Ivy League Championship Notes

- Princeton leads the way with 17 total Ivy League titles, followed by Harvard with six. Of Princeton's 17 titles, 16 have been won outright - also a top mark in the Ivy League record book.
- In 33 seasons of play, the women's softball title has been won outright 30 times. In 1986, 2001 and 2004, two teams tied for the championship.
- Princeton holds the longest Ivy League title streak with four in a row. From 1986- 1989.
- The last team to play a perfect Ivy slate was Harvard in 1998. The Crimson went 12-0 that season. In seasons with Ivy schedules containing 10 or more games, there have only been three unbeaten seasons (Princeton in 1994 and 1995 and Harvard in 1998).
- In 2008, Cornell became the first team in Ivy history to win 40 or more games overall and NOT finish first in its division or overall. The Big Red went 40-10, but finished second behind Princeton in its division and missed out on the championship series. Princeton went on to sweep Harvard in the championship series.
- In all six previous championship series, the host institution has won all six.

SOFTBALL Standings

\ Dartmouth became a Division I program in 1981, Cornell became a Division I program in 1982, Columbia became a Division I program in 1999-2000, but the Lions did not compete formally in Ivy League play until 2001.*
