GEN. R. E. NOBLE, '90

Alumni President, 1928

Under the direction of General Noble the organization of local Auburn clubs was extended to every county in Alabama and to all sections of the United States where a sufficient number of Auburn men reside. Also, the entire constitution and by-laws of the Alumni Association was revised and rewritten.

General Noble has had wide and distinguished service as an army officer, retiring with the rank of Major-General in 1925. Later he was a member and finally director of the Rockefeller Foundation Yellow Fever Commission to the West Coast of Africa. General Noble now lives at Crowan Cottage, Anniston, Alabama.

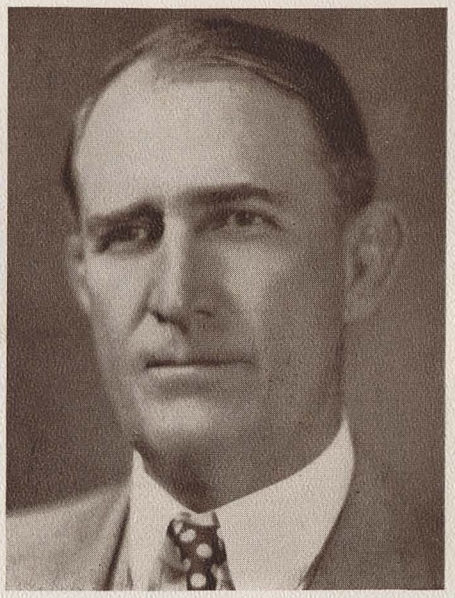
JAMES V. BROWN, A.B., M.S.

Executive Secretary Alumni Association
Chairman Student Placement Bureau
Chairman Athletic Faculty

An active alumni office is operated on the campus by the Executive Secretary. Here all affairs relating to the alumni are handled, including the maintaining of a file of graduates, and the publication of a monthly magazine for the alumni.

Through the Student Placement Bureau, all types of local employment are made available to students. The bureau is constantly seeking new fields of student employment.

The office of Chairman of the Athletic Faculty embodies the duties of presiding at all meetings where matters are considered concerning the athletic policy, the eligibility of players, and the approving of athletic schedules.



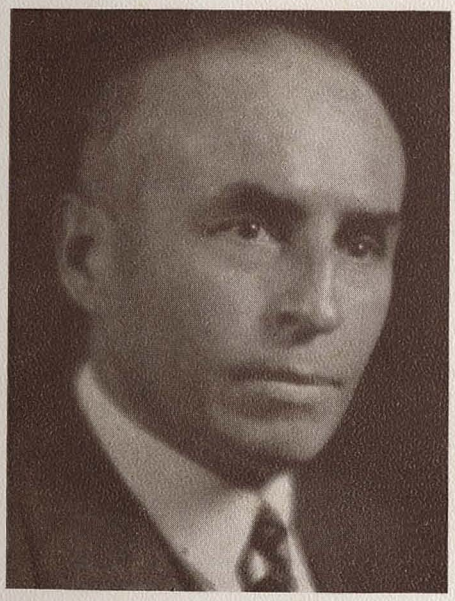
T. D. SAMFORD, '88

Alumni President, 1902-'07

For five years, Judge Samford piloted the destinies of the Alumni Association as the second president of the organization. Excepting the eight-year term of Thomas Bragg, Judge Samford held the office longer than any other Alumni president.

During these early years that much important work was accomplished. Annual meetings were held at which time there was a regular business session, a banquet, and an alumni address. In addition to many other worth-while accomplishments, the Association established the Broun Memorial Scholarship Fund for worthy women students. Also, it was during Judge Samford's presidency that a movement was started for the erection of a bronze tablet in memory of the members of the old college who gave their lives for the South.

In the same year Judge Samford was elected president of the Alumni Association, he was appointed a member of the Board of Trustees of the college, a position he has held continuously since. Judge Samford is a prominent lawyer in Opelika.



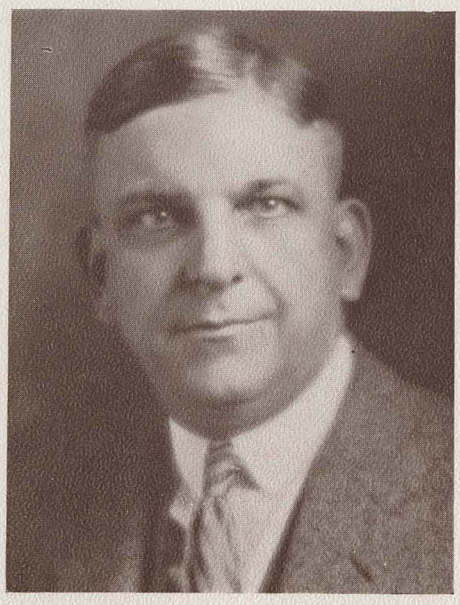
C. L. HAROLD, '00

Alumni President, 1910-'12

During the two years C. L. Harold, '00, was president of the Alumni Association much constructive work was accomplished. Several scholarship funds were maintained and regular functions of the Association were performed, including the yearly meeting back at Auburn and the banquet which affords the real enjoyment on these occasions.

For a number of years after graduating at Auburn, Mr. Harold was a member of the reportorial staff of the Birmingham News and the Montgomery Advertiser.

At the present time, Mr. Harold holds a prominent position with the Brooklyn Edison Company, Brooklyn, New York.



THOMAS BRAGG, '01

Alumni President, 1912-'20

When Tom Bragg was invited to Birmingham to become manager of the investment department of the Alabama Power Company in 1920, he had been president of the Alumni Association for eight consecutive annual terms. A few of the outstanding achievements as president of the Association were the founding of The Auburn Alumni Quarterly which is now The Auburn Alumnus, the bringing about of the great Home-coming Reunion of alumni in June, 1913, the raising of funds for the Alumni Gymnasium, and the organization of "The Old Guard" among the alumni graduating before 1880.

Mr. Bragg is now a vice-president of the Alabama Power Company.

J. V. DENSON, '05

Alumni President, 1920-'21

John V. Denson was president of the Alumni Association for one year from June 1st, 1920, succeeding Thomas Bragg's long and successful incumbency and preceding Charlie DeBardeleben's and the drive for a million dollars for Auburn. Though short, Mr. Denson's term of office is significant. Special effort was made to organize local groups of Auburn men in places where a sufficient number of Auburn graduates or former students made an Auburn Club feasible.

The Auburn $1,000,000 Drive was conceived and planned and for the first time a full-time, well-paid executive secretary was employed. Mr. Denson is a distinguished lawyer in Opelika, Alabama.

CHARLES F. DEBARDELEBEN

Alumni President, 1921-'24

The Greater Auburn Campaign, the crowning achievement of Mr. DeBardeleben's three years as alumni president, brought into play every quality of leadership which had been developed by his busy and successful life. Despite the demands of his large and varied interests, he found time to put into the effort and energy an inspiration that kept the movement progressing until it achieved its great purpose of saving the day for Auburn and permitting it to move forward.

Mr. DeBardeleben is now president of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company. He is also chairman of the board of Charles C. Stewart Machine Company, director of the DeBardeleben Coal Corporation, and director of American-Traders National Bank.

JUDGE WILLIAM H. SAMFORD

Alumni President, 1924-'28

For four years as president of the Auburn Alumni Association, Judge Samford served faithfully in an endeavor to sustain the authorities of the college and to organize the alumni into a cohesive, virile force for the good of the institution. The growth of the Association from 168 active members in 1924, to 1,000 in 1928 and the enthusiastic and harmonious meeting in June, 1928, at which Judge Samford turned over the affairs to his successor is but an evidence of the work he accomplished as president.

Judge Samford was appointed a judge on the Alabama Court of Appeals in 1917, which position he still holds, having been elected by the people in 1918, 1924 and 1928.

Prominence and distinction in this old world of ours are, we realize, relative states of being. On these pages we have published a small group of prominent and distinguished alumni of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute who by their recognized efforts to make "Old Auburn" go, have been elected vice-presidents of the Alumni Association.

ADMINISTRATION

His Excellency, Bibb Graves, the Governor of the State of Alabama, has been a prominent person in the recent history of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. As President Ex-officio, of the Board of Trustees, he has always kept the interests of this College foremost, and through his great influence and ability, Auburn has prospered greatly in the last few years.

In appreciation for the wonderful work he has done for a Greater Auburn, we wish to dedicate this page of the 1929 Glomerata.

"Auburn, The Cornerstone"

INSTITUTIONS are created for high purposes; they have a subtle, an almost intangible influence upon the lives of the State. To Auburn have come men who have struggled up life's pathway to the very highest and most honorable positions. Auburn is partly the product of the lives of those who have lived and wrought here, its faculties, its students. In the Alma Mater song we sing these words:

"Adding laurels to thy fame
Enshrined so dear."

and then these others:

"Thy sacred trust we'll bear with us
The ages through."

The laurels we are adding and the trust we bear are surely not just because of our education and the added earning capacity we have developed in college. Are they not tied up with ideals, with devotion to things which we love, with the finer, higher, better sentiments which rightfully are the products of real education and real refinement? Whether we go out with a training in engineering or agriculture, in science or art, in business, in education or a profession, we must carry away something more than that which we get from classroom and laboratory. May these not be the three thoughts uppermost in our adding "laurels" and "bearing that sacred trust"?

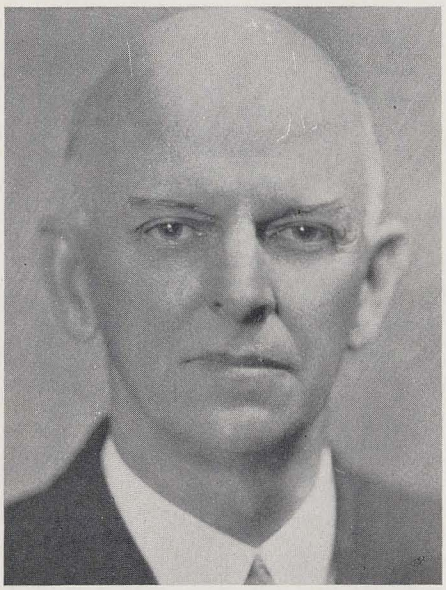
To build here lives of moral and spiritual worth, dependable lives intent upon adding to the sum total of good there is in the world;

To bear to the world trained, useful, industrious lives fitted to perform worthwhile tasks in a busy world;

To make those lives serve the world well, not selfishly, but broadly, courageously, worthily.

If these standards represent "Auburn," the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, our Alma Mater, the laurels will be there and the sacred trust will be preserved. "Auburn" must be a producer of producers but a producer of spirit as well, the "Cornerstone" of a greater Alabama and therefore a greater America.

Bradford Knapp.



Graduate Studies

GEORGE PETRIE

A.M., PH.D., LL.D.

Dean

The Graduate School offers guidance and special facilities to those students who wish training in research.

Lectures and textbooks are of secondary importance. The students are brought into actual contact with experts engaged in real research and thus learn the art by daily practice.

School of Chemistry and Pharmacy

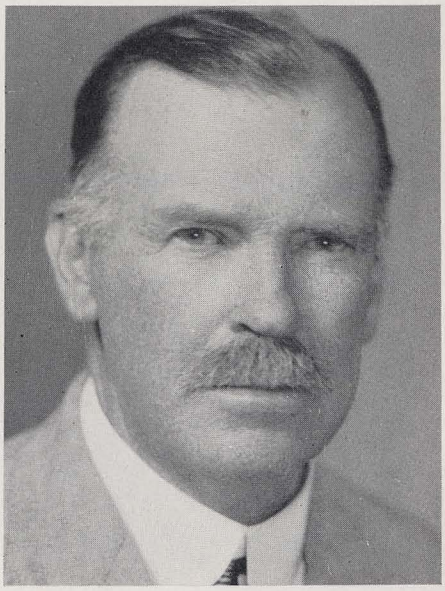
BATTLE BENNET ROSS

M.S., LL.D.

Dean

It is the aim of the School of Chemistry to prepare students for positions as commercial chemists. In furthering this aim, the theoretical knowledge as learned in the classroom is supplemented by practical experiments in laboratories.

The School of Pharmacy is a member in good standing of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.



The College of Engineering

JOHN JENKINS WILMORE

M.E.

Dean

The civilization of today depends more and more on the work of the engineer. He is largely responsible for the materials, the machinery and the processes of manufacturing, and his activities in promoting the general welfare are widely recognized.

This is the oldest College of Engineering in the South and the high efficiency of its instruction is unquestioned. The services of its graduates are in demand in every section of the country, and their record of professional accomplishment is one of which the friends of Auburn may well be proud.

School of Veterinary Medicine

CHARLES ALLEN CARY

B.S., D.V.M.

Dean

The courses and instruction in this School are so arranged and correlated as to best meet the demands of young men and women who desire to become educated veterinarians or to study human medicine. The practical laboratory work receives particular stress.

Graduates of the College are eligible to membership in the American Veterinary Medical Association, as well as to appointments in the Army.

School of Education

ZEBULON JUDD

Dean

During the past year, the School of Education has been thoroughly reorganized and its faculty more than doubled. The number of Education courses has been increased more than one hundred per cent. One-fourth of all college students are pursuing Education courses in preparation for teaching and more than one-fourth of all graduates finish from teacher-training courses. The types of school positions for which "Auburn" prepares students are: Elementary teachers (beyond normal school graduation), junior high school teachers, senior high school teachers for general academic subjects, vocational agriculture, home economics, manual and industrial arts, principals, supervisors, and superintendents.

