The Artistry of Change: The 3 Habits of Highly Resilient People

The ability to creatively handle constant change is the most sought after skill in the 21st Century.

People who can lead, adapt, innovate, and facilitate while facing constant change are the leaders of the future. An “artist of change” sees how to benefit from changes affecting their team, can create their own change process, and can build a culture of innovation wherever they go.

During this lively, entertaining and practical keynote you will be introduced to Carla Rieger’s tools for staying creatively adapted in uncertain times. Your attendees will discover how to:

- move people from reactivity to solutions when change hits
- help people benefit from the changes that may seem challenging
- inspire a culture of innovation and resourcefulness on your team

The Artistry of Change® is an innovative system that blends diverse fields such as educational kinesiology, psychology, change management theory, creative process models, and neuroscience. Witness how these fields are merging in exciting ways to produce the new ‘workplace artistry’.

Experience the power of full capacity no matter what is happening around you.

The Art of Communication: How to Turn Differences, Complaints and Pushback into Creative Solutions

Differences are an element like fire: too much causes damage; too little and no transformation can occur.

Costly communication breakdowns often happen because of simple misunderstandings. If not dealt with, you can lose income, enjoyment and productivity in your work environment.

During this engaging and interactive presentation you will discover how to:

- practice 3 simple habits that prevent communication breakdowns
- switch from an atmosphere of tension to a “healthy discussion”
- have touchy conversations that lead to positive outcomes
- communicate your needs in a way that people are open to hearing
- win back trust and create goodwill if it was lost

Experience the joy of making open communication a part of your daily work life.
