You have relationships based on culture.

People from the same country always do things together.

They see movies.

They go shopping.

You have to adjust and make changes in life.