The Experiment Station
The College of Agriculture

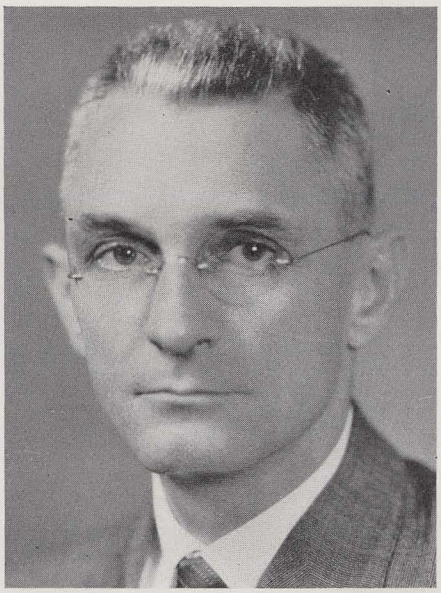
MARION JACOB FUNCHESS

B.S., M.S.

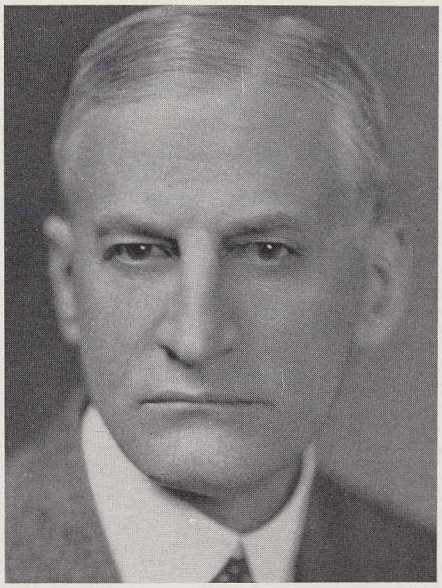
Director and Dean

Instruction in all kind of agricultural work is offered by the College of Agriculture. The special needs and essential requirements of prospective farmers are ever predominant in all courses offered.

An invaluable service is rendered to the people in the state of Alabama by the Experimental Station. Through its numerous and exhaustive investigations of agricultural problems, the Station is enabled to keep the people of the state well informed on all new developments in Agriculture.



Agricultural Extension Service



Luther Noble Duncan

M.S.

Director

The Extension Service is the medium through which the valuable information determined by the Experiment Station is distributed to the people of Alabama. Not only is important literature mailed out over the state, but lecturers, as well, travel over the state.

The broadcasting station W. A. P. I., now located at Birmingham, though connected with Auburn by special wire, furnishes an excellent organ for distributing valuable information to the residents of the state.

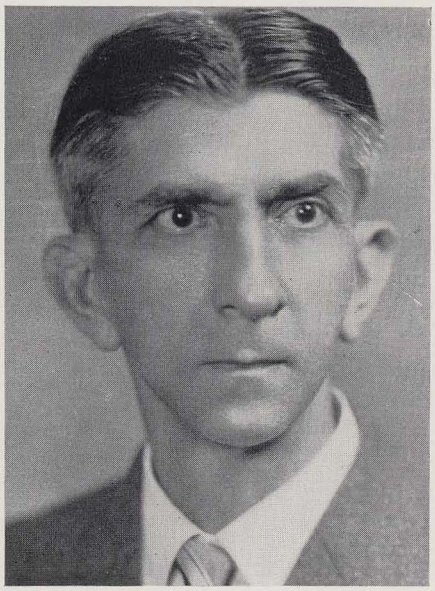
Academic Department

John Winfield Scott

B.S., M.A., Ph.D.

Dean

When Auburn was founded in 1859 it had only the Academic Department. This division has functioned continuously since that time. This department now offers a wide range of subjects which are fundamental to all learning and are required of other schools of the institution. The Academic Division also offers work leading to the B.S. degree in five different cirricula.



School of Architecture

Frederic Child Biggin

B.S., M.S.

Dean

The School of Architecture and Allied Arts offers degree courses in Architecture, Architectural Engineering, and Applied Art. These courses provide a good general education in addition to thorough technical training.

The school is a member of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, and recognized by the American Institute of Architects, from whom it receives an annual medal for award to the architectural student making the best record throughout the entire course.

The course in Applied Art provides opportunity to specialize in commercial art, design of furniture, costumes, textiles and wall paper, interior decoration, or landscape.

Zoe Dobbs

A.B., M.A.

Dean

Dean of Women
Social Director

The Dean of Women is general advisor to women and through this office a personal contact is secured for them. A close relation is insured which gives increased incentive for higher scholarship as well as a desire for a more active participation in college activities.

The Social Director exercises indirect supervision of the dances and other social events, through the Social Committee.

BERNER LEIGH SHI

M.S., C.E.

Executive Secretary
and Registrar

The Executive Secretary is assistant to the President and secretary to the Board of Trustees. The registrar's office furnishes information concerning the entrance, scholastic and personal records of students to the executive officers of the institution, members of the faculty, students, and student organizations.

Extension Teaching

BENJAMIN ROSCOE SHOWALTER

A.B., A.M., PH.D.

Director

Extra-Mural Centers
Correspondence Instruction
Lecture Service

For the past eight years, Extension Teaching has enjoyed a place of prominence among the various departments at Auburn. The number of students taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity is approximately thirteen hundred, or nearly double the number enrolled two years ago.

Instruction by correspondence is offered to all who are unable to come to the campus or to enroll in the extension teaching centers. All courses are conducted by regular members of the faculty, and receive full and regular college credit.

193256

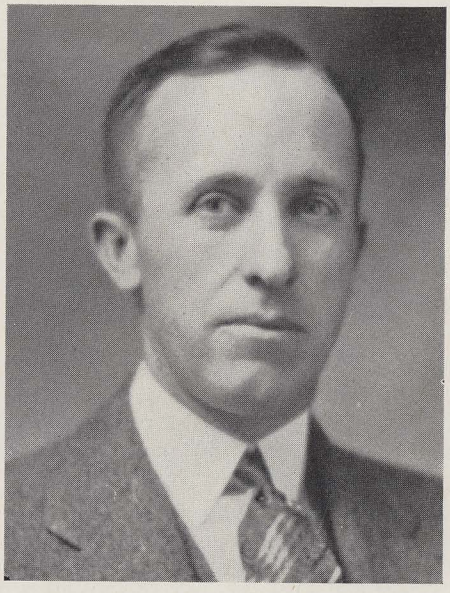
Major John T. Kennedy

F.A., D.O.L.

Commandant

Auburn is one of the land grant colleges established under the federal law of July 22, 1861, and the military department is maintained in accordance with this law. This department comprises a Field Artillery and an Engineer Unit of the Senior Division of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

The War Department of the United States supervises the work of the military department and furnishes the necessary military equipment for its use. Auburn is to be congratulated on having one of the best R. O. T. C. units in the United States. It has received the highest rating awarded by the War Department for the past eight years.



P. O. Davis

One of the first acts of Dr. Bradford Knapp after becoming president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute on July 1, 1928, was to create a department of public information. By this act he combined the news, feature, editorial, visual instruction, and radio work of all divisions and departments of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute into one office for efficiency, economy, co-ordination, and effectiveness.

The duties of this department are:

1. To promulgate all developments and activities of public interest, faculty, research workers, extension workers, and students.
2. To co-operate with students in the dissemination of campus news and instruction for students and faculty.
3. To assist extension workers in making their work more effective through visual instruction and other means.
4. To edit and print college publications.

P. O. Davis was made director of the department. Mr. Davis is an alumnus of Auburn of the Class of '16. He had been in charge of editorial and news work for the Extension Service, Experiment Station and College of Agriculture of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute since January 1, 1920. C. K. Brown, who had been in charge of the news work for the college, became a member of the department. Three student assistants and two stenographers were employed. These are in addition to the staff of WAPI, consisting of a manager, an assistant manager and announcer, a program director, four engineers, a secretary and a stenographer.

Senior Class History

TIME PASSES RAPIDLY; yes, more rapidly than for a condemned man, for us who are about to bid adieu to this cherished institution that for the past four years has sheltered us and attempted to inculcate into us the elements of our chosen professions, the principles of better living, and a spirit of sportsmanship and co-operation. Now that the gong is about to sound on the final round of our college careers, and ere we write finis to the most important period of our lives, it is no more than appropriate that we should reminisce for a while upon the events which have transpired during our short sojourn in these halls of learning.

It was on September 2, 1925, that some five hundred of the supposedly most sophisticated young men and women of the entire country entered Auburn as the Class of '29. With our arrival in Auburn was inaugurated the first freshman week in this institution and one of the first in the South. We were welcomed to the institution by Doctor Dowell and numerous members of the faculty, who also told us all about the Auburn traditions and the qualities of the different courses.

The upper-classmen had not begun to arrive before we were becoming aware of the fact that perhaps we were not so learned after all. With the cutting of our hair and the other indignities imposed upon "rats," we were fully convinced that we were not such important cogs in the machine called life as we had formerly surmised. Our class was organized and "Maggie" McGhee was chosen president for the year. With the beginning of the football season, and after attending the pep meetings, Stunt Night, and other similar activities, the true meaning of the Auburn Spirit was instilled into us and almost unconsciously we were initiated into that group known as Auburn men.

As our "rat" athletics progressed, we soon learned that there was much good material in our class. The Juniors managed to defeat us by the score of 6 to 0 for the class football championship. In other branches of sports our teams were in no respect lacking.

We were not the only newcomers to Auburn that year, for Coach David B. Morey also made his appearance in the "Village of the Plains" at the same time, as head coach. Although he did not have such spectacular success on the athletic field, his popularity with the student body was one that is seldom exceeded.

Ramsay Hall was also dedicated and opened for use in the field of educating aspiring young engineers during the early part of our Freshman year.

We were so interested in our studies under the new atmosphere and were so occupied with becoming acquainted with college life that almost before we knew it, our "rat" year had ended.

Upon our registration as Sophomores, we began to take on new airs. At least we were the ones who could give orders to others. McGhee was again chosen as class president. There was only one flaw in our happy life. Already our class had begun to dwindle. Familiar faces were disappearing very often.

Our class was now well represented on the athletic fields by men like Ingram, Wattwood, Mosely, Peake, Carter, DuBose, McGhee, Beard, Virgin and others whose names will long be remembered when Auburn athletics are mentioned. Under the direction of Coach Morey, our teams that year were nothing to be ashamed of and what they lacked in successes they made up for in their exhibition of the famous "never die" spirit of Auburn.

The Honor System was also discarded during the latter part of our Sophomore year as being ineffective and the form of faculty supervision was installed.

Then came our Junior year. We had come to the full realization of what getting a college education means, and had set ourselves to getting the most out of our opportunities. Again McGhee was put at the helm of the class. From the very beginning of the year, the instituion was involved in a controversy over athletics. The culmination of this controversy came in the middle of the football season with the resignation of Coach Morey and very shortly afterward the resignation of Doctor Dowell. The acceptance of Doctor Dowell's resignation by the Board of Trustees was followed by the abolishment of the student government by the same body on the grounds that the students were too immature to govern themselves.

All of our athletic teams, except the football team, were more than successful that year. Our basketball team was runner-up in the Southern Conference tournament. Our baseball team was Conference champion.

Our Senior year is now upon us. Doctor Bradford Knapp came to the Institution as its president at the beginning of this year. He has already shown himself to be a man of integrity and foresight in matters relating to the welfare of the Institution and the student body. Frank DuBose was elected president of the class.

It is a very sad thought that soon we will leave the college and its environs that for the last four years have came to be home for many of us. But it is necessary that we go. We have received the preparation for our life's work and it now devolves upon us to make for ourselves a place in the world's work that will bring honor to our Alma Mater. By our work in promoting civilization, let us never do anything that will bring shame upon the name of the Institution or upon the friends who have helped us to make the most of our opportunities here in college.

Senior Class Poem

Of what is the Auburn Spirit formed
We hear so much about and are possessed by?

For though the name is easily intoned
It may not be defined.
It is a Will-o'-the-Wisp
But not the kind that men pursue.
It is a Will-o'-the-Wisp
That follows all who come within its reach.

Sometimes we feel it as we watch the drill
And hear it in the music of the band
As it keeps the marchers moving in straight lines.

The undergraduates returning in the Fall
Thrill at first sight of the wise old clock
And even while afar feel exaltation in their hearts.
So in the face of the clock
Imagine they see in it
A symbol of that Spirit
As it watches all their goings in and out.
And as they meet their fellows,
Again they see it
In their eyes and smiles and greeting.
The Auburn Spirit is a part with that sweet pang
Of entering the lovely thousand-times-used walks
Beneath the campus trees,
And has with them a common language.
It is a part with all our classes,
Even when Spring,
In her delicate garment of blending, changing greens,
Lulls us to dreams
With her soft whisperings and beckonings
And makes us forget the teacher and his words:
Or when Autumn is clothed with a medley
Of wantonly riotous colors,
That Spirit is leading us on
With a will to live with it and for it.

At sunset as a veil of shielding mist
Seems hovering over this wee world
Of peaks and valleys, plains and lakes and woods,
We gain a larger vision and feel infinitely wise,
And smile at foolish striving to frame it in conceits.

