ON THE COVER
Pictured on the cover is the 2005 Murray State University soccer team. The Racers are coming off their first conference winning season in the program’s five year history.
Murray State University is home to 10,000 students. They come from nearby, from throughout the nation and from around the world.

From thousands of universities, students choose Murray State University because of its academic reputation. Along with exceptional teachers, they get Murray State’s personal approach to living and learning.

Long considered one of the best-kept secrets in higher education, the word is starting to get out about the excellence of Murray State University. Students don’t just pick Murray State—they’re drawn to it.

World-Wide Recognition
When U.S. News and World Report released its recent Best Values ranking, Murray State was sixth among the South’s 123 regional universities. Murray State, which is considered “one of the South’s best values” was Kentucky’s only state university to earn recognition in each of the three competitive categories.

According to U.S. News, value rankings were devised to provide a realistic measure of where students can get the best education for their money. The “best values” are calculated in relation to a school’s discounted price (tuition plus room, board, fees, books and estimated personal expenses, minus the average on need-based grants). When U.S. News selects its “best values” it only considers those institutions with a “top-tier” academic ranking in America’s Best Colleges.

Students looking to get their money’s worth find the value rankings very helpful, and in the end they’ll discover that Murray State University is an excellent buy.

High Academic Standards
Murray State is certified by national and regional accreditation agencies, which means MSU meets rigid standards.

As one of the best public, liberal arts universities has attracted students of high academic standing. In fact, entering MSU students have the highest ACT average of all Kentucky regional campuses. They are accustomed to challenges and they are not disappointed.

Murray State’s highly-respected liberal arts curriculum is built on a core of courses called University Studies. University Studies is designed to educate each student broadly in the various areas of human knowledge: the arts, the humanities, the natural sciences and the social sciences. Equally important, the curriculum helps students develop communication skills vital to becoming a responsible citizen and a lifelong learner.

The Campus
Since its founding in 1922, Murray State has gained a reputation of having one of the most beautiful campuses in the country. That reputation is based on the well-kept, tree-filled 200 acres which is the site of Murray State University.

Adding to the natural, scenic beauty of the campus are the many well-maintained and aesthetically-pleasing buildings. Over the years, MSU has kept its historical look despite dozens of additions.

Currently, the university has three major building projects underway and several others on the drawing board. Most notably, the university just completed a project which included an impressive entrance to the campus and a fence reminiscent of the ones which encircle the many thoroughbred horse farms which Kentucky is known for.

Residential Colleges
Through the newly created Residential Colleges, Murray State offers students a way of collegiate life that leads to individual and team success. In 1998, MSU decided to transform its housing complex (dormitories) into separate colleges where students who share the same majors or
In essence, Murray State not only made a transformation, it separated itself from other higher education institutions. From the moment students enroll at Murray State, they become a part of their own residential college within the university. It means belonging. It means each college will have its own government, its own athletic teams, its own faculty ombudsperson and its own traditions.

When the Chronicle of Higher Education featured MSU’s improved style of education, it wrote of “a sense of college unity” and “competition that carries over into the classroom.”

The London Times referred to the idea as a vision of Oxford University in Kentucky. “The system is closest to elite U.S. universities, such as Harvard and Yale, which assign their many students to residential houses,” wrote the Times.

Student Life
Murray State University offers an active, vibrant and challenging environment for its students. From the classroom to the residential college room, the Murray State experience is one which students will harbor for a lifetime.

In the classroom, educators are dedicated to seeing each student reach his or her potential. Class size is about 30-35 students.

Outside of the classroom, Murray State offers many athletic and social programs. Intramural sports operate year-round, while fraternities and sororities allow students to form bonds with “brothers” and “sisters” which will last a lifetime. Murray State also attracts a wide array of nationally-acclaimed speakers, top concerts and other events.

Perhaps the biggest event on campus each year is Homecoming. Each fall thousands of alumni return to Murray State to renew old friendships and visit the place they called home for four years.

