2017-18 Report: Amazing College Football Popularity Highlighted by Impressive Ratings and Attendance Data

College football ranks as the nation’s second most popular sport with 47.6 million fans attending games in 2017 and the 355 regular season games reaching more than 200 million unique fans† and 39 postseason bowl games reaching 122 million on TV.

IRVING, Texas (May 15, 2018) – The National Football Foundation (NFF) & College Hall of Fame highlighted today numerous powerful facts from the 2017 college football season that emphasize the strong popularity of college football among millions of fans across the country, including the 56 percent of U.S. adults who cited themselves in a Gallup Poll as college football fans, a two percent increase from 2011 and more than professional baseball, basketball, hockey and soccer. Additionally, excluding the combined numbers for Olympic Sports, college football ranks second in core fans behind only the NFL, and the sport’s fan base grew by 1.4 million people in 2017, according to media outlets.

“College football will celebrate its 150th anniversary in 2019, and our sport has certainly come a long way from several hundred spectators lining a wooden fence to watch the first game in 1869,” said NFF President & CEO Steve Hatchell. “We saw a big shift this year in the metrics and how things are measured with the adaptation of total live audience numbers by several media outlets. The need for the switch highlights that fans truly are reveling in the vision of college football anytime, anywhere and on any screen.

“The networks, as well as the colleges, conferences and bowls, all deserve high praise as innovators who continue to break new ground within an ever-changing high-tech landscape. There is no doubt that college football fans everywhere are the big winners with options galore, thanks to the creativity and commitment of the leaders of our sport.”

The top highlights include:

Second Most Watched Event in Cable TV History

- The 2018 College Football Playoff (CFP) National Championship Presented by AT&T between Georgia and Alabama on ESPN delivered the second biggest audience in cable television history, solidifying the College Football Playoff’s place in history as a ratings juggernaut with the four biggest TV audiences in cable history and seven of the top 10. This year’s game produced a total live audience* of 29,932,000 viewers. The inaugural CFP game on ESPN in 2015 between Ohio State and Oregon remains No. 1 with 33,395,000 viewers.
• The seven CFP games on ESPN, covering the New Year’s Six and the CFP National Championship, averaged a total live audience of more than 17 million viewers, making it the best ever in the four years of the new system. The average marked a 10 percent increase from last year and 25 percent from the 2015 season. The seven games also averaged a 9.8 overnight, also the best ever in the four years of the new system and up 5 percent from last year.

• The 355 college football telecasts on ABC, beIN Sports, CBS, ESPN, ESPN2, ESPNU, FOX, FS1, FS2, NBC and NBCSN during the 2017 regular season averaged 1,942,000 viewers per game while reaching more than 200 million unique fans†.

• The 39 postseason college bowl games on ABC, CBS, ESPN, ESPN2, FOX and FS1 at the conclusion of the 2017 season averaged 5,308,000 viewers per game (representing an 8 percent increase over last season and a 3 percent increase from two years ago) while reaching 122 million unique fans† on television. (The figures include the Air Force Reserve Celebration Bowl, which was played at the FCS level, but not the AutoNation Cure Bowl and the Nova Home Loans Arizona Bowl, both telecast on CBSSN, which is not rated by Nielsen Media.)

NCAA Programs Attract More Than 47.6 Million Fans:

The 666 NCAA football programs (FBS, FCS, DII and DIII) drew 47,622,196 fans at home games, neutral-site games and postseason games in 2017, according to the annual NCAA report. The number represents a 3.3 percent drop from the 2016 season, but it also represents a 29.2 percent increase since 1997 and a 148.9 percent increase from the 19,134,159 fans that the NCAA reported when they first started collecting attendance figures in 1948*.

