NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) is a completely autonomous association, currently administering championship programs of intercollegiate athletics to more than 460 fully accredited, four-year colleges and universities of moderate enrollment. The fundamental tenet of the NAIA is that intercollegiate athletics is an integral part of the total educational program of the institution. This belief is strongly reflected in the governing documents, activities and organizational structure of the association.

The NAIA was founded in 1940 as the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball (NAIB) and emanated from a "National Small College Basketball Tournament" inaugurated in 1937 in Kansas City, Missouri. In 1948 the NAIB, recognizing its commitment to democratic principles, became the first national organization to offer intercollegiate post-season opportunities to black athletes. Unprecedented action was taken in 1953 when predominantly black institutions were voted into membership.

That major step came one year after another, which has forever changed the face of the association. In 1952, as a result of the expressed desires of the member institutions, appropriate steps were taken by which the NAIB became the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and the first all-encompassing rules and standards were adopted. Recommendations to take this important step were made by the National Executive Committee to the annual meeting, after determining the move was desirable and feasible. The recommendation was subsequently approved by a mail vote of the entire membership.

That year, national championships were added in golf, tennis and outdoor track and field. Football, cross country, baseball and swimming and diving were added to the championship calendar in 1956. Wrestling (1958), soccer (1959), bowling (1962-78), gymnastics (1964-84), indoor track and field (1966) and volleyball (1969-80) were later additions.

Two major changes were made during the 1970s which continue as a part of the association a decade later. At the direction of the membership, an extensive study was completed in 1970 which paved the way for two divisions in football. Four teams in each division qualified for the championship series until 1978 when the field was enlarged to eight teams in each division. The size of the playoff series was again doubled in 1987 when 16 teams began to qualify for each division's post-season action. In 1975, the men's basketball tournament moved from the confines of Municipal Auditorium to Crosby Kemper Arena (16,284 capacity), also in Kansas City, MO. It marked the first time since 1937 that the tournament had not been held in the auditorium. Another change will be introduced in 1991-92 as two divisions will play for basketball championships in both the men's and women's programs.

Several significant changes occurred during the 1980s as the NAIA moved into its second half century of existence. The establishment of national collegiate athletics programs for women on Aug. 1, 1980, was a major step in strengthening the association's commitment for men and women on an equal basis. On May 1 of that year the membership mandated--through a mail vote--the incorporation of championship events for women, making the NAIA the first national organization to offer national intercollegiate competition for both men and women. The championship calendar for women began that year with basketball, cross country, gymnastics, indoor and outdoor track and field, softball, tennis and volleyball. Soccer was added in 1984. Gymnastics was discontinued after the 1988 championship.

Five years later, the membership made another sweeping change in an effort to maintain a high level of democracy. Effective Aug. 1, 1985, each member institution in good standing received one vote at the annual meeting, rather than the representative voting structure of one vote per six members with each district.

Reflecting a national sentiment for a greater accountability for collegiate athletics, the Council of Presidents moved from an advisory capacity to active leadership on Aug. 1, 1986. As the association's chief governing body, the Council of Presidents assumed responsibility for all budget and fiscal matters, employment and supervision of the President and Chief Executive Officer and National Office staff, and continuing review, evaluation and strengthening of academic standards. The National Coordinating Committee has the responsibility of organizing the championship events and overseeing the standing committees and associations.

The Association believes in the educational value of intercollegiate athletics. The NAIA was founded on an "educational model" and, thus, academic excellence is placed before athletic participation.

The NAIA is committed to the principles of quality athletics through academic achievement in improving society. To this end, the NAIA has adopted the strongest academic requirements of any national organization administering intercollegiate athletics.

The NAIA was the first national governing body to require eligibility certification for all student-athletes throughout the regular season as well as post-season play. The NAIA is unique in requiring eligibility certification after each term of attendance to verify students are making progress toward a degree.

A revolutionary step was taken in March 1988 when the membership overwhelmingly adopted legislation which ties the athlete's continued participation in athletic competition toward the ongoing pursuit of a degree.

The adopted proposal, which became effective in the fall semester of 1989, states that a first-time entering freshman student must meet two of the following three entry-level requirements:

- 1) a score of 15 on the ACT test or 700 on the SAT test.
- 2) an overall high school grade point average of 2.000 on a 4.000 scale.
- 3) graduate in the top 50 percent of his or her high school graduating class.