Racer Athletics
The university’s intercollegiate athletic programs are a source of tradition, school pride, spirit and entertainment for students, alumni and community members alike. Competing at the highest level of college athletics, MSU is a member of NCAA Division I and the Ohio Valley Conference in its 18-team program.

Murray State is committed to athletic excellence, which is evident by its 96 OVC championships in the 54 years that the Racers have been competing in the league.

One of the greatest benefits of Racer athletics to Murray State is the attention and acclaim which it brings to the university. The Murray State basketball team has achieved extensive notoriety by competing in the NCAA Tournament in most years. Also, the Racers find themselves being written about in such publications as Sports Illustrated, ESPN (the magazine), The Sporting News, USA Today and dozens of publications and newspapers across the country. Additionally, Murray State is featured several times each year on ESPN and Fox Sports Net South as part of their college basketball and football broadcasts.

Murray State has also sent its share of player to the NFL, the NBA, Major League Baseball and other professional leagues around the world.

Local Community
Located in Murray-Calloway County in far western Kentucky, Murray State is surrounded by a neighborly Main Street community of nearly 50,000 people. Known for its friendly citizens and beautiful, wooded landscape, Murray-Calloway County is a growing and thriving area.

In addition to its strong educational, employment and quality of life opportunities, Murray-Calloway County’s location is beneficial in many ways. Located in the Jackson Purchase region of West Kentucky, Murray is eight miles from Tennessee, (approximately) 50 miles from Illinois, 65 miles from Missouri and 150 miles from Indiana, Murray State is easily able to draw students from five different states. Also, four major cities (St. Louis, Nashville, Memphis, Louisville) are within a few hours’ driving distance from Murray.

One of the biggest attractions in West Kentucky is scenic Kentucky Lake and the Land Between the Lakes. Just a 15-minute drive from the Murray State campus are boating, fishing, hunting, camping and hiking opportunities, which students often take advantage of during fall and spring weekends.
Back ing up its commitment to ensure that Racer student-athletes have every opportunity to excel in the classroom as well as on the athletic fields, Murray State athletics has established a state-of-the-art academic center.

Named in honor of longtime supporters Jan and Dick Weaver, who provided funding for the building of the center, the Weaver Academic Enhancement Center was opened at Roy Stewart Stadium on June 30, 1997, and immediately began to pay dividends in the MSU athletics program.

Today, the Weaver Center is a spacious facility equipped with individual and group study areas, but the centerpiece of the Weaver Center is its computer lab.

Featuring 24 Edge PC computers, student-athletes use the computers to access the Internet for research and to complete class projects and papers.

MSU athletes also use the Weaver Center for study hall, which meets four nights a week. During study hall, student-athletes have access to tutors, study groups and computers.

The Weaver Center is under the direction of John Osting, who oversees the computer lab and offers support to students on computer usage. The center is open 12 hours a day, six days a week during the school year, with an abbreviated schedule during the summer and holidays.

After having one of its best seasons in its short history, the Murray State women’s soccer team is looking forward to a challenging 2005 campaign.

On one hand, the Racers -- 8-11-1 overall, 4-3-1 (third) in Ohio Valley Conference play last year -- lost its most prolific scorer in Theresa Reedy, who scored 13 of MSU’s 25 goals last season. Reedy finished her four-year career with 34 goals, tops among all Racers.

On the other hand, MSU has 21 of its 34 players returning from last year’s squad. Included in that number are nine returning starters, which has head coach Mike Minielli happy.

“Everything looks good going into the season,” he said. “Everybody’s pretty healthy, and the core of the team is back. We lost a lot of the important players to graduation, and that’s most important right now, to see who can step into those spots.”

Minielli is set to begin his sixth season directing the Racer program. The only coach in its history, Minielli has a 39-48-9 record at MSU and a 182-125-29 mark overall.

“Our offense is definitely faster, but there are still some unknowns. Reedy had 13 goals last year, and that was more than half of our goals,” said Minielli. “Obviously, we have to have some freshmen step up and score more goals. We had an adequate amount of goals last year, but we need to score more to help take some of the pressure off of our defense.”