The 40 FBS bowl games this season (including the CFP National Championship, but excluding the Air Force Reserve Celebration Bowl at the FCS level) attracted 1,620,253 spectators to the stands (40,506 per contest). The Top Ten bowls all had attendance in excess of 57,000 fans, and eight bowl games saw increases of more than 4,000 fans.
The game has benefited enormously from the commitment of every major media sports outlet, including the ABC, beIN Sports, Big Ten Network, BYUtv, CBS, CBS Sports Network, ESPN, ESPN2, ESPN Classic, ESPN3, ESPNEWS, ESPNU, FOX, FS1, FS2, FOX College Sports, FOX Deportes, FOX Sports Net, Longhorn Network, NBC, NBC Sports Network, Pac-12 Networks, Root Sports, SEC Network, Stadium and multiple regional and local outlets. Throughout the regular and bowl seasons, these outlets continue to capitalize on college football’s ever-increasing popularity to produce an increasingly dynamic product that engages fans on new levels.

Regular Season Attendance Highlights

- The overall attendance for NCAA football games across all divisions (FBS, FCS, Division II and Division III) drew 47,622,196 fans at home games, neutral-site games and postseason games in 2017. The number represents a 3.3 percent drop from the 2016 season, but it also represents a 29.2 percent increase since 1997 and a 148.9 percent increase since 1948 when the NCAA began collecting attendance reports.

- The Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) drew 36,632,625 spectators for an average of 42,203 fans per game. - Michigan led all FBS schools again with an average attendance of 111,589 fans per home game in 2017. Three other schools also averaged more than 100,000 fans per game: Ohio State (107,495), Penn State (106,707) and Alabama (101,722). Rounding out the 2017 Top Ten leaders for average home team attendance were: Texas A&M (98,802); LSU (98,506); Tennessee (95,779); Texas (92,778); Georgia (92,746); and Nebraska (89,798).

- Other universities with more than 80,000 fans per home game included Florida (86,715); Oklahoma (86,520); Auburn (86,446); and Clemson (80,773).

- Michigan has led the nation in attendance for 41 of the past 43 seasons. (The two breaks occurred with a No. 3 ranking in 2014 and No. 2 ranking in 1997.) The Wolverines have now played before 100,000-plus fans for a record 279 straight home games, a streak that extends back to Nov. 8, 1975.

- Ohio State led the nation for total fan attendance, attracting 1,254,160 spectators to all of their games in 2017, including home, away, neutral and postseason tilts. Eleven other teams eclipsed the million mark in 2017: Georgia (1,246,201), Alabama (1,228,376), Auburn (1,162,955), Penn State (1,146,641), Michigan (1,140,358), LSU (1,114,205), Texas A&M (1,093,368), Oklahoma (1,054,046), Tennessee (1,043,298), Clemson (1,016,347) and Texas (1,000,818).

- Nebraska continued its streak of an NCAA record 361 consecutive home sellouts, a stretch that dates back to Nov. 3, 1962, at Memorial Stadium. The stadium has a current capacity of 85,458, and the Huskers averaged 89,798 at its home games during the 2017 season for a total attendance of 628,583 at seven games. Notre Dame holds the second longest sellout streak, which started in 1974, continuing through the 2017 season and now at 262 games.

- The top 10 FBS schools with the largest increases in attendance all averaged more than 4,200 additional fans per game with Purdue leading the way with 13,433 additional fans at each game, followed by Akron (9,232), Florida Atlantic (8,875), New Mexico State (8,694), Penn State (6,450), Iowa State (5,374), Fresno State (5,139), Colorado State (4,462), Washington (4,233) and Southern California (4,224).

- The top 10 FBS schools with the largest percentage increases in attendance included New Mexico State (91.1%); Akron (89.3%); Florida Atlantic (88.1%); Purdue (38.9%); Ball State (27.1%); Kent State (20.9%); Fresno State (20.16%); Colorado State (16.2%); North Texas (12.5%); and Boston College (11.7%).

- Florida Atlantic, which notched its first winning season since 2008, attracted 125,588 attendees over seven games for an average of 17,941 per game, both single-season high water marks for the school.

- Penn State recorded a 6.4 percent increase in home attendance for the 2017 season, including the largest crowd in Beaver Stadium history with 110,823 fans attending the Oct. 21 game against Michigan. The 2017 attendance total of 746,946 and 106,707 average per game ranked as the highest for a seven-game home schedule since 2009 and the seventh-best average in school history.

- Iowa State set a new school attendance record with 347,586 fans attending its six home games for a 57,931 average or 10.2 percent increase over 2016.