Yes, you may laugh at my following this Will-o'-the-Wisp;
For striving to catch it and hold it
And give it a definition
Any parrot could learn.
But I surely am partly victorious,
For it is caught and held.

And what does it matter its definite color,
Its shape, or the pitch of its voice?
The thing is to know that it is caught and held
A captive in the hearts of thousands.

Junior Class History

ON SEPTEMBER 8, 1926, the Western of Alabama pulled into the station at Auburn and deposited, a few at a time, some six hundred future prospects for the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. They came from Georgia, Tennessee, Louisiana, South Carolina, North Carolina, Washington, D. C., Virginia, and Mexico, not to mention the cream of Alabama being in the bunch. In other words the hopes and prides of the Southern States got off, leaving their pride and hard-earned high school honors behind them. The first few weeks consisted of education, that stuffed into their heads with and by books, and that practical education that also goes into the make-up of an Auburn man. All things being equal and alike, the bunch got together and chose the man that was to lead them. Porter Callahan, his fame preceding him, was put into office as the head of the Freshman class. We left for Christmas, came back with a longing, and then we realized just a little bit of what Auburn meant. After the nine months had passed, we said goodbye, and what a goodbye it was!

Freshmen we left, and haughty Sophomores we returned. Lookout Class of 31! We started where we had left off and having chosen Haley Milligan as president of our class, we settled down to give a hard-fighting Auburn team the greatest support that they have ever had. We lost, but still behind the bunch we carried through into the basketball season and followed that team to Atlanta to create in Auburn annals the greatest excursion that has ever taken place or that has ever been successfully carried through. We rode the rods, and stayed behind them. Carry on was the spirit of the year.

Ho Hum, another year. The sophisticated Junior comes back with a penchant for dress, and a desire to see just what this new president and coach were going to do. We stirred out of the lethargy and started out to build the greater Auburn that Doctor Knapp had drilled into our heads. We backed Coach Bohler and supported the team to a fare ye well. In fact, we've done just about as good and perhaps better than was expected of us. We're proud, and rightly should be, for next year is to be the greatest year of them all, and perhaps, who knows, that the Class of '30 will have a lot to do with its being the greatest year of a greater Auburn.

Come on, big gang! Third down and one to go.

H. O. DAVIS,
Class Historian.

Sophomore Class History

SEPTEMBER THE TENTH is the day we returned to make the Second Leaf in the History of Our Life at Auburn. As we stepped from the train on this beautiful autumn day, we saw the scared Rats scurrying about as mice when the cat's near. This was the moment we longed for a year ago. We immediately began to bellow forth orders to the intimidated first-year men in as deep a bass voice as we were able, trying to sound as authoritative as the Sophomores of last year sounded to us. Each of us commanded several Rats—some to carry our grips, others to make arrangements for handling our trunks, and some just for the sake of exerting our authority.

It should be here noted that we were the last Freshman class to come in under the regime of Dr. Dowell. And we were the only Freshman class that will ever see Auburn go through an entire football season without winning a single game.

As the days grew into weeks, we greeted the old friends and made some new. And as we began to check up on the familiar faces that we saw not, we grieved to find that Fred Wood, our smiling treasurer-elect, had fallen from our ranks. After a campaign only somewhat less vicious than our national mud-slinging contest, we marched to the poles on October the fourth. From the ballot box Tom Brown emerged victorious and the treasurer of the Sophomore Class of '31.

Someone discovered that if we didn't drink coffee for breakfast that it would be easier to sleep in the morning classes. Forthwith we all struck coffee from our morning menu.

During the second week in October, the long-waited-for Sophomore Hop took place. And in the minds of many it was the best set of dances ever staged in Auburn.

Probably the most momentous date during this year was October the twenty-seventh. For on this day we, for the first time, saw Auburn win a football game. Not only for this reason but because it marked the beginning of the rise from the Morey slump. Though we didn't win the rest of the games this year, the improvement was such that we really won moral victories.

On November the ninth was held the annual Sophomore-Freshman wheel-barrow polo game. A vast crowd witnessed this head-cracking, back-breaking, death struggle for supremacy. From the fray we emerged victorious, to the count of five to four. Although several legs and arms were broken, there were no fatalities resulting from the conflict.

In short order Christmas arrived and everyone was able to see his sweetheart once again. After the two weeks sojourn at home we had to get down to hard work for examinations and try to learn in four weeks that which we should have learned in the past four months. With exams over, we enjoyed the sedate Junior Prom.

The second semester took wings; our time being occupied with basketball games, baseball games, track meets, and occasionally a class or two. Our basketball, track and baseball team heaped many victories upon our Auburn. After enjoying the Senior Prom, we did a little hasty study before the final exams.

In this manner was the Second Leaf in the Life of Our History at Auburn completed.

"The Moving Finger writes: and, having writ,
Moves on: nor all your Piety nor Wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line,
Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it."

Freshman Class History

Auburn, Alabama
March 4, 2529, A.D.
2:20 A. M.

Editor, GLOMERATA,
273 West Forty-third Street,
Auburn, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

In accordance with your desire to ascertain something of Ancient Auburn, we are pleased to be able to supply you with some information which we hope you will find of value.

While excavating the campus of the old Alabama Polytechnic Institute in the summer of the year 2500, we happened to find the ruins of the original Administration Building. We have in our possession now a fairly accurate history of the first year that the Class of 1932 attended that Institution.

From various sources, such as the Registrar's records and portions of what must have been a college paper, we found statistics which show that the Class numbered 550 at the beginning of the year. Almost one-third of these students passed their work successfully. We found to our surprise that an ancient custom, known as "Freshman Week" was actually carried out at Auburn. Besides a program of that event, we have as further proof of its existence a sheaf of "intelligence-test" papers, which were written at this time. It is interesting to note that two of the class answered 60 per cent of the questions correctly.

Another old custom which this class seems to have observed was organization. They elected officers! It took us many years to discover the identity of these men, as their desire for secrecy was very great. From a collection of affectionate missives written by Leo Young, we found that he was their president. We believe this information to be fairly accurate, as he mentioned the fact three times in one letter. In an English notebook, we found a theme entitled "What it Means to be Vice-President of the Freshman Class." The notebook belonged to J. D. Bush, and as he was a football player, there is no doubt that he was in reality their vice-president. We could find no actual proof that "Chattie" Davidson was the secretary-treasurer but legends to that effect have been found.

We were shocked to discover that hazing was still practiced there, and in a horrible form. The upper-classmen shaved the Freshmen's heads and then turned them loose as a menace to society. Various boards called "rat paddles" were found but we have been unable to find what they were used for. Another thing which we cannot account for is the fact that a great part of the Class withdrew from the College during the month of January.

These Freshmen were athletically inclined, boasting a football team of great fame. It is reported also that they had a basketball team. Beside these forms of exercise, they often attended dances which were very healthful.

If you need any more information on this subject, please do not hesitate to let us know. We are always at your service.

Yours truly,

AUBURN HISTORIC SOCIETY

FACTS ABOUT WAPI

1. Station WAPI is a new 5 KW station. It was installed by the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and is operated by the owner in co-operation with the city of Birmingham.

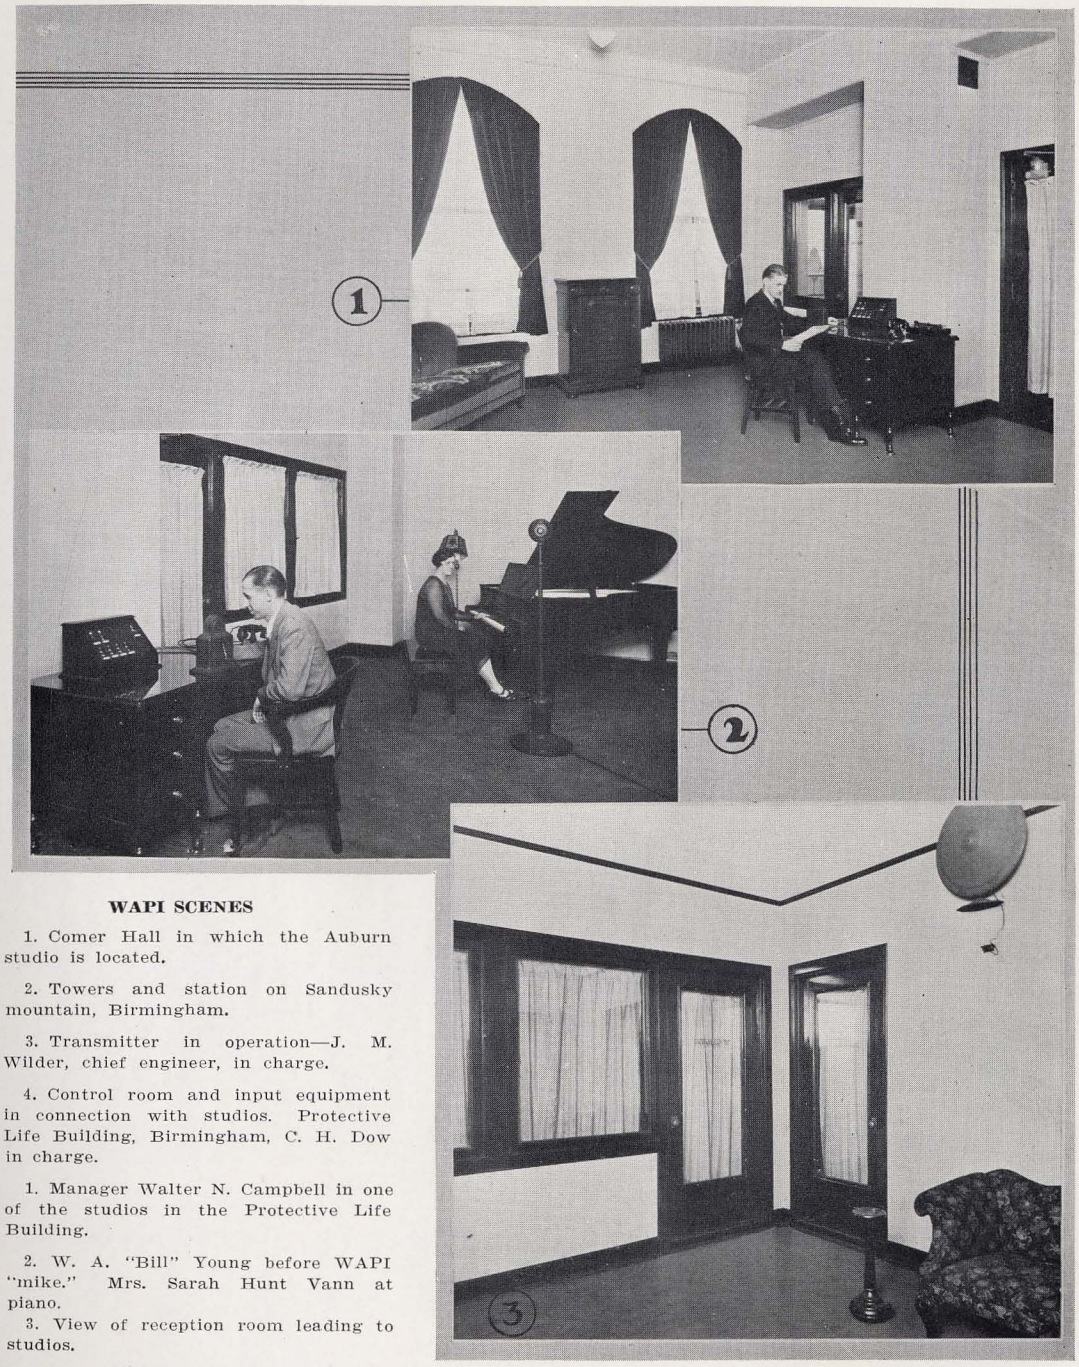
2. The first radio station owned by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute was installed in 1922.

3. The second station WAPI was installed and began broadcasting early in 1926.

4. The new station was installed in Birmingham to be in the center of population and to be near the greatest supply of talent.

5. The station is operated for entertainment and education.

6. It gives Auburn a direct contact with the people of Alabama—and of the nation.



WAPI SCENES

1. Comer Hall in which the Auburn studio is located.

2. Towers and station on Sandusky mountain, Birmingham.

3. Transmitter in operation—J. M. Wilder, chief engineer, in charge.

4. Control room and input equipment in connection with studios. Protective Life Building, Birmingham, C. H. Dow in charge.

1. Manager Walter N. Campbell in one of the studios in the Protective Life Building.

2. W. A. "Bill" Young before WAPI "mike." Mrs. Sarah Hunt Vann at piano.

3. View of reception room leading to studios.

COACH BOHLER

Although Coach Bohler has been with us only one year, we feel assured that he will bring back to Auburn the old football glory that she once possessed. Before coming to Auburn Coach Bohler turned out some of the best athletic teams in the S. I. A. A. conference. If all of the men now available for gridiron work return next year and are eligible we feel certain that Bohler will have quite a success with his 1929 eleven.

Resume of 1928 Football Season

BIRMINGHAM-SOUTHERN-AUBURN

(Montgomery)

The opening game of Auburn's 1928 season was worthy of notice for two reasons, inasmuch as the Auburn-Birmingham-Southern game was the first collegiate game of night football to be played in the South, and then the Birmingham-Southern Panthers scored their first victory over the Orange and Blue in the history of the Tiger institution. The Panthers seemed to play inspired football against their foemen and Auburn never did seem to be able to get going, with the result that Birmingham-Southern scored a touchdown in the early part of the game and managed to hold their lead of six points throughout the rest of the game, winning 6-0.