Students not meeting at least two of the three standards will be denied athletic participation at a member institution the first full year the student is in college.

In addition, student-athletes must demonstrate continued academic achievement in subsequent years while participating in intercollegiate athletics.

More than 80,000 student-athletes participate yearly at the varsity level in the NAIA with an additional 35,000 competing in junior varsity/freshman programs. These 115,000 young men and women represent a membership of more than 720,000 full-time undergraduate students within the association's membership.

In addition to the administration of 23 national athletic events, the NAIA is strongly committed to recognizing academic achievement in all sports through Scholar-Athlete and scholarship programs.

Informational services, clinics, educational workshops, in-service training and drug education programs represent other educational services offered by the Association.

The NAIA maintains cooperative relationships with other collegiate sports administrative bodies for the purposes of furthering intercollegiate and amateur sport and enhancing opportunities for members. Improved communications and understanding are expressed goals of the NAIA-NCAA Committee.

Although less formally structured, a cooperative liaison relationship is maintained between the NAIA and other national athletics administrative associations, such as the National Christian College Athletics Association, the National Junior College Athletic Association and the National Federation of State High School Associations.

The NAIA maintains affiliation with the National Sports Governing Bodies that are recognized by the USOC, the IOC, and the appropriate International Federation in each sport in which the NAIA sponsors national championships. These are: The Athletics Congress of the USA; U.S. Baseball Federation; Amateur Basketball Association of the USA; U.S. Gymnastics Federation; U.S. Soccer Federation; United States Aquatic Sports, Inc.; U.S. Volleyball Association; USA Wrestling; U.S. Tennis Association; Amateur Softball Association of America. NAIA officers and coaches occupy leadership positions in several of the Sports Governing Bodies by virtue of election to councils or executive committees.

The NAIA holds full membership on the Joint Commission on Competitive Safeguards and the Medical Aspects of Sport Committee along with the American Health Association, the National Athletic Trainers Association, the National Junior College Athletic Association and the National Federation of State High School Associations. The Joint Commission is intended to promote communications among the various organizations interested in the health and safety of those engaged in athletics. Among its goals and objectives are the establishment of guidelines and standards in the field of athletic medicine; the establishment and development of continuous research on pertinent questions and problems in the field of athletic medicine; the establishment of valid statistics on the incidence of injuries in sports activities; and the formulation of recommendations for rules and administration of athletic programs.

The NAIA maintains a close contact with various other educational bodies and works with them to properly maintain intercollegiate athletics as an integral part of the total educational program. The NAIA relies heavily upon the educational standards of these agencies in developing its standards for athletics participation. These agencies and organizations include the Council of Postsecondary Accreditation (which includes the six regional accrediting bodies), the Association of American Colleges (AAC), the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), The National Council for the Accreditation of Teachers Education (NCATE), The American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers, the American Association of Colleges for Teachers Education and others.

The NAIA holds membership and actively participates in the affairs of each of the recognized sports halls of fame in sports in which the NAIA conducts national championships. These include: The Nelsmith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame; the National Track and Field Hall of Fame; the International Swimming Hall of Fame, Inc.; The Wrestling Hall of Fame; the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, Inc.; the Baseball Hall of Fame; the National Soccer Hall of Fame and the Amateur Softball Association Hall of Fame.

NAIA-SIDA ALL-SPORTS CONTEST

Established in 1969, the All-Sports contest measures the success of an institution's overall athletics program by the accumulation of points in post-season competition on the district, area and national levels.

The top four institutions in both the men's and women's programs receive a trophy.

HALL OF FAME

The NAIA Hall of Fame Award is the highest honor presented by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. Nominees must be persons of outstanding quality, high moral character, fine leadership quality and must be held in high esteem by their colleagues, coaches and athletes.

The NAIA Hall of Fame was formed in 1952 to honor players and coaches in basketball and also to recognize people for general contributions to the Association. Presently, the NAIA Hall of Fame is divided into 14 divisions – one division for meritorious service for the general advancement of the NAIA and 13 divisions for specific sports. Each sport division is further divided into three categories: athletes, coaches and meritorious service to the sport.

Prior to inductions in the fall of 1991, the NAIA Hall of Fame had a membership of 814: 360 athletes, 269 coaches and 185 for meritorious service.

GENERAL CONTRIBUTORS--MERITORIOUS SERVICE

(Awarded to those persons making significant contributions to NAIA athletics in a general field, not restricted to one sport)