While Reedy may have scored the majority of the goals last season, four of the other six Racers that notched at least one goal in 2004 return to the team in 2005. Those four players combined for 10 scores a year ago. In addition, eight players that accounted for 13 of MSU’s 14 assists last season return as well.

A pair of sophomores who made huge impacts as freshmen in 2004 will be counted on heavily to shoulder some of the offensive load. Kara Carlile (Evansville, Ind.) and Molly Wolfe (Fountain Hills, Ariz.) each scored four goals and dished out one assist to tie for second place on the team with nine total points.

“Defensively, almost everyone is returning,” Minielli said. “But we have got to get a little better. We’ve added Kiley Price (Eureka, Mo.), who red-shirted last year, and Jen Peios (Pickering, Ontario), a Canadian transfer who played at Arkansas-Pine Bluff last year. Lauren Blessinger (Evansville, Ind.) will be back from her injuries in two to three weeks, so that is looking good for us. We’ve got high hopes in the back as well. We’ve got the potential to be really good.”
MSU returns both of its goalkeepers from the 2004 team. Junior Annie Fortier (Bowling Green, Ky.) lowered her goals against average 0.82 from her freshman (2.72 GAA) to her sophomore season (1.90 GAA). Heather Jones (Canton, Mich.), also a junior, made six appearances last year and posted her first career shutout.

When Murray State began soccer in 2000, it was the sixth team in the OVC. This season, the league roster expands to 10 teams, as Eastern Kentucky begins play, with Tennessee State being the sole member not to have women’s soccer.

“The growth of the number of teams is good from the standpoint of it gives everybody’s schedule a set number of games,” Minielli said. “They become big games on your schedule, and the quality of teams each year is better. First-year teams in the OVC -- us, Austin Peay and now Eastern Kentucky -- all came in with the support of their athletic administrations. They are not the typical first-year teams that struggle through their first five years. Eastern Kentucky may finish in the middle of the pack.”

Murray State was picked sixth in this year’s pre-season coaches’ poll with 40 points.

Samford, which has won each of the last two regular-season titles, was picked first with eight first-place votes and 80 total points. Eastern Illinois, which has won the last four league tournaments, was picked second with two first-place votes and 73 total points.

Southeast Missouri State was picked third with 63 points, followed by Jacksonville State with 57 points, Tennessee Tech with 43 points, Murray State at 40, Austin Peay and Morehead State tied at 29, Tennessee-Martin at 20 and newcomer Eastern Kentucky at 16.

“Right now, there is a huge amount of parity; there’s little difference between the top and the bottom,” Minielli said. “Conference season is pretty intense; there are no easy games. Also, there is no dominant team, so you don’t feel like you don’t have a chance to win the championship.”

Murray State begins its 2005 season on Aug. 26 at Valparaiso. The Racers open their home schedule on Sunday, Sept. 4, at 1:00 p.m. against Southern Mississippi. The Sept. 7 home game against Louisville will be MSU’s 100th all-time game.

MSU’s schedule includes nine teams that posted .500 or better overall records last season. Indiana State went 9-10-0 but was second in the Missouri Valley Conference with a 5-3-0 record.

Southern Mississippi and Louisville represent two teams that played in Conference USA last year. The Cardinals, however, are Big East Conference members in 2005. Eastern Illinois is the only team on this year’s schedule that participated in last year’s NCAA Tournament.

First Place Votes In Parentheses
When Mike Minielli arrived at Murray State to build the soccer program from scratch, he brought a national coach of the year award and an outstanding record with him.

After his first varsity season with the Racers in 2000, he earned another coach of the year award (for first-year Division I programs) after an inaugural 9-11-1 mark, leading MSU to the semifinals of the OVC Championship, falling 2-1 to eventual champion Tennessee Tech.

In 2002, Minielli led the MSU soccer program to its first-ever winning season after finishing with an 8-7-2 record.

The 2004 squad gave their coach his first winning record (4-3-1) in Ohio Valley Conference play.

Minielli begins his 17th career season as a women’s soccer coach with a career record of 182-125-29 (.585).