Captain Carter, Harkins, and Robinson stood out in the line for the Plainsmen while Crawford and Tuxworth shone brightest in the backfield.

CLEMSON-AUBURN

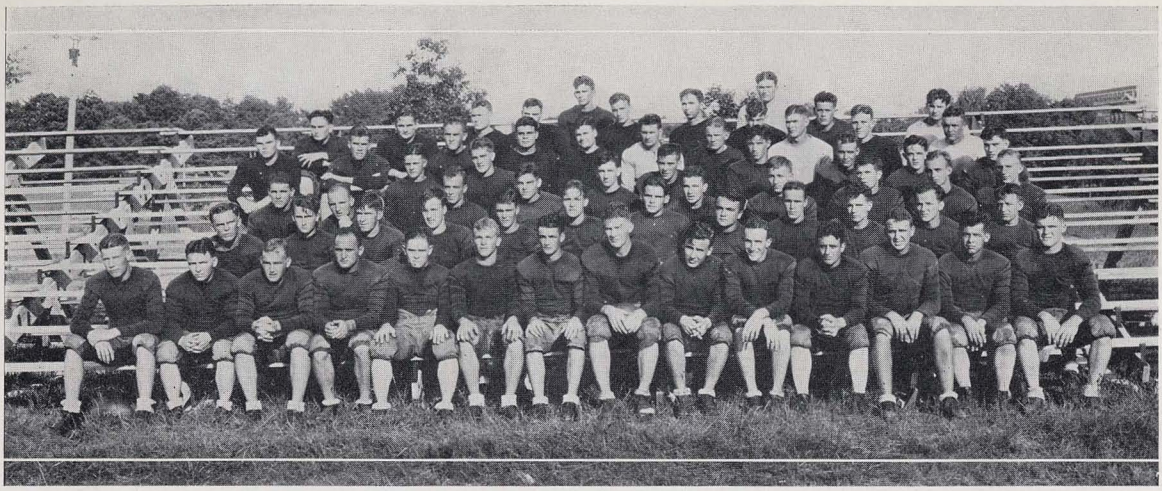
(Homecoming)

Homecoming crowds saw a fighting Plainsmen team go down into defeat before a hard-driving, brilliant playing Clemson Tiger in the second game of the season which was played on historic Drake Field. Coming to the village with a team that had proved its worth in previous games and mowed down its opposition with alarming regularity, the Clemson Tigers found a stone wall resistance to their fast stepping backs and a line and backfield that gave just as much as they received. Clemson's score came in the last quarter when the fleet-footed Justice intercepted a pass intended for Snider and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. The try for goal was missed and the Clemson Tigers emerged victors, 6-0. Nothwithstanding a heavy downpour of rain at the last of the first half, the game was full of brilliant playing and was featured by the excellent work of McCarley, Mulherin, Davis and Justice for Clemson, while Auburn's team as a whole played excellent ball, with perhaps Chappelle and Schlich a little more outstanding than the other members of the team.

FLORIDA-AUBURN

(Gainesville)

The University of Florida's 'Gaitors were the next foe for the Plainsmen in the game played at Gainesville. A quartet of brilliant backs, led by Crabtree and Brumbaugh, played havoc with the Tiger line and scored all of Florida's points in the second quarter. After that time, the first team was substituted for and the rest of the game went scoreless, with Auburn making quite a few substitutions also. During the time that Coach Bachman used his first-string backfield, they ran up 27 points and outside of the second quarter, no scoring at all was done and the game ended with the score, 27-0.



THE 1928 SQUAD

UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI-AUBURN

(Birmingham)

Auburn tasted defeat for the fourth time in as many starts at the hands (and feet too) of Ole Miss to the tune of 19-0. The men from the delta state flashed a hard-driving, withering attack that the Tiger line could not cope with and with Woodruff and Walker leading the offense, the Mississippians rolled up 19 points on the Plainsmen to win, 19-0. The game was rough and was marked by quite a few penalties on both teams. Mississippi's driving attack was good but just as much ground was gained via the aerial route, while Auburn failed to show anything very much in either department. Outstanding for the Plainsmen were a brilliant forty yard run by Jones and the consistent playing of Callahan and Chappelle.

HOWARD-AUBURN

(Auburn)

The Howard Bulldog came to the Village with an idea that he too, would bite a chunk out of the enfeebled Tiger's hide, but the Auburn Tiger, resenting this attitude, soundly thrashed Howard to the score of 25-6. Things started off bad for the Plainsmen in the first few minutes of play when VanBuskirk scampered through tackle for a touchdown, but failed in the try for goal. Immediately after this, however, the Tigers, seemingly, have been dormant for a long time, awoke and started an offense that netted them 25 points and the game, by a score of 25-6. The passing attack of the Plainsmen never shone to better advantage and alternate Captain Ingram contributed a beautiful catch of one of Tuxworth's passes, followed by a run of 40 yards for the first touchdown. Captain Carter, Harkins, Schlich and Taylor in the line, played a good game, while Tuxworth, Crawford, and Callahan distinguished themselves in the backfield and aided Auburn materially in winning her first game out of sixteen starts.

GEORGIA-AUBURN

(Columbus)

The Georgia Bulldog and the Auburn Tiger engaged in mortal combat in the Electric City on November 3 in one of the best games that was played by the Plainsmen the entire season. Doped to lose by a large score, the Auburn team played a wonderful game and held the high scoring Georgia footballers to a 13-0 score. Playing a hard, clean game, the Tigers were in scoring position themselves two or three times, only to lose the ball on a heartbreaking fumble. Almost the entire game was played in the rain but the weather had no effect on the spirit nor enthusiasm of the spectators and the Auburn spirit was clearly in evidence throughout the entire game, which incidentally was the last of the annual Georgia-Auburn classics to be held in Columbus, as the game has been changed to Athens hereafter. The entire Auburn team played well and for the first time this year, really played together as they should.

Watching the Tigers Go

TULANE-AUBURN

(New Orleans)

A week after the Georgia game, the Plainsmen went to New Orleans to play the Green Wave of Tulane. The team was given a rousing send-off and encouraged by the expressions of support from the student body, played a wonderful game, only to lose by one point. Tulane's star, Banker, played a stellar game and was aided by his running-mate Armstrong, in eking out the one-point victory over the fighting Plainsmen. Auburn presented no individual star as the entire team combined their efforts to make this game the best one that Auburn played the entire season.

MISSISSIPPI A. AND M.-AUBURN

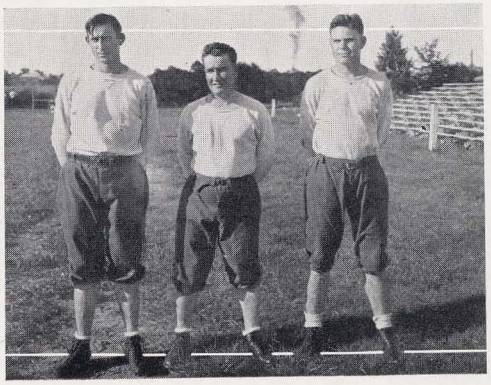
(Birmingham)

As a result of sluggish playing, Auburn went down in defeat before the Aggies in a poorly played game, 13-0. Auburn's line gave way before the repeated onslaughts of Bridges and Pappenheimer and seemed unable to hold aginst the drives of the powerful Aggie backs. Peake, at halfback, played the best game for the Tigers while Crawford's punting was a feature of the game.

TECH-AUBURN

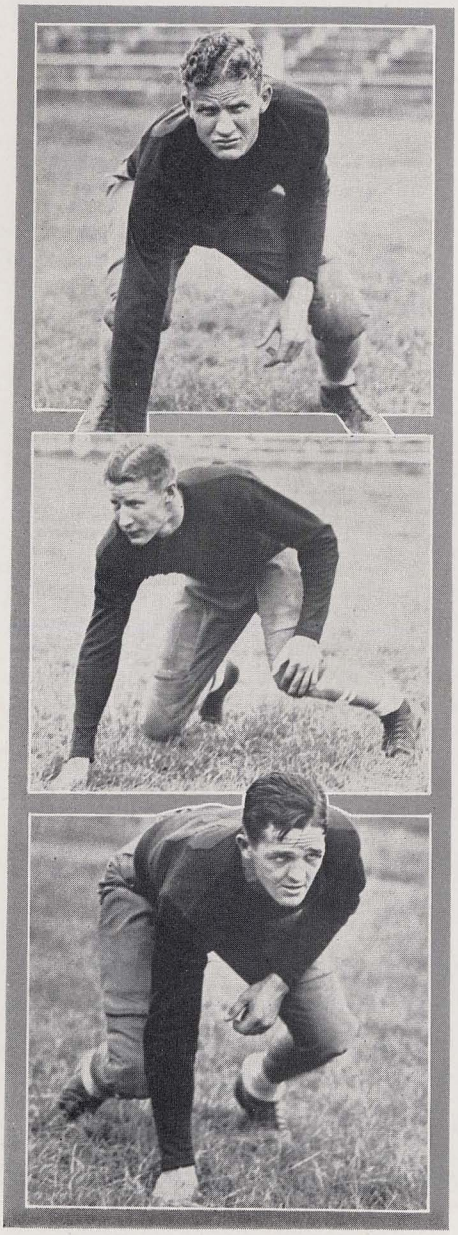
(Atlanta)

Although a score of 51-0 would hardly indicate a good game, still the game Auburn played Tech was a typical Auburn game, with all its fight and spirit, even though the Plainsmen were losing all the time. They never gave up and were tackling just as hard when the game ended as they were in the beginning and gave the national champions a clean hard game all the way through, even though a losing one.



FRESHMAN COACHES

A Homecoming Crowd



Auburn Tigers

NICK CARTER, Tackle

Blountsville, Alabama, contributed a powerful man to the football ranks of Auburn when the little town sent her native son to the Village to become educated and to play football. Nick played on the rat team and graduated to the varsity ranks, where his meritorious work his sophomore and junior years caused him to be elected to the captaincy of the 1928 gridiron crew. The blonde giant was an inspiration to his team-mates during the lean year that the Tigers experienced and his absence will be sorely felt during the coming season.

RUPE INGRAM, End

Alternate Captain Ingram is one of the most dependable ends that has ever played on historic Drake Field under the colors of the Orange and Blue. The lanky flankman used his heighth to good advantage and played a consistent game throughout the season both on offense and defense. His ability to receive forward passes was clearly demonstrated in the game with the Howard Bulldogs and most of the scoring honors of the day went to Rupe. He has completed his time of play at the Tiger institution and will join the departed heroes of yesterday.

FRANK TUXWORTH, Quarterback

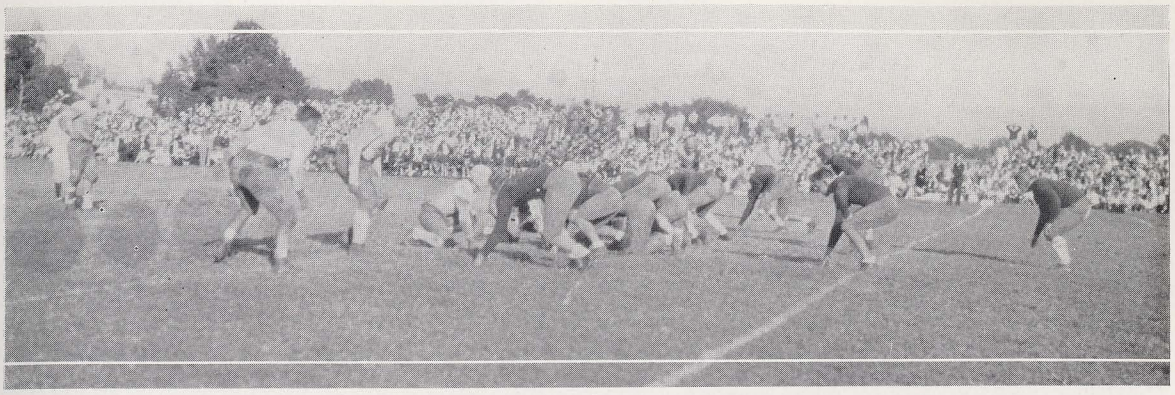
Tux is another one of the seniors who have hung up their moleskins for the last time in the service of their Alma Mater and no longer will Tiger fans hear the deep voice of this nifty quarterback barking signals on the gridiron, as the Plainsmen go through their practices and engage their conference foes. A hard fighter, a clean player and a man among men, Frank will be hard to replace as a football player and in the hearts of the many supporters that he has won for himself while at Auburn.



Auburn beats Howard

Auburn Tigers

BILL GRANGER, Fullback

Wee Willie played a whale of a game this past season and should certainly find himself on the gridiron, when the 1929 season rolls around. A stocky, powerfully built man, he proved to be a consistent ground gainer and in his role of backing up the line, was unsurpassed by any man that he played against this past year. He is a junior and still has another year to play under the colors of the Tiger clan, having made his first letter his sophomore year.

EDDIE PEAKE, Halfback

Another small but hard playing little man, is Peake, who hails from the 'Gator state and has completed his second year of play as a varsity man on the Plainsmen eleven. His speed stood him in good stead and his rugged, consistent, hard playing made him one of the most dependable backs that carried a ball on the Tiger offense. Although he is a senior, he is still eligible for another year of service and will return next year.

