*Beginning in 1975, the Ivy League Men's Golf Championship has been used to determine the League champion. Prior to 1975, the Ivy League champion was determined by performance in the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament (beginning in 1957 for men's golf). When the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament was won by a non-Ivy League member from 1957-1974, the Ivy champion is indicated in parentheses. The Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament did not recognize an individual champion until 1951.

The All-Ivy men's golf team was selected for the first time in 1970 and prior to 1975 was determined by performance in the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament. Beginning in 1975, the All-Ivy team has been determined by performance in the League Championship. From 1970-2009, the top-seven Ivy finishers earned All-Ivy honors. Starting with the 2010 championship, the competition's top-five finishers (including ties) earned first team honors, while the second team is comprised of sixth-place through tenth-place (including ties).*

[^]The NCAA began sponsoring the men's golf championship in 1939. Both the 1940 and 1943 events were contested on par-72 courses. Since 2009, match play has been used to determine the NCAA Champion.

*Championships won prior to 1939 are still considered national championships by the NCAA. These national championships were not contested in 1900, 1917 and 1918.

^One of the most widely-recognized awards in amateur golf, PING All-America teams have been honored since the GCAA was founded in 1958. Many of college golf's greats have been selected to the PING All-America teams over the years. Penn's Don Norbury is the only first-team All-American in Ivy League annals, earning that distinction in 1960.

Each year the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) choose Academic All-America® teams in the sports of football, women's volleyball, men's and women's soccer, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's track and field, baseball and softball. Also, men's and women's at-large teams -- comprised of athletes from all sports not listed above -- are chosen. To be eligible as an Academic All-American, an athlete has to maintain at least a 3.30 grade point average and be a starter or key reserve on his or her team.*