In his short time at MSU, Minielli’s has seen his players receive 17 all-conference awards, five all-tournament honors and five OVC Player of the Week awards.

More impressively, under Minielli’s guidance, the program has excelled in the classroom.

In five years the Racers have been represented 81 times on the OVC Commissioner’s Honor Roll, including an amazing 23 players on the 2003 honor roll, which marked the most players from one sport that year. Five Racers have been awarded the OVC Medal of Honor, given yearly to the players with the highest GPA in their respective sports.

In 2004, Lindsey Gustafson was one of only six student-athletes in the conference to receive the OVC Scholar-Athlete Award, which is the highest OVC honor an individual student-athlete can receive.

Minielli spent all of his 11 previous years (1988-98) at St. Joseph’s (Ind.), where he led the Pumas to a 16-2-1 mark in 1998 and a 7-1-2 Great Lakes Valley Conference record. SJC tied for seventh in the nation in win percentage (.842) and ranked 16th in shutouts per game (0.53).

He led the Pumas to the NCAA Division II Championship Tournament in 1996 and 1997, making it to the Final Four in 1996. Under Minielli, St. Joseph’s won GLVC titles in 1996 and ’97, going undefeated in conference play in 1996 with a 12-0 league record and an overall mark of 23-2-1.

In 1996, Minielli was named NCAA Division II Coach of the Year and Central Region Coach of the Year. He earned GLVC Coach of the Year honors in 1996 and 1997.

In his tenure at St. Joseph’s, Minielli guided five All-Americans, eight Academic All-Americans, 16 all-region honorees, 23 all-conference award winners and 38 academic all-conference players.

Minielli also coached the men’s team at St. Joseph’s from 1986 to 1997, and served as the girls’ high school coach at Mater Dei High School in Evansville, Ind., from 1986 to 1991, guiding that team to four city league titles and a 72-16-6 record over the four seasons. The Racers’ 2004 season got underway with a home match against rival Western Kentucky on Aug. 27. The Hilltoppers grabbed a 1-0 halftime lead and added two more in the second period for a 3-0 shutout. A road trip to Southwest Missouri State failed to earn Murray State its first win of the season. MSU did score its first goal of the season off the foot of Theresa Reedy, but SMS won easily, 6-1.

The confines of Cutchin Field proved more friendly in Murray State’s second home match. Sara Struve’s goal off a corner kick with 12 minutes left was the game-winner, as the Racers held on to beat Valparaiso 1-0. Annie Fortier made eight saves on her way to earning her first shutout of the season.

The Racers dropped two close matches at the Skyhawk Invitational in Martin, Tenn., to fall to 1-4 overall. MSU held a 2-1 lead early in the second period against Arkansas State but couldn’t hold on, losing 4-3. Louisiana-Monroe shut out Murray State, 1-0.

Louisville came to Murray on Sept. 14 and jumped out to a 3-1 first-period lead. The Cardinals went on to win 5-3, but they couldn’t stop Reedy. The senior recorded a hat trick, scoring three goals on six shots.

With a 1-5 record, the Racers could have given up on the season, but they didn’t. Murray State went 5-2 over its next seven games, including three overtime thrillers.

MSU’s second win of the season came on the road at IPFW. Sophomore goalkeeper Heather Jones ensured the victory by posting her first career shutout to lead Murray State to the 2-0 win.

It looked as if the Racers would drop another match when Drake came to town. The Bulldogs jumped out in front 2-0, but Molly Wolfe and Reedy each scored in the second period to force overtime. Midway through the second overtime, Jamie Roche connected from five yards out to give Murray the 3-2 victory. With the two wins, MSU improved to 3-5.

Just as quickly as the Racers came from behind to win an overtime thriller, Evansville did the same to Murray State. Reedy’s eighth goal of the season staked the visitors to a 1-0 first-period lead, but the Purple Aces netted one in the second period and then scored the game-winner in the first overtime.

