Beginning in 1956 if an EIBL champion was not an Ivy school, the next highest Ivy finisher was considered to be the Ivy champion.*

The Ivy League teams participated in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League from 1930 to 1992. That league included Army and Navy. Beginning in 1993, the eight League schools have competed in an Ivy-only conference schedule.

IVY CHAMPIONSHIP/PLAYOFF RESULTS

From 1993-2017 the Ivy League champion and NCAA Championship automatic qualifier was determined by the Ivy League Championship Series, a three-game series played between the winners of the Rolfe and Gehrig Divisions. From 2018-22, the Ivy League automatic qualifier for the NCAA Championship was determined in the Ivy League Playoff Series, which utilized the same best-of-three format. Since the divisions dissolved in 2018, the Ivy League champion has been determined in regular season play.

BASEBALL Ivies in the Pros

Note: If the franchise is one which still exists, only the city name is given, otherwise the nickname is provided as well. The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox are denoted by providing the city name and (AL) -- for American League. Likewise, the New York Mets and Chicago Cubs are followed by (NL) -- for National League. Initially compiled by Jeff Orleans and Stephen Eschenbach.*

Each year College Sports Communicators (CSC) (formerly known as College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA)) select Academic All-America® teams in the sports of football, men's and women's soccer, women's volleyball, men's and women's basketball, baseball, softball and men's and women's track/cross country. Also, men's and women's at-large teams – comprised of athletes from all sports not listed above – are chosen. To be eligible as an Academic All-American, an athlete must maintain a 3.30 grade point average and be a starter or key reserve on his or her team.*