- Colorado State set a school record, averaging 32,062 fans for its six home games at a new $220 million on-campus stadium, which has a total capacity of 41,200.

- Southern California, which saw a 5.8 percent increase in the number of fans attending its home games in 2017, attracted an average of 72,683 spectators to the Coliseum for seven games. The Trojans produced a season-high crowd of 84,714 during a 27-24 overtime win against Texas on Sept. 16, a mark that eclipsed the combined crowds for the NFL’s Rams (56,612) and Chargers (25,381), who both played in Los Angeles the same weekend.

- Troy set a single-season attendance record for the second consecutive year, averaging 24,456 fans during its six home games or a 9 percent increase from last year and 46 percent above the 2015 average. The home opener between Troy and Alabama State drew a record crowd of 29,278, and the season saw a record 146,736 attend games.

- North Texas attracted more fans (134,174) in 2017 than any of the previous seven seasons that Apogee Stadium has been open. Average attendance equaled 22,362, eclipsing the previous record of 21,030 set during the 2013 season. North Texas had three of its top six crowds ever.

- Appalachian State attracted a record crowd of 35,126 to Kidd Brewer Stadium for Wake Forest’s first-ever trip to Boone, N.C.

- Old Dominion sold-out season tickets for the ninth-straight season. After reinstating football in 2009, Old Dominion is the only Division I program to sell out every home game it has ever played, attracting 120,708 fans to six home games in 2017.

- The Dr Pepper ACC Football Championship Game sold out at Bank of America Stadium in Charlotte, N.C., drawing a crowd of 74,372 to watch No. 1 Clemson defeat
No. 7 Miami ( Fla.), 38-3. The seven previous ACC Football Championship Games have averaged more than 70,000 fans per game, including four sellouts.

- Liberty University, which will play in the Football Bowl Subdivision as an independent during the 2018 season, averaged 16,571 in attendance per game, meeting the FBS attendance requirement of 15,000 during the first year of its transition process.

- Montana claimed the FCS attendance title for a fourth consecutive season, drawing an average of 23,535 fans per home game for a total of 141,212 spectators in 2017. Postseason Ratings Highlights

• The 39 postseason college bowl games on ABC, CBS, ESPN, ESPN2, FOX and FS1 at the conclusion of the 2017 season averaged 5,308,000 viewers per game (representing an 8 percent increase over last season and a 3 percent increase from two years ago) while reaching 122 million unique fans† on television. (The figures include the Air Force Reserve Celebration Bowl, which was played at the FCS level, but not the AutoNation Cure Bowl and the Nova Home Loans Arizona Bowl, both telecast on CBSSN, which is not rated by Nielsen Media.)
• The 2018 College Football Playoff National Championship Presented by AT&T on Jan. 8 between Georgia and Alabama delivered the second biggest audience in cable television history, only behind the 2015 CFP National Championship between Ohio State and Oregon. This year's game, the first CFP title matchup to go into overtime, averaged 28,443,000 viewers during the MegaCast production on ESPN, ESPN2 and ESPNU, up 13 percent from last season’s game and 9 percent from two years ago. The ESPN-only telecast averaged 27,383,000 viewers, and the total live audience* clocked in at 29,932,000. The game delivered a 16.7 overnight rating on its Nielsen-rated networks (ESPN, ESPN2 and ESPNU), up 9 percent from last season’s game and 5 percent from two years ago.
• The College Football Playoff system on ESPN has now delivered the four biggest audiences in cable history and seven of the top 10.
• The three-game College Football Playoff averaged 26,266,000 viewers, up an impressive 21 percent from last year’s three-game presentation, and the three games averaged a 14.9 overnight, up an impressive 18 percent from last year’s three-game presentation.
• This season’s two CFP Semifinals (the Rose Bowl Game presented by Northwestern Mutual and the Allstate Sugar Bowl) on New Year’s Day averaged a 13.9 overnight, up 26 percent from last year and 42 percent from the 2015 season. The two CFP Semifinals averaged 24,590,000 viewers, up 27 percent from last year and 44 percent from the 2015 season. Individually, both games rank as the third and fourth most-viewed and highest-rated CFP Semifinals ever, trailing only the two record-breaking CFP Semifinals from the inaugural year.
• The seven CFP games, covering the New Year’s Six and the CFP National Championship, averaged a total live audience* of more than 17 million, making it the best ever in the four years of the new system. The average marked a 10 percent increase from last year and 25 percent from the 2015 season. The seven games also averaged a 9.8 overnight, also the best ever in the four years of the new system and up 5 percent from last year.
• All non-CFP Semifinal New Year’s Six Games set new viewership records this season. The Goodyear Cotton Bowl Classic, PlayStation Fiesta Bowl, Capital One Orange Bowl, and Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl all delivered their most-watched game of the New Year’s Six era, except for the years their games were CFP Semifinals.