Reedy added goals nine and 10 against Morehead State to get the Racers off to a 1-0 start in Ohio Valley Conference play. MSU downed the Eagles 2-1 in Morehead. Samford dropped the Racers to 1-1 in league play with a 3-0 shutout at Cutchin Field.

Another overtime thriller had Murray State coming out on the right end this time. Reedy gave the Racers an early lead against Jacksonville State when she scored 20 seconds into the game, but the Gamecocks tied it in the 75th minute to set up overtime. Lacey Latimer’s header midway through overtime number two gave the Racers the victory.

Murray State made it two in a row and capped its run of five wins in seven matches with a 3-1 win over Tennessee-Martin. The Skyhawks scored first, but the Racers scored three unanswered, including Reedy’s 12th of the season. With the win, MSU improved to 6-7 overall and 3-1 against OVC teams.

After a 2-0 loss to Eastern Illinois, the Racers played a pair of double-overtime matches. With less than two minutes remaining in the second extra frame against Southeast Missouri State, Wolfe played the role of hero when she scored the game’s only goal. Fortier made 14 saves in earning the shutout.

Against Tennessee Tech, the Racers scored in the second half to tie the match and then held on for the tie to move to 7-8-1 (4-2-1 OVC).

MSU jumped out to a quick lead against Austin Peay, but the Governors scored two unanswered to end the Racers’ OVC season on a sour note. A 4-3-1 mark in conference games placed Murray State third behind Samford and Eastern Illinois. Five days later, IUPUI made it two straight losses to end the regular season, downsing MSU 3-0 in Indy.

As the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament’s number three seed, the Racers earned their first-ever home OVC Tournament match against Southeast Missouri on Nov. 2. Sophomore Lacey Ford’s only goal of the season proved to be a big one. The score came in the 46th minute, but SEMO couldn’t get anything past Fortier, and with the 1-0 victory Murray State moved on to face Eastern Illinois.

In the first meeting of the season between the two teams, Eastern Illinois attempted 21 shots but only five were on-goal. This time, the Panthers placed eight shots on-goal, and four of them in the goal to end Murray State’s season, 4-0, at the OVC Tournament semifinals in Birmingham, Ala.

While the Racers finished 2004 with an 8-11-1 record, there were still positives to take from the season. In the program’s five-year history, MSU posted its first-ever winning conference record. After missing the OVC Tournament two straight years, the Racers not only made the tournament, but advanced to the semifinals after picking up their second-ever tournament victory in their first-ever tourney home game.

Reedy finished her senior campaign with a host of school records, including most career goals, points and shots in school history in addition to claiming her third All-OVC selection. In the classroom, 16 of the 35 Racers earned a spot on the Ohio Valley Conference Commissioner’s Honor Roll.

Entering its 58th year, the Ohio Valley Conference embarks on a new era while continuing to build on the success that has made it the nation’s eighth-oldest NCAA Division I conference.

In 2003, the OVC extended its geographical footprint into Alabama for the first time, expanding the league’s membership to a record 11 institutions with the addition of Jacksonville State University and Samford University.

The OVC’s proud past dates back to 1948, but seeds for the new league were actually planted in 1941. It was then that Murray State athletics director Roy Stewart, Eastern Kentucky athletics director Charles “Turkey” Hughes and Western Kentucky public relations director Kelly Thompson first broached the idea of forming a new conference.

Discussions were put on hold by World War II, but re-emerged on Feb. 27-28, 1948, at the Kentucky Hotel in Louisville, as the three original institutions combined with Morehead State, Louisville and Evansville to form the OVC.

In the 1950s, the OVC became a pioneer on a much more significant scale socially. During times of racial segregation, league member Morehead State became one of the first non-traditionally black mid-southern institutions to accept a black student. In 1958, Marshall Banks earned athletically-related aid at Morehead, which signed a second black athlete, Howard Murphy, a year later. With racial barriers broken, the rest of the institutions in the league began to provide educational and athletic opportunities to African-Americans.