JIM CRAWFORD, Halfback

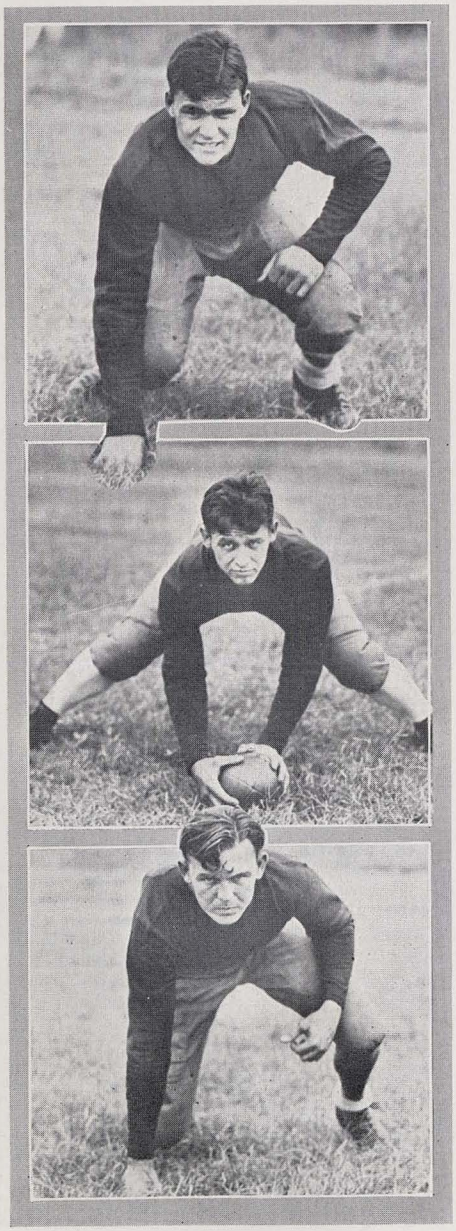
A triple-threat man, Jim proved to be a constant menace to all foes of the Tiger the past fall and with the past years experience, should be one of the most outstanding backs in the conference when the 1929 season gets under way next fall. He kicks, runs, or passes with equal ability and played a nice defensive game for the Plainsmen the entire season. He is playing his second year on the varsity and will be eligible for the Tiger squad next year.

Blonde Billy Banker off for an end run



Auburn Tigers

HOWELL LONG, Guard

"Shorty" played quarterback at the beginning of the season but the coaches thinking he would be better in the line, shifted him to guard where he played the rest of the season. A rugged, well-built lad, he put all he had into every play and gave a bulwark of strength to the center of the line. His hard fighting characteristics won for him the honor of being captain-elect for the coming season and the Plainsmen can count on this man to lead them valiantly on the field of battle.

HAMP GREEN, Center

A scrapping, fighting, clawing Tiger center. This lad overcame his handicap of small stature by sheer fight, to win a place on the Tiger varsity squad after a year spent on the reserves. Hamp was in the play all the time and played a heady game at all times. Accurate in his passes and possessed of a keen analytical mind, he diagnosed the opponents plays and time after time, smashed through the opposing center to snag a runner behind the line. He has another year on the squad.

PORTER CALLAHAN, Halfback

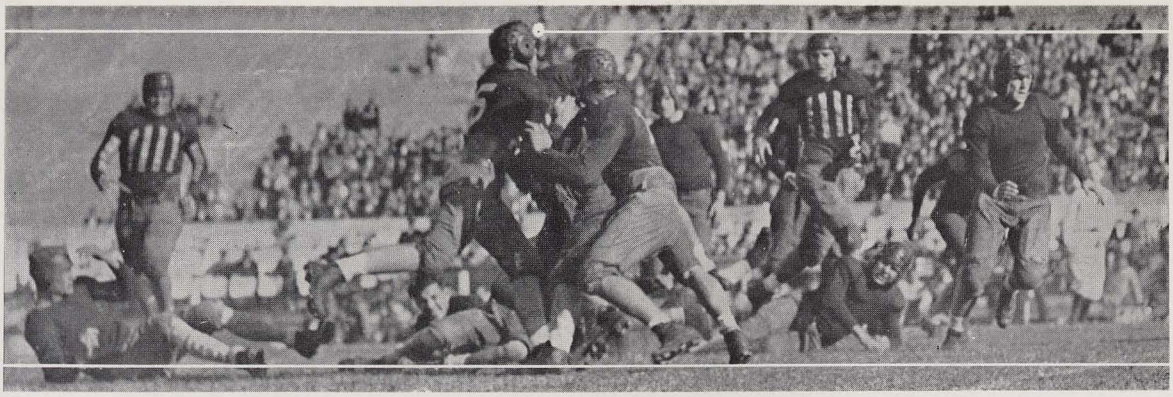
Possessed of a fighting football heart, this Irishman put his all into the games that he ran at half. A great love for the game, together with speed, ability, and the courage of a lion, Porter was one of the most valuable men on the Tiger gridiron squad. He could pass and kick, but his strong point was his broken field running and his interference running. He is the alternate captain-elect for next year and will round out three years of excellent playing for the Plainsmen at the end of that time.



Auburn vs. Mississippi A. and M.

Auburn Tigers

C. L. SCHLICH, Guard

The frosh ranks graduated into the varsity, a young man who played a mighty good game for the Tiger team the past year and still has two years of service before him. This man Schlich by hard playing and scrap, won his place at guard and played at that position for almost the entire season, although only a sophomore. He was hard to move out of his tracks on the defensive and there was always a hole when the Auburn quarter called a play over his side of the line.

RED HARKINS, Center

This man is the little brother of the Red Harkins that was the captain of the 1925 football team. Following in his older brother's steps, this man came to Auburn on leaving high school and after playing on the rat team his first year, came out for the varsity and has just completed his first year as center for the big team. A scrapper, he played a hard game throughout the season and furnished a dependable center for the Tiger eleven. He has two more years left in which to add to the laurels of the family by his playing.

GRADY LONG, Guard

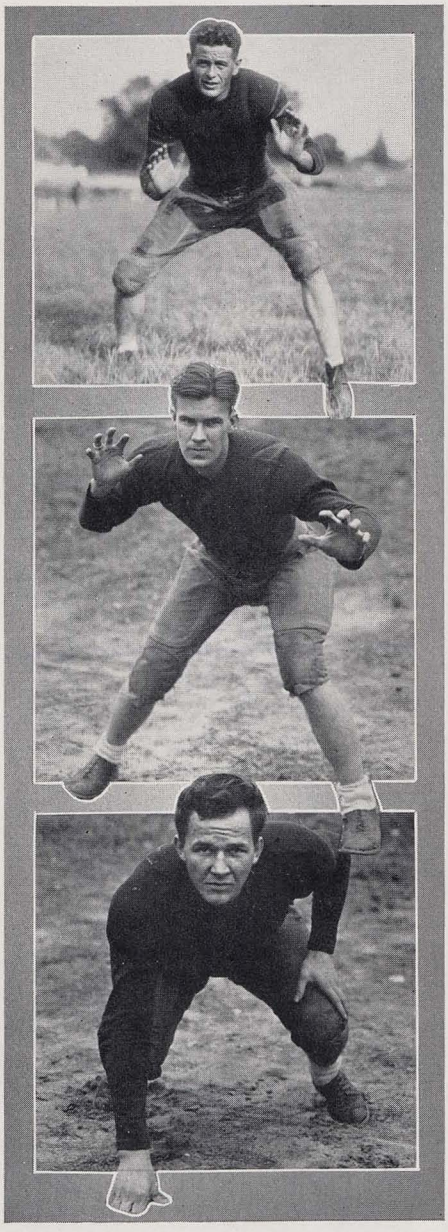
The other half of the Long combination at guard and a very good one at that, too. Grady played a consistent game for the entire season and his work on the defensive stood out. Rather heavy, he used his weight to good advantage in breaking through the interference to stop the runner before he was able to reach the line of scrimmage. A hard fighter, putting all he was able to in all of his play, he was probably the most consistent man on the entire squad.

Tulane vs. Auburn



Auburn Tigers

PETE SPINKS, Tackle

Another brother of a former famous Auburn athlete who has made good in the athletic world. Pete is a brother of Buck Spinks who was here some two or three years back, and he has all the family traits of fight and ability that Buck had. A little light for tackle, he made up for his lack of weight by his hard playing and willingness to mix it. Rangy and fast, he made an ideal man for the tackle position and it is with regret that we see him leave Auburn this year.

WALT KIRKWOOD, Center

A newcomer into varsity ranks, although he is well-known around Tiger town. Walt has scrubbed for three years, but this year was able to convince the coaches that he deserved a place on the varsity by his playing. He was given his chance and came through with a commendable brand of play and was awarded his letter at the end of the season. He is a senior, but has another year of playing, so he will return next season.

JOE BURT, Guard

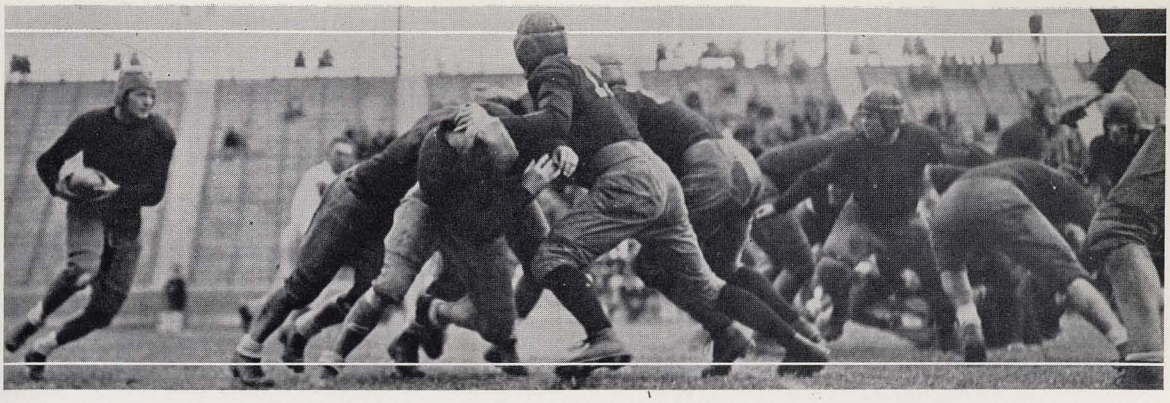
Joe crashed the varsity ranks this year, and by his playing, earned himself a place on the varsity eleven at the guard position, although sometimes he was used at tackle also. Alert, powerful and fast, he made an excellent man to have drop out of the line and help form interference on an end run. He is only a junior and yet has another year to play and with the past year's experience, should prove valuable next fall.



Tuxworth of Auburn off for another gain

Auburn Tigers

E. D. SHANNON, End

Another end of the long, lanky kind who showed an ability to pull passes out of the air and to nail many an ambitious runner who attempted to come around his end. A reserve on the squad last year, he worked his way up to the varsity and held down one of the ends in very acceptable style the entire season. He can take a lot of punishment and is mighty hard to take off his feet, this being a very desirable qualification for a good end. He has another year on the team and will make a dependable wingman for the next season.

BABE TAYLOR, Tackle

The Babe was hampered somewhat by injuries this year and did not play as he is capable of playing. Weighing around two hundred pounds and stretching his height to some six feet two inches, he will make a formidable man to play against next year. He is always ready and can be counted on to deliver when he is called upon.

CLYDE SELLERS, Fullback

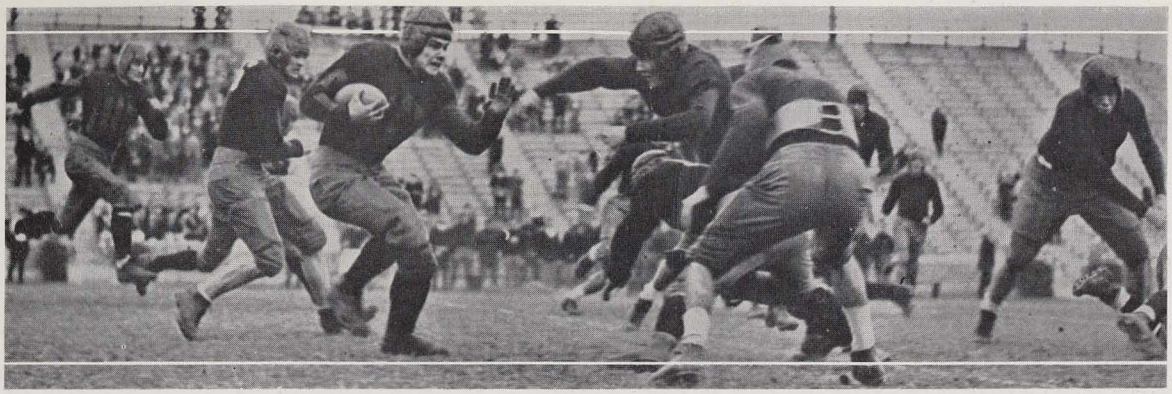
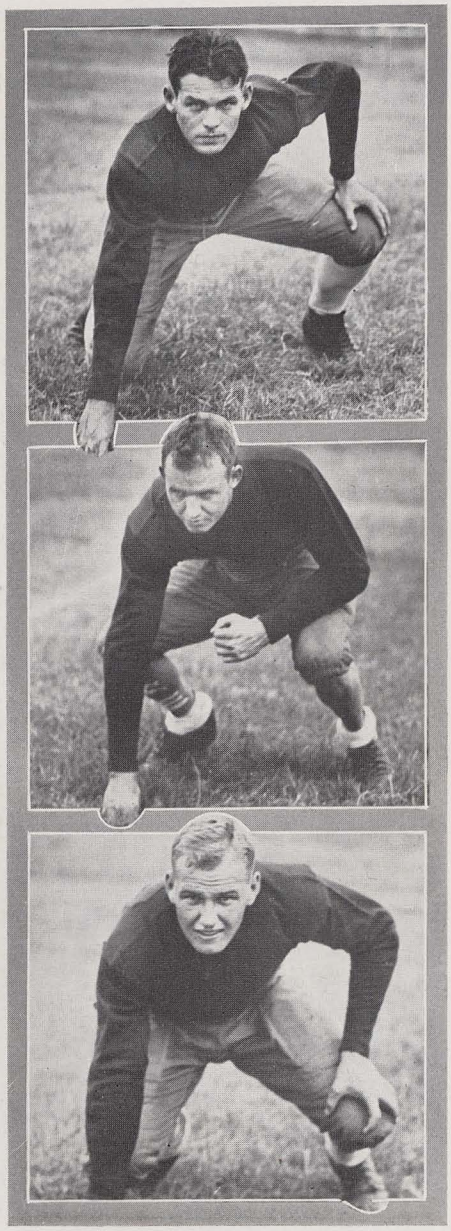
A human juggernaut of a pile driving fullback. Sellers has thrown his force against many a line and very few times has that line failed to yield, at least some. He is probably one of the hardest driving fullbacks that has been at the Tiger institution since the balmy days of Sherling and Shirey, et al. His backing up of the line has been a noticeable feature of all the games that he has played in and his tackling has been sure and deadly.