• ESPN’s presentation of the entire New Year’s Six averaged an 8.4 overnight, the highest rated New Year’s Six in the system’s four-year history. This year’s presentation of the six games was up 8 percent from last year, 15 percent from the 2015 season and 3 percent from year one.

• ESPN’s postseason, consisting of 35 bowl games plus the CFP National Championship, averaged 5,682,000 viewers, up 11 percent from last year’s similar slate, and the games averaged a 3.4 overnight rating, up 10 percent from last season. The average total live audience* for the games was 6,079,000, making this year’s postseason ESPN’s most-watched in at least eight seasons.

• Viewership for the 29 non-New Year’s Six bowls games on ESPN increased 7 percent, averaging 2,945,000 viewers.

• The CFP Semifinal at the Rose Bowl Game Presented by Northwestern Mutual on ESPN and ESPN2, which saw Georgia claim a 54-48 victory over Georgia on New Year’s Day, ranks as the sixth most-watched cable telecast of all time. The game drew 26,826,000 viewers on ESPN & ESPN2; and a total live audience* of 28,311,000. The game delivered an exceptional 14.8 overnight rating (ESPN + ESPN2), nearly equaling the record-breaking inaugural CFP Semifinal at the Rose Bowl Game, which remains the highest-rated CFP Semifinal to date with a 15.5 overnight. The numbers represent a 29 percent increase from last season’s first CFP Semifinal on the same two networks and a 53 percent increase from the 2015 season’s first CFP Semifinal. The rating also is just shy of the record-breaking inaugural CFP Semifinal on Jan. 1, 2015, which notched a 15.5 overnight.

• The CFP Semifinal at the Allstate Sugar Bowl on ESPN and ESPN2, which saw Alabama claim a 24-6 victory over Clemson on New Year’s Day, attracted 20,407,000 viewers on ESPN; 21,117,000 viewers on ESPN & ESPN2; and a total live audience* of 22,067,000. The game delivered an impressive 12.5 overnight rating (ESPN and ESPN2), up 19 percent from last season’s second CFP Semifinal, also on ESPN and ESPN2, and 26 percent from the 2015’s season second CFP Semifinal on the same two networks.

• The Goodyear Cotton Bowl Classic on ESPN, which saw Ohio State defeat Southern California, 24-7, was the most-watched non-CFP Semifinal Cotton Bowl of the New Year’s Six era with 9,544,000 viewers, 10,475,000 total live audience* and a 5.34 household rating, representing a more than 70 percent increase from last season’s New Year’s Day Cotton Bowl. The Trojans-Buckeyes Cotton Bowl viewership also ranks as the bowl’s third best viewership in 20 years, excluding the year it was a CFP Semifinal.

• The Capital One Orange Bowl on ESPN, which saw Wisconsin defeat Miami (Fla.), 34-24, attracted 11,727,000 viewers and a 13,068,000 total live audience*, making it the third most-watched non-CFP Semifinal game of the New Year’s Six era. The Orange Bowl viewership also represented a 2 percent increase from last year and more than 30 percent from 2014, which were the last two non-CFP Semifinal editions of the game.

