

Eliot Institute Board of Directors

Covenant of Right Relations

As members or staff of the Eliot Institute Board of Directors, we covenant to affirm and support the inherent worth and dignity of each board member, staff member, and of each camper.

To do this we will address each other with respect, entertaining opinions and viewpoints different from our own with patience and good will.

We will receive suggestions with belief in their positive intent and, in turn, we will make suggestions that serve the mission of Eliot Institute.

In communicating with other Board members, staff, or campers, whether in person, in writing, or via electronic mail, we will adhere to our guidelines for professional confidentiality and positive interaction with each other.

We will remember our purpose as board members and staff is to maintain and improve the heritage of Eliot Institute so it may continue to offer fun, safe and rewarding family camps for present and future generations.

Adopted by the Eliot Institute Board of Directors, January 26, 2001.
Amended on April 20, 2013
