rachel Bredeson (Cedarville University), Avery DeWolf Burton (Milligan University) and Erin Mapson (Concordia (Neb.)) are first team choices. DeWolf Burton is a two-time first team pick. Aileen Gurrola (Friends University) and Namiah Simpson (Southeastern) round out the repeat selections as two-time second team honorees.

Six members of the Academic All-America® NAIA women's track & field/cross country teams boast a perfect 4.0 GPA in their undergraduate work or graduate school. The 11 members of the first team have an average GPA of 3.92, with the entire women's team holding a collective average GPA of 3.88.