In the late 1970s, women’s athletics began a rebirth on the national scene, as the NCAA began sponsoring and marketing women’s sports. Recognizing the need to provide increased opportunities for female athletes, the OVC established women’s championships in the sports of basketball, tennis and track in 1977, with cross country and volleyball added over the next four years. Those sports were initially governed by the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, but the overall strength of women’s programs in the league was demonstrated by the automatic bids the OVC instantly received when the NCAA became the governing body in 1982.

Through the early years of the league, administrators wrestled with fan behavior due to the close proximity of the conference members and the intense rivalries which developed. Just as it did decades ago, the OVC took the leadership role on what has become a national issue.

In 1995, the OVC implemented a first-of-its-kind “Sportsmanship Statement,” a policy which promotes principles of fair play, ethical conduct and respect for one’s opponent. The statement has become a model for others to follow across the nation, and has answered the challenge of the NCAA Presidents Commission to improve sportsmanship in collegiate athletics.

The OVC has also produced several Olympic athletes, while some of the greatest players in professional sports were educated at OVC institutions. The list includes former greats such as basketball’s Popeye Jones (Murray State), Clem Haskins (Western Kentucky) and Bubba Wells (Austin Peay) and football standout Phil Simms and two-sport star Steve Hamilton (Morehead State) as well as present-day standouts like basketball player Trenton Hassell (Austin Peay); football players Chad Bratzke (Eastern Kentucky), Marquis Walker (Southeast Missouri), Chris Watson (Eastern Illinois) and Brent Alexander (Tennessee State); baseball players Brandon Berger (Eastern Kentucky), Kirk Reuter (Murray State), Kerry Robinson (Southeast Missouri) and Jamie Walker (Austin Peay) and professional golfer Jeff Sluman (Tennessee Tech).
The Ohio Valley Conference

The playing field isn’t the only place where OVC athletes are working hard. The league also recognizes excellence in the classroom.

The prestigious OVC Academic Achievement Banner is awarded annually to the league school whose athletes produce the highest grade-point average when compared to the general student body. Also, six Scholar-Athlete Awards are presented yearly to male and female athletes, while others are commended for their academic success by being Medal of Honor recipients or earning a spot on the Commissioner’s Honor Roll.

Additionally, the Steve Hamilton Sportsmanship Award — named in honor of the former Morehead State student-athlete, coach and athletics director — is presented annually to a junior or senior student-athlete with significant athletic contributions who best exemplifies the characteristics of sportsmanship and citizenship.

Cutchin Field, Home Of The Racers

Once the home facility for Murray State football, Cutchin Field is now the home field for Murray State soccer.
Located behind the Curris Center and across the street from Racer Arena, Cutchin Field has undergone many changes.
The facility was expanded to a 72-by-114-yard playing field and was resurfaced with Bermuda grass. A sprinkler system has also been installed as part of the field’s makeover. A state-of-the-art scoreboard complements the facility at the northwest corner of the field.
Player shelters like that seen at the professional and world championship level of play are in place at both benches and the scorer’s table.
Landscaping has been added to make the field more attractive, with foster holly and Hicks yew trees encircling the field. Future plans call for tiered seating on the hill on the east side of the field.

The Racers have won 63.4 percent of their games at Cutchin Field and are 24-13-4 overall in five seasons of varsity soccer at the facility.

Cutchin Field was the home of Murray State football from 1924 to 1972, with the exception of the 1943 season, when there was no team due to World War II.
The first home loss on the field didn’t come until the school’s sixth season, a 6-0 loss to Middle Tennessee State.
The Thoroughbreds — later to be called the Racers — ran up a 142-75-15 (.644) record on Cutchin Field, including a 5-0 mark in the school’s first year in the Ohio Valley Conference, winning the league title in the conference’s first season in 1948.
The field is named for multi-sport coach Carlisle Cutchin, who was Murray State’s second football coach (1925-30), earning a record of 37-11-4 (.722); the first men’s basketball coach (1925-41), leading MSU to a 256-91 (.738) record, never losing more than nine games in a single season; and MSU’s first baseball coach (1928-32, 1941, 1946-53), taking the ‘Breds to a 98-106-3 (.481) record over 14 seasons.
All totaled, Cutchin had a combined record of 391-208-7 (.651) in 36 seasons as a head coach in three sports.
Cutchin was inducted into the Murray State Athletics Hall of Fame in 1970, the first coach to earn the honor.
Cutchin Field has a long-standing and successful sports history, dating almost to the founding of Murray State itself. After a 30-year hiatus from varsity sports, its tradition continues as the setting for Racer soccer.

