By repeatedly asking the question, “Why,” you can peel away layers of symptoms to reveal the root cause of a problem.

State the problem:

Why is this problem happening?

This is the root cause. We can design a solution to address this problem.