Mississippi A and M. stopped at line of scrimmage



Auburn Tigers

JOHN WILSON, Tackle

Auburn seems to be well supplied with six-footers on her football team, and here is another one that played tackle for the Plainsmen. This big boy scrubbed last year, but got his chance and made good on the varsity this season. Playing a smashing type of game, he made it miserable for the opposing end on defense and could always be counted on to open his hole, when the play was offensive. He has big hands and weight that he knows how to use and is a good man to return next year.

SNITZ SNIDER, Halfback

Snitz, fresh from his trip to the Olympic games as a member of the United States team, had the misfortune to hurt his ankle early in the season with a bad wrench from which he never fully recovered. Had he been in condition he would have made a very valuable addition to the Tiger backfield and would have established a name for himself, but his injuries would not permit very much activity on the gridiron for this speed merchant. He is a senior and leaves the village this year.

SLOB CHAPPELLE, End

This big blonde end, playing his first year in the ranks of the varsity, was one of the most outstanding men on the squad. He was frequently called back to punt, when the Tiger goal line was in danger and usually booted a beautiful spiral out of the danger zone. Occasionally he played in the backfield, but he was mostly found at the flank position, which he guarded like a Spartan. He is only a sophomore and has two years more playing time on the varsity. By that time, he should have developed into a first-class wingman.

Yellow Jackets vs. Tigers

Auburn Tigers

FRANK DUBOSE, End

Another senior who has played his last football game for Auburn. Although not a regular, this long boy played in quite a few games and his long reach made him a valuable asset to an air attack. He suffered an injury to his leg which caused him to be kept out of the games toward the latter part of the season, but he turned in a creditable brand of play before that time.

BEN NEWTON, Tackle

Big Ben, as he was known by his teammates, weighed over two hundred pounds and played tackle. He is a graduate of last year's frosh team and with the added experience of his first year in varsity football, should be able to find himself and come through with a bang, this next fall. He has everything that a tackle should need and with hard work on his part, should make the varsity a valuable man next year.

JOHN MOSELY, Fullback

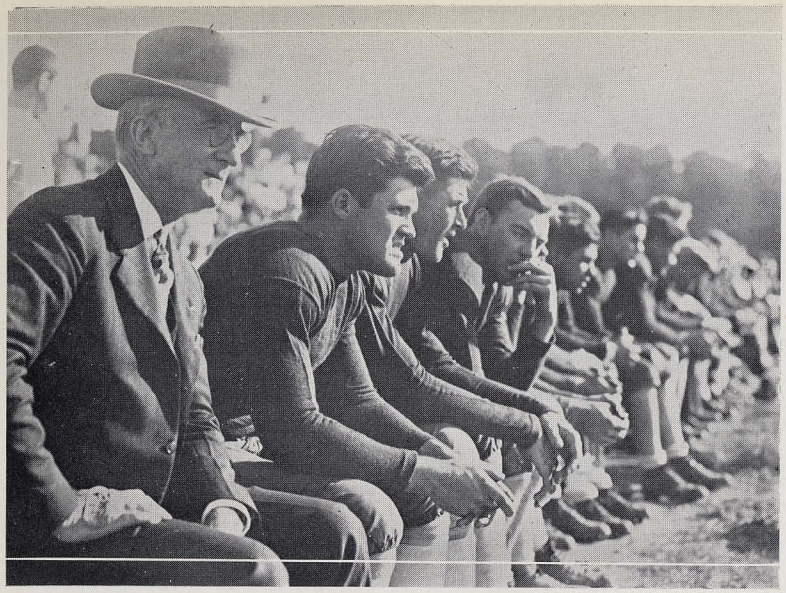
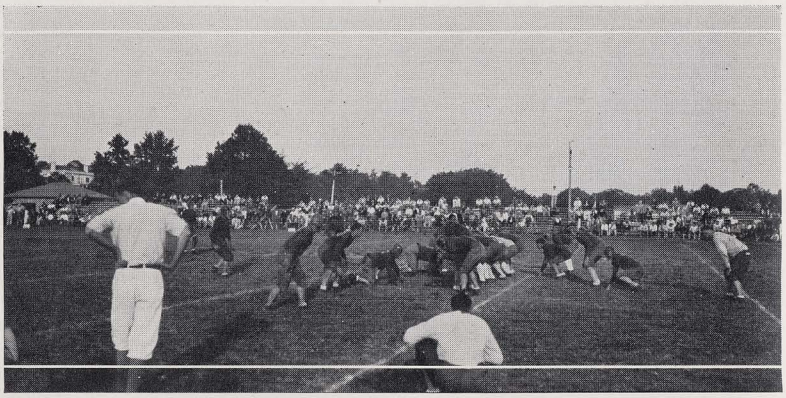
Another man from the 'Gator state who has made good on the varsity squad. This Pensacola lad was a scrapper to the last inch and could take a lot of punishment. A wonderful build, with everlasting powers of endurance, he had every quality that a football man would want. Although not a regular and hindered some by injuries, he played a hard game while he was in the fray. He has completed his time of play and will not return to the squad any more.

Snapshots



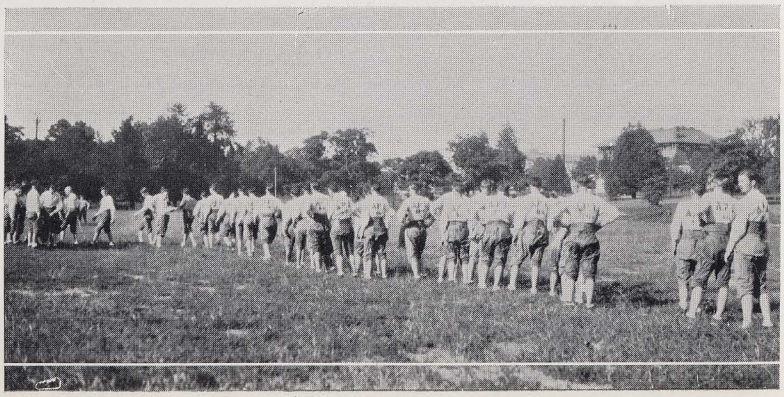
We nominate Dr. Bradford Knapp for the first All-American college president. An ardent, enthusiastic, and loyal follower of the team, he was often found on the bench with the players in a characteristic pose such as this.

The garrison stationed at Fort Benning often furnished a team that played the Tiger teams on practice days. Playing hard football but always clean, Uncle Sam's boys and the collegians made things extremely interesting for each other, as this view will show.



Tiger followers on parade through the streets of Montgomery, preceding the game between Auburn and the Panthers of Birmingham-Southern.

The first year men shown lining up to hit the dummy as they go through the training and limbering up exercises preparatory to the heavier work of scrimmaging.



Snapshots

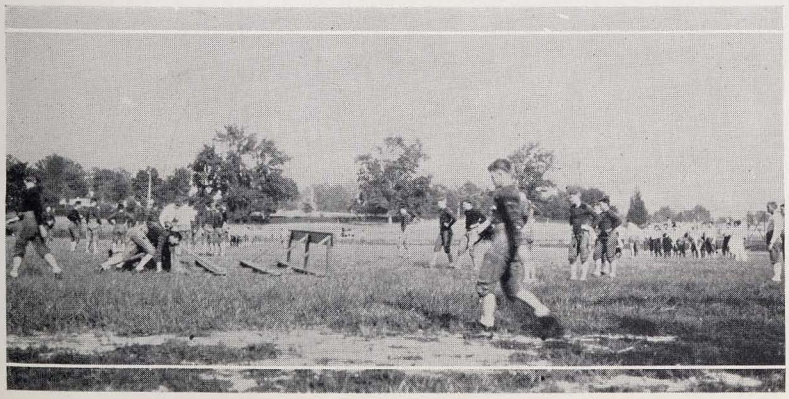
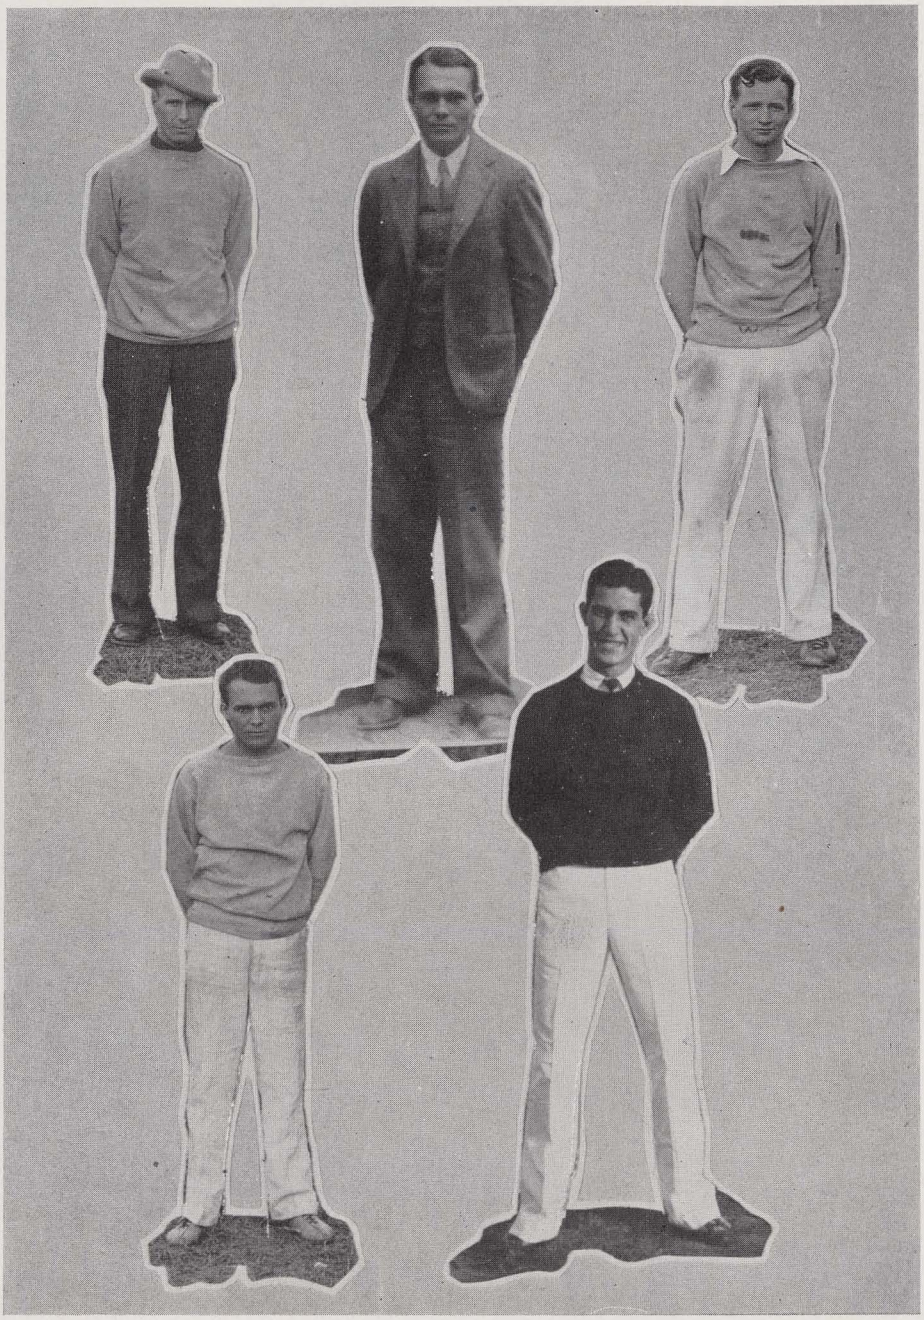
Believe it or not, Auburn's first baseball team, with our own incomparable Dean Petrie, in the role of coach and local Beau Brummel.