• The PlayStation Fiesta Bowl on ESPN, which saw Penn State beat Washington, 35-28, attracted 10,167,000 viewers and a 11,308,000 total live audience*, making it the fifth most-watched non-CFP Semifinal game of the New Year’s Six era. The Fiesta Bowl viewership also represented a 4 percent increase from the 2015 season and a 37 percent increase from the 2014 game, which were the last two non-CFP Semifinal editions of the game.

- The Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl on ESPN, which saw UCF remain undefeated with a 34-27 victory over Auburn, delivered 8,377,000 viewers and a 8,841,000 total live audience*, making it the second-most watched Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl of all time, and the most-watched non-CFP Semifinal Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl in the New Year’s Six era. The game's viewership marked a 49 percent increase from the 2015 season and a 67 percent jump from 2014.

- The Outback Bowl, which featured Michigan playing South Carolina on ESPN2 at Noon on New Year’s Day, delivered a 3.1 overnight, up 72 percent from the 2016 Outback Bowl, the last time the game aired on ESPN2. The viewership was 5,095,000 and a 5,366,000 total live audience*, making it the second most-viewed program ever on ESPN2, behind only the 2015 Outback Bowl, which gives the game the two-most watched programs in ESPN2’s history.

- The Citrus Bowl Presented by Overton’s, which featured LSU playing Notre Dame on ABC on New Year’s Day, earned a 5.5 overnight, up 32 percent from last year’s game. The game attracted 8,712,000 viewers and a 9,239,000 total live audience*, up 36 percent from last year.

- The Camping World Bowl featuring Virginia Tech and Oklahoma State on ESPN earned a 2.8 overnight, an 8 percent increase from last year’s game. The game attracted 4,358,000 viewers and a 4,829,000 total live audience*.

- The New Era Pinstripe Bowl on ESPN between Iowa and Boston College on Dec. 27 attracted 4,008,000 viewers and a 4,325,000 total live audience*, the best for the bowl since 2013.

- The Lockheed Martin Armed Forces Bowl on ESPN between San Diego State and Army on Dec. 23 attracted 3,498,000 viewers and a 3,781,000 total live audience*, the best viewership for the bowl ever.

- The Las Vegas Bowl on Dec. 16 between Boise State and Oregon attracted 3,8 million viewers on ABC, making it the most-watched Las Vegas Bowl since Boise State played Washington on ESPN in 2012 (4.4 million).

- The Cactus Bowl earned a 2.04 rating, attracting a 3,565,000 total live audience* on ESPN for the Kansas State win over UCLA. The ratings marked a 44 percent increase in viewership over the 2016 game, and the game ranked as the most-watched program on cable television for Dec. 26.

- The Hawaii Bowl on ESPN between Fresno State and Houston on Dec. 24 attracted 2,097,000 viewers and a 2,368,000 total live audience*, the highest for the bowl since 2013.

- ESPN notched its second most-watched 24-hour period in the history of the 38-year old network on New Year’s Day, averaging 6,011,000 viewers from 6 a.m. on Jan. 1 to 6 a.m. on Jan. 2. The network attracted 96.1 million fans between Friday, Dec. 29 and Monday, Jan. 1, and they consumed more than 28.6 billion minutes of college football content.

- The Reese’s Senior Bowl drew a 0.50 rating and 786,000 viewers on NFL Network, making it the most-watched edition of the game since 2011 (874,000).
• The East-West Shrine Game had a 0.32 rating and 472,000 viewers on NFL Network, making it the most-watched edition of the game since at least 2012.

Notable Bowl Facts and Postseason Milestones

• Alabama's 26-23 overtime victory against Georgia in the CFP National Championship Presented by AT&T gave the school its second championship of the CFP era. The school has now claimed the NFF MacArthur Bowl for an unprecedented nine times, or four more than any other school. The win also placed Alabama No. 1 in the final AP college football poll for the 11th time, three more than any other program.

• Alabama’s 2017 CFP victory also marked the fifth national championship for the Crimson Tide since 2009 under coach Nick Saban, who now, including his 2003 national title at LSU, has matched the number of national titles claimed by Hall of Fame Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant with six.

• Alabama has played in the postseason a record 65 times and a record 68 games.