On Sept. 8, 2001, Murray State University began a new era in its history when Dr. F. King Alexander was introduced as the university’s 10th president. Alexander brings innovation to the university, which is in the midst of an exciting period of growth. Enrollment is at all-time high and the university is gaining national recognition from some of the leading education publications.

Alexander came to Murray State after serving as an administrator and faculty member at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign since 1997. Alexander was responsible for managing the graduate education program in the study of higher education governance, leadership and policy development in the department of educational organization and leadership at UI. Ranked in the nation’s top 20 in 2000-01 by U.S. News and World Report, this program experienced a 200-percent growth in student enrollment while under his leadership, and currently consists of about 100 doctoral and master’s degree-seeking students from the U.S. and abroad. Alexander is also a faculty member of UI’s Institute of Governance and Public Affairs, which is an interdisciplinary public policy “think tank,” consisting of faculty from three University of Illinois campuses.

Prior to his stint at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, Alexander served as post-doctoral researcher in the office of the provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs, and taught in the department of educational administration at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Earlier, he was director of annual programs at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, where he coordinated the institution’s fundraising activities. He has also been a manager at Liberty National Bank in Louisville, Ky.

Alexander’s academic publications include edited books, book chapters, refereed articles, applied research studies, monographs, book reviews and reports. He has secured a number of research grants, and currently serves on the editorial boards of The Journal of Education Finance and The Journal of College Student Retention.

A native Kentuckian, Alexander received a Ph.D. in higher education administration from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, a master of science in comparative education policy from the University of Oxford, England, and a B.A. in political science from St. Lawrence University in New York.
Allen Ward joined the Murray State athletics staff as its director on March 2, 2005, and has hit the ground running in his first few months, establishing the Racer Club as the fundraising program and working to improve on the already solid reputation that academics has among MSU student-athletes.

Ward, 38, comes from the University of North Texas, where he served in numerous capacities over 14 years, including the last six years as senior associate athletics director.

Spend a few moments with Ward, and it is very clear that he has a passion and devotion for intercollegiate athletics.

“I can’t think of anything I’d rather do than help our student-athletes earn their degree and win championships at the same time,” Ward said. “My family and I are very excited to become part of the Murray State family.

“The well-being of our student-athletes is my No. 1 concern. They are what makes Murray State athletics successful.”

Under his leadership, the necessary resources needed to create an environment in which MSU student-athletes can achieve at the highest level will be provided. Ward is molding Murray State into a well-balanced program that wins in the classroom as well as on the field.

“I love to win, but there is a right way and a wrong way to go about it,” Ward said. “We are a proud program with a rich history. We will continue to win championships while, at the same time, prepare our student-athletes to excel long after they have played their last game for Murray State.

“I expect to be a leader in the OVC in everything we do. I expect to win championships and advance to compete on a national level. I fully intend to put the pieces in place that will allow MSU athletics to lead the way in academic achievement. Our student-athletes will be recognized for their citizenship and character.”

In his short time here, Ward has already given indications as to where he plans to take the program. Facilities are being improved, budgets are being enhanced, and critical staff is being added. Ward has also introduced the Racer Club as the new fundraising umbrella for all private financial support.

“A successful annual fund drive is crucial to meeting our immediate and long-term needs,” Ward said. “The Racer Club will allow us to recognize and reward our contributors and build a grass-roots organization that invites everyone to be part of what we are working to accomplish.”

A native of Rolla, Mo., Ward is a 1989 graduate of William Jewell College and earned his master’s degree in sports administration from Wichita State. Ward and his wife, Sharon, have two children: Nathan, 7, and Nicole, 4.