Alternate-Captain Ingram off on a dash to the goal line after receiving a pass from Tuxworth, to make the first score that the Tigers had made in quite a while. Auburn beat Howard College after failing to win in sixteen games.

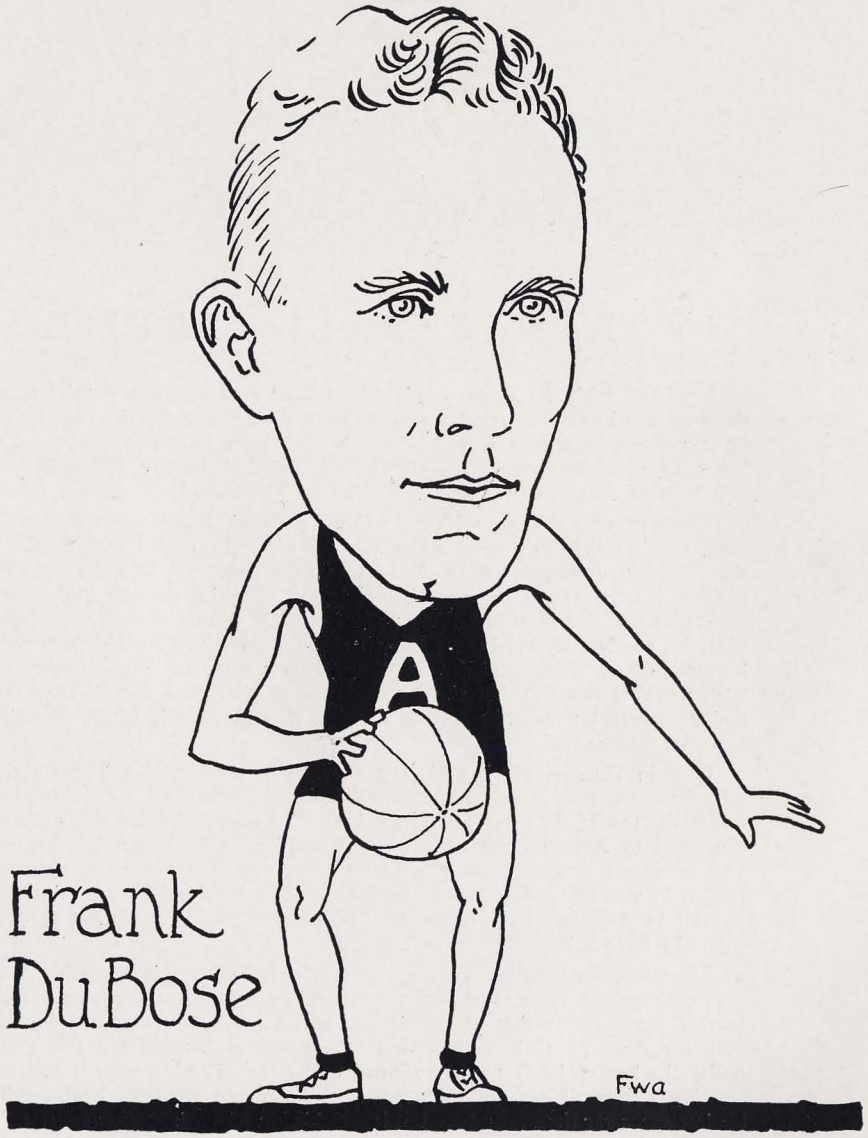
The Main Gate shouting forth its welcome to returning alumni, in traditional form. The historic gate that hundreds of students pass through daily to and from their classes is a revered landmark on the Plainsmen campus. (Note: The humble hayburner in the immediate foreground, is a stage hand's "prop" to render more effective the sincerity of the welcome that the Village extends to its prosperous and successful graduates. Doutbless there will be many a tear shed as the reader observes this familiar and very dear sight).

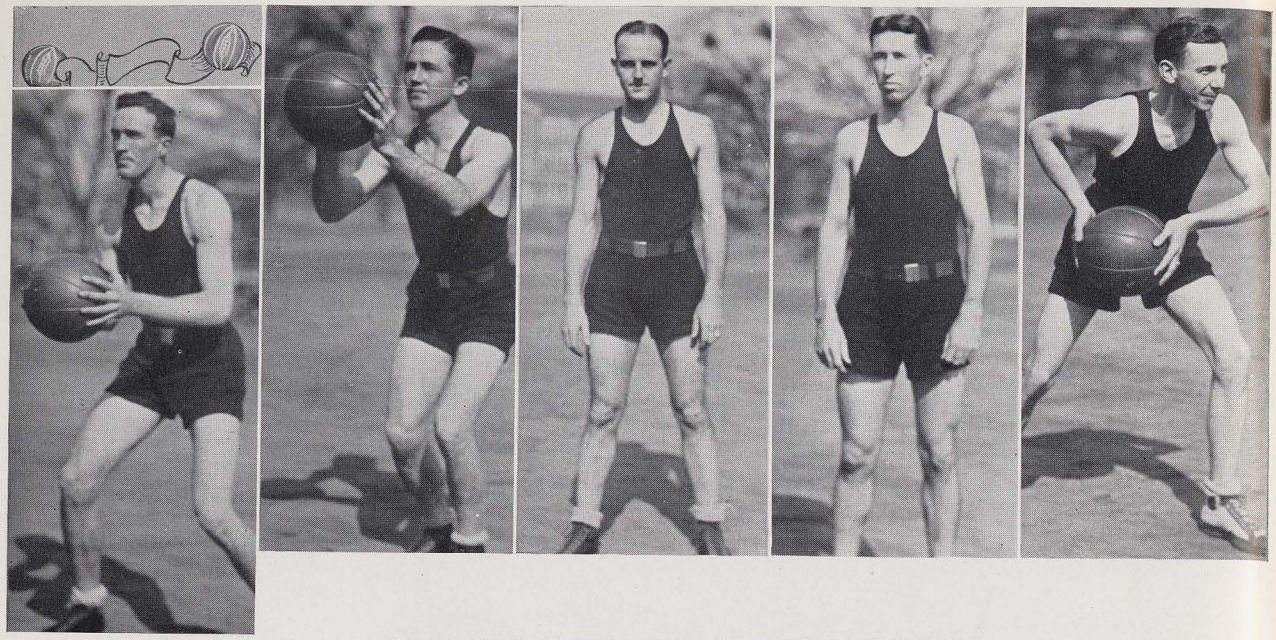


A familiar sight on Drake Field, when the Tigers are being put through their paces in preparation for the coming game. There are always a flock of Auburn men out to see the practice sessions as well as the townspeople and merchants who sometimes lock up their places of business and sojourn to the field for an afternoon to be spent in watching the Plainsmen practice.



BASKETBALL





BASKETBALL RESUME

Graduation hit the Tigers hard in basketball and from the wonder team of 1928 there returned only one regular man to form the nucleus for the 1929 quintet. Possessing a team that was feared by every other team in the conference, the team of last year swept through its schedule in a whirlwind manner, losing but two games and both of them were to the University of Mississippi.

The past year though, with only Captain Frank DuBose to return as a varsity man, was a rather lean one for the Tiger hardwood crew. Coach Bohler took over the coaching duties, aided by Assistant Coach Lee, and had the difficult task of making a team out of the very inexperienced material that he had to work with.

While not victorious in a large majority of the games played, the Plainsmen five played a consistently hard game of ball all the season and their defeats were usually by close scores. The standard of comparison set by the team of last year, left a high mark to shoot at, but the boys all played the game for all they were worth and deserve a lot of credit for the showing that they made in the face of such adverse circumstances.

Captain DuBose, playing his last year as a member of a Tiger athletic team, was the one around whom the team was built and furnished a capable pivot around which the rest of the team could function. The former Lanier High star from Macon came to Auburn with an excellent record as a basketeer, but his stay at the Village vastly improved his play, with the result that last year, although only a junior, he was selected as all-Southern center as a result of his play during the tournament in Atlanta. His graduation will leave a gaping void that the Tiger mentors will have a hard time in filling.

Moon Mullin, the diminutive forward who hails Lee County as his Alma Mater, was perhaps the most consistent player on the floor for the past season. A hard worker, an accurate shot at the basket, and a good floor man, Moon was a good man for the type of basketball that Coach Bohler inaugurated this season. Fast under the basket, he frequently slipped under the opposing guards and made good seemingly impossible shots. He, too, is a senior and the little engineer has played his last game for the Plainsmen, but leaves behind him a host of supporters, cognizant of the real worth and value of clean playing and true sportsmanship.

Bear Vines made the varsity for the first time this season, but he made it a mighty good man. Aggressive, fast, and rugged, he made the ideal type of guard that coaches like to have. His ability was not confined to the defensive end of the game though, because often the bearish one's name was found in the scoring column, and in one or two games, he was high point man. Bear has more time to play at Auburn, but he is undecided whether he will return as he is to graduate this spring.

Louie James, the sole survivor of the famous James raiders that have blazed a wide trail through the athletic events of the Southern Conference, played his second year as a member of the Tiger varsity squad and further brought fame to the family name by his performances on the hardwood court. Running the floor from the guard position, Louie was the key man for starting the offense from the opponents end of the court. He was a good dribbler and an accurate passer and figured prominently in the passing attack of the Tigers. A hard fighter, his presence on the team next year will furnish inspiration for the rest of his teammates.

Boots Fulton, although not playing regular at the beginning of the season, came through in fine style toward the close and played a highly commendable brand of ball for the Plainsmen. He has two more years and should go well next year.

Claude Frazer breaking into varsity ranks for the first time this past year, played a hard, clean game. He is not quite experienced enough though, to have played regular, but should be all right when the next season rolls around.

Jo Anderson playing as understudy to the center position as well as to the forward job too, learned a lot this past season and will make a valuable man for either of those positions next year. His height will stand him in good stead at center.

Credit is due to the other members of the squad: Chamblee, Harmon, Kennedy, Chappelle, DeVaughn, Yarbrough, for their efforts, and some of these men will be on the varsity next season. Peewee Wright, aided by his very efficient cohort, "Mr." Jones, held down the managerial reins in fine style for the entire season.

Baseball Comment

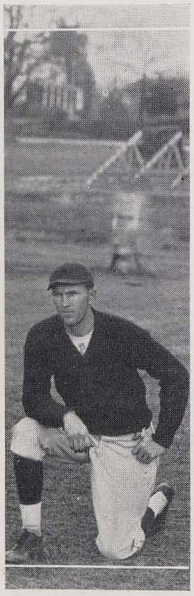
Under the very able tutelage of Coach E. R. Moulton, the 1929 Plainsman diamond crew is a strong contender for another southern conference championship. Coach Moulton has already played a material part in bringing two championships to the Tiger institution and under his leadership, the Orange and Blue tossers are due for another big season.

Returning six letter men from the team of last year, with the addition of another one from the team of 1927, he was able to use these men as a nucleus around which to build his team this year. Letter men who returned are: McGhee and Lee, pitchers; Captain Smith and Currie, infielders; Crawford, outfield, and Booth, catcher.

Pete Booth, fiery little backstop, is playing his second year as a member of the big team and will continue to hold down the arduous duties of catcher in his own inimitable style for the entire season. A heady catcher and a powerful hitter, Pete will be a big gun in the Plainsmen attack this spring.

Jim Crawford played his first year as a member of the varsity last year, but came through in such fine style that he played the entire season as a regular outfielder although only a sophomore. He, too, swings a dangerous bat and is a natural-born ball player. A big year is predicted for this man on the diamond.

Captain Smith held down the second sack last season in fine style, but due to the absence of a good first baseman on the team this year, he divided his time between the keystone bag and first base. A versatile player, a strong hitter, and a capable leader, Jack Frost should enjoy a very successful year as captain of the 1929 Tiger baseball team.



"Maggie" McGhee is rounding out his last year as a member of the pitching staff of the Orange and Blue. He is the only veteran hurler to return to the fold and is to be depended on for a large portion of the mound work. Steady, consistent, and hard working, he has made the Plainsmen baseball teams a good man for the tasks of a pitcher.

"Rabbit" Currie, the alternate-captain, is due for a big year at the hot corner. He did not play regularly last year, but alternated at the third base job. This year, however, he is determined to hold down the territory around third like a big leaguer and he carries with him the well-wishes of all his teammates. Stick in there, "Rabbit."

Peter Lee is a small man for the rather strenuous duties demanded of a pitcher, but he has come through in all his tries and is playing his second year as a member of the Tiger mound corps. Small, but hardworking and energetic, Peter has come out well in most of his games and is due for a successful year on the mound for the Tigers.

The other letter man to return to the fold this season is a man who was not in school last year but decided to come back to the Plains this year. Rupe Ingram made his letter as a catcher in '27, and has come back to play on the nine this season. A good catcher and a fair hitter, Rupe should add a lot to the strength of the diamond aggregation that will represent the Tigers on the field.

Among the new men who will be prominent candidates for positions on the team is Frock Pate. This chunky lad should fill in well, the place left vacant by the graduation of Ben Sankey last year. Frock covers a lot of ground in the shortfield and has a quick, sure throw to the bag. He has a good eye for the ball and is an excellent hitter.

Luke Ward, who was an understudy to Captain Smith at second base last year, is back and in all probability will hold down the keystone bag this spring. A consistent hitter, a good throwing arm and with a baseball head, he possesses everything that a good ball player should have.