• The NFF announced the 2018 College Football Hall of Fame Class from the set of ESPN’s SportsCenter at Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta as part of the network’s coverage of the CFP title game. Coach Mack Brown (Appalachian State, Tulane, North Carolina, Texas) represented the class on SportsCenter, and he was joined by fellow 2018 electees Matt Stinchcomb (Georgia and the 1998 NFF Campbell Trophy® recipient) and Coach Frank Beamer (Murray State, Virginia Tech) in the pregame festivities and the coin toss prior to the title game.

• Virginia All-America linebacker Micah Kiser was recognized as the 2017 recipient of the 2017 NFF William V. Campbell Trophy® at the CFP National Championship during a special on-field tribute between the first and second quarters in front of the sold-out crowd of 77,430 at the title game.

• The Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl hosted the 13th Annual NFF National Hall of Fame Salute, featuring members of the 2017 College Football Hall of Fame Class.

- Troy defeated North Texas, 50-30, in the highest scoring game in R+L Carriers New Orleans Bowl history.
- Middle Tennessee claimed its first bowl win since 2009 with a 35-30 victory over Arkansas State in the Raycom Media Camellia Bowl.
- Louisiana Tech claimed its fourth straight bowl win with a 51-10 victory over SMU in the DXL Frisco Bowl.
• Temple registered a Bad Boy Mowers Gasparilla Bowl-record seven sacks en route to a 28-3 victory against Florida International in the 10th edition of the game in St. Petersburg, Fla.
• UAB, which returned to the gridiron in 2017 after a two-year hiatus, won its most games as an FBS team (eight) and appeared in just its second bowl game, losing 41-6 to Ohio in the Bahamas Bowl, the only international FBS postseason game.
• Central Michigan honored alumni Dick Enberg a day after the legendary sports broadcaster passed away at the age of 82 by wearing helmet stickers with his signature “Oh My!” catch phrase during their 37-14 loss in the Famous Idaho Potato Bowl to Wyoming.
• South Florida quarterback Quinton Flowers became the American Athletic Conference's career leader in total offense, leading South Florida to a 38-34 victory over Texas Tech in the Birmingham Bowl. In addition to the record, which now stands at 11,802 yards, Flowers holds the conference record for total touchdowns with 112.
• San Diego State running back Rashaad Penny became the fourth FBS player ever to run for 200 yards in five straight games with an impressive performance in the Lockheed Martin Armed Forces Bowl, which came up short in 35-42 loss to Army. Penny finished the season with a school-record 2,248 rushing yards.
• Appalachian State's 34-0 victory over Toledo in the Dollar General Bowl gave the Mountaineers their third-straight bowl win since completing their transition to the Football Bowl Subdivision in 2015, and they are now 3-0 in bowl games.
• Fresno State's 33-27 win over Houston in the Hawaii Bowl gave the Bulldogs their first 10-win season in five years. The win also marked the biggest turnaround in FBS this season with the Bulldogs going from 1-11 last year to a 10-4 record, making them just the second team in FBS history to go from double-digit losses the previous season to double-digit wins the next.
• Utah's 30-14 win over West Virginia in the Zaxby's Heart of Dallas Bowl gave the Utes their fifth straight bowl victory, improving Coach Kyle Whittingham's postseason record to 11-1 and the school to an overall 17-4 mark or 81 percent.
• Kansas State claimed a 35-17 Cactus Bowl victory over UCLA, giving Hall of Fame Coach Bill Snyder his second-straight bowl win and his ninth overall. Kansas State’s win gives them a 3-1 record in four Cactus Bowl appearances. The Wildcats have also played in three Fiesta Bowl games.
• Florida State Freshman quarterback James Blackman threw an Independence Bowl-record four touchdowns as the Seminoles claimed a 42-13 victory over Southern Mississippi.
• Iowa beat Boston College 27-20 in the New Era Pinstripe Bowl to snap a five-game bowl losing streak. The win gave Hawkeye coach Kirk Ferentz his 143rd win at the school, tying Hall of Fame coach Hayden Fry for first on Iowa's career wins list.
• Purdue's 38-35 victory over Arizona in the Foster Farms Bowl gave the Boilermakers their first winning record (7-6) since 2011; their first bowl win since 2011; and coach Jeff Brohm a postseason win during his first year at the helm after taking over a program that had won only nine games in the previous four seasons.
• Texas punter Michael Dickson became only the second punter in history to be named a bowl game MVP, following the Longhorns’ 33-16 victory over Missouri in the Academy Sports + Outdoors Texas Bowl. The game marked the Longhorns’ first bowl appearance since 2014, and their 7-6 overall record notched their first winning season since 2013. The Longhorns honored College Football Hall of Famer Tommy Nobis, who died earlier in the month, by wearing helmet stickers with his No. 60.

- TCU claimed a 39-37 win over Stanford in the Valero Alamo Bowl, giving coach Gary Patterson his 40th win over the last four seasons. Heisman Trophy finalist Bryce Love rushed for 145 yards and a touchdown on the losing side, finishing his season and setting a Stanford single-season rushing record with 2,118 yards.

- Michigan State's 42-17 victory over Washington State in the San Diego County Credit Union Holiday Bowl gave Mark Dantonio his 100th victory in 11 seasons as the Spartans' head coach and his sixth 10-plus win season.

- Oklahoma State beat Virginia Tech, 30-21, in the Camping World Bowl, giving the Cowboys three consecutive 10-win seasons for the first time in school history. James Washington caught five passes for 126 yards during the game, making him Oklahoma State's career receiving leader with 4,472 yards. Cowboys quarterback Mason Rudolph completed his career with 52 school records.

- Virginia appeared in a bowl for the first time in six years, losing to Navy 49-7 in the Military Bowl presented by Northrop Grumman.

- Northwestern nipped Kentucky, 24-23, to claim back-to-back bowl victories in consecutive years for the first time in school history, winning the Franklin American Mortgage Music City Bowl. The win marked the Wildcats' (10-3) second 10-win season in three years and third under coach Pat Fitzgerald, a 2008 College Football Hall of Fame player inductee. The NFF would like to thank the following people for providing information for this release, including NFF Correspondent Bo Carter; ACC’s Kevin Best; CBS’s Jennifer Sabatelle, ESPN’s Derek Volner; FOX’s Valerie Krebs; NBC’s Chris McCloskey, NCAA’s Christopher Radford; Pac-12 Network’s Josh Ishoo, and Stadium’s Sarah Minkoff.

Information for this release was compiled from Nielsen Ratings Reports, CBS, ESPN, FOX Sports, NBC, the NCAA, Pac-12 Networks, Sports Media Watch, and releases from bowl games and football-playing conferences, universities and colleges.

* The figures for “Total Live Audience” expand the number of viewers from traditional broadcast, cable and satellite TV to count those watching through other devices and services, including streaming, OTT (over-the-top), mobile apps, multichannel distributors, and out-of-home co-viewing such as restaurants and gyms. Nielsen Media started providing “Total Live Audience” numbers in the fall of 2016, and ESPN started using numbers from the new system on Sept. 26 2017.

 The NCAA began keeping national home football attendance in 1948 (including non-NCAA teams) and started keeping NCAA-only teams in 1978.

† Reach measures the number of “unique” (or different) individuals who were exposed to college football during the season, providing an unduplicated view of the TV audience for a sports property.
ABOUT THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL FOUNDATION & COLLEGE HALL OF FAME
Founded in 1947 with early leadership from General Douglas MacArthur, legendary Army coach Earl "Red" Blaik and immortal journalist Grantland Rice, The National Football Foundation & College Hall of Fame is a non-profit educational organization that runs programs designed to use the power of amateur football in developing scholarship, citizenship and athletic achievement in young people. With 120 chapters and 12,000 members nationwide, NFF programs include Football Matters®, the College Football Hall of Fame in Atlanta, The William V. Campbell Trophy® presented by Fidelity Investments, annual scholarships of more than $1.3 million and a series of initiatives to honor the legends of the past and inspire the leaders of the future. NFF corporate partners include Delta Air Lines, Fidelity Investments, Herff Jones, New York Athletic Club, Pasadena Tournament of Roses, PrimeSport, the Sports Business Journal, Under Armour and VICIS.