Big Ben Newton, a graduate of last year's frosh crew, looks like a sure fixture in the outer gardens for the coming season. This big boy can sock 'em far and wide and is counted on strongly to furnish a part of the heavy artillery that the Plainsmen will possess this year. He can heave them in from the field with accuracy, too.

Joe Burt is another heavy hitter who is being strongly counted on to come through with the goods this spring. Joe plays in the outfield and is a ball hawk par excellence. His presence will be very welcome to the team and the heavy lad should be able to use his ability to certain advantage.

Buck Carter, another frosh graduate, is a candidate for the hurling staff of the varsity

1929 BASEBALL SQUAD

this year. He was the leading pitcher of Coach Mike Papke's Championship rat team last year and should come through with his curves in fine style this year on the diamond.

Frank Tuxworth is a gridiron star who has turned his ability to the diamond and is making good, too. Tux is a good catcher and has an excellent eye for the horsehide. This is his first appearance on the diamond, but his performances seem to warrant him a regular place on the Tiger crew.

Other men who have shown up good in the practices and games are: Brown and Tucker, catchers; Strong, Landstreet, Roper and Harkins, pitchers; Lester, Jones, Harris, Potter, Manley and Harrison, infield, and Simpkins, Taylor and Collum in the outfield.

From such an abundance of material as the Tigers seem to be blessed with, the chances seem very bright indeed for the acquisition of another championship. Coach Moulton has the rare ability of being able to lead his men rather than drive them, and the boys will play their heart out for him. He is a man of fine character and he imparts his spirit into his players. The baseball team, in the sense of the word as far as victories are concerned, has been the redeeming feature of the rather lean year that the Auburn athletic teams have suffered in the recent past, and it is hoped this year that the season will be just as successful.

THE AUBURN TENNIS TEAM

Although tennis is not recognized as a minor sport yet, Coach Bohler expects to develop this side of the Athletic Department next year.

This year marked the introduction of Intra-Mural Athletics at Auburn. A four-team football league was conducted—each battalion of the military unit being represented. To W. W. "Pop" Paterson, as head Intra-Mural Coach, and Lt. Barth goes most of the credit for making the first season a success. The championship guidon was awarded to the second battalion team, coached by Luke Ward. Coach Bohler expects to introduce intra-mural baseball and track in the same manner, his ultimate aim being the replacement of the present Physical training classes by diversified intra-mural sports, conducted with the assistance of the Military Department.

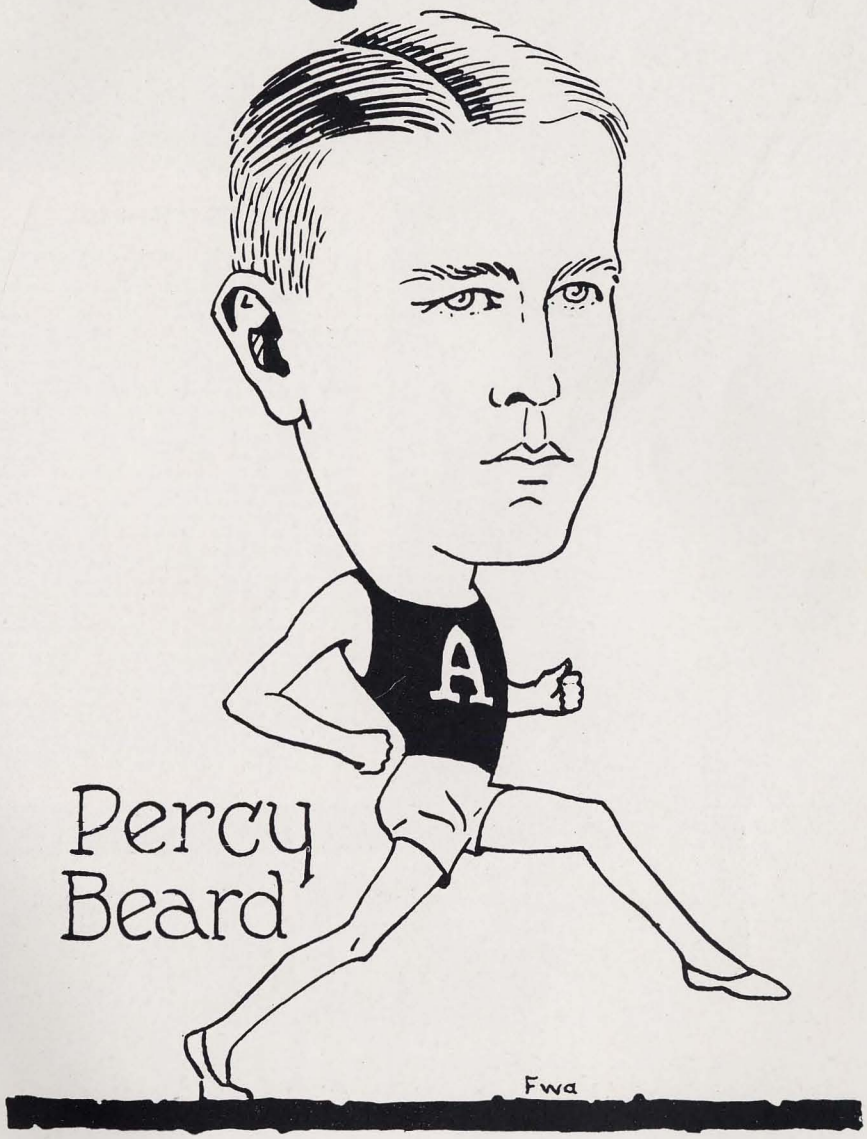
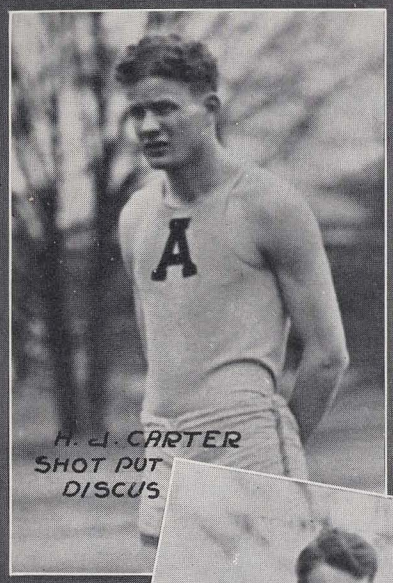
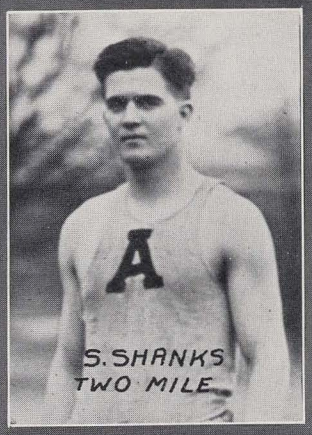
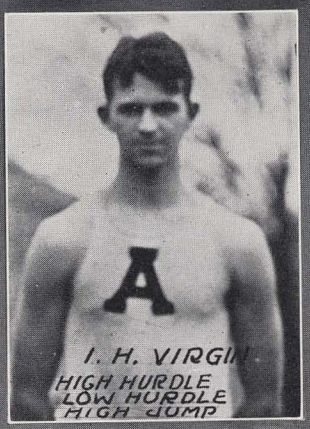
TRACK



Percy Beard







TRACK—1929

"Pee" Beard, Captain. This quiet, lanky lad participates in the High and Low Hurdles and the Broad Jump. He is a find and product of Coach Hutsell, and during his career at Auburn has truly "delivered the goods." "Pee" broke the Southern Conference record last spring in the low hurdles with a 24.4 run; holds the Auburn record in the broad jump with a 22 and 8½ inches leap across the "terra firma;" was winner of high hurdles at the Tech Relays last spring and placed 6th in National Collegiate competition in Chicago last summer. He has made an enviable record and Auburn may justly and proudly boast of such a famous and modest man.

Virgin, Alternate Captain, High hurdler de luxe. "Master mind," another product of Coach Hutsell, broke into the headlines when he led the field in the Southern Conference meet in Birmingham last spring. He also finished second only to Beard in the low hurdles and tied for 4th place in the high jump. He again proved his ability and value to Auburn by being 2nd high-point man in the Conference meet. Virgin is a capable running-mate for Captain Beard and the two will be sorely missed in Auburn's track circles next year.

"Nic" is our big "feather and weight" man and has done exceedingly well in these events. He placed 3rd in the discus at the Tech Relays and 4th in the Conference meet. In addition, he holds the Auburn record with a "hoisted heave" of 128 feet and 9¼ inches. Carter is a hard worker and capable man and will be missed greatly next year.

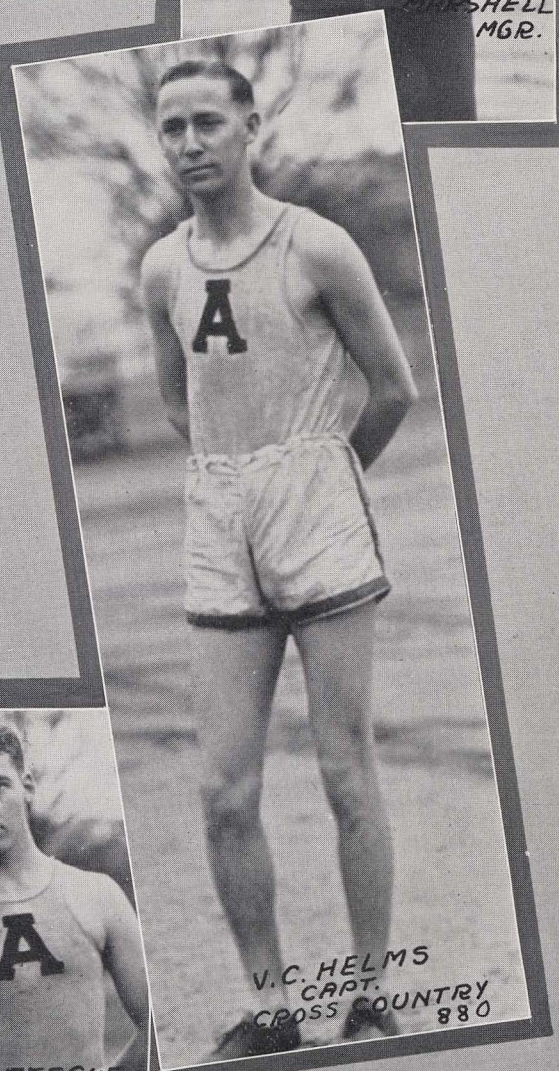
Willis, the "big spear hurler from Columbus," is a "debutante" in Auburn track work, but proves his ability readily. We expect many points from this lad ere this season ends.

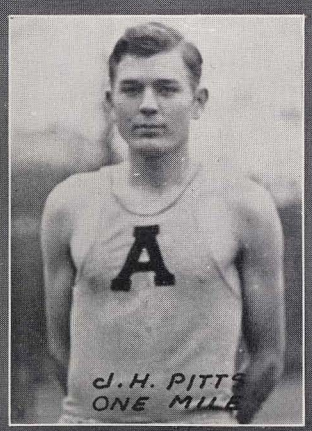
Helms, Captain Cross-Country team and a letter man of '27, is a hard worker and a consistent "ground gainer." Although handicapped in stature, "V. C." has always finished with few, if any, in front, and many behind. He finished among the first 10 at the Southern Conference meet last year. He runs the "longer routes" and will show us some real "Finn" running this spring.

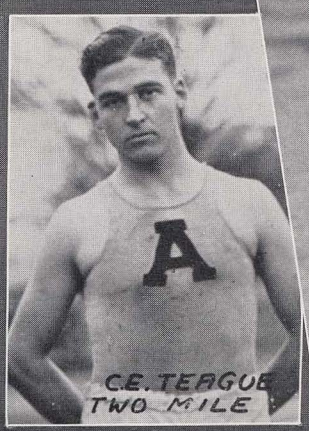
Marshall, Acting manager '28, and manager in '29, has been of great help to Coach Hutsell in caring for the men and in many other ways. He deserves much credit for his untiring efforts on the track. A hard worker and a loyal supporter is Alex.

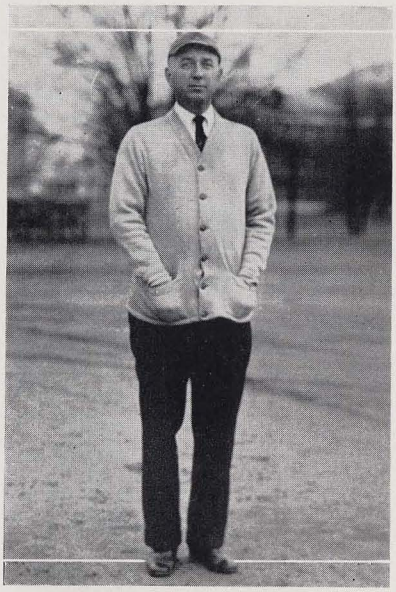
Teague, a two-miler of no "lean" repute, is again crossing the cinders "in a hurry." He finished 3rd in the Georgia meet last year and should make '29 a "banner" year.

Other leading track aspirants this year are as follows: Joe Hughes and Tommy Galliard, pole vault; Shanks, 2-mile; Bottoms, ¼ and ½-mile, and Pitts, ½-mile and mile. These men are showing real track ability and will win many events this spring. Bell, Hanby and Chambless are showing up well in the dashes, also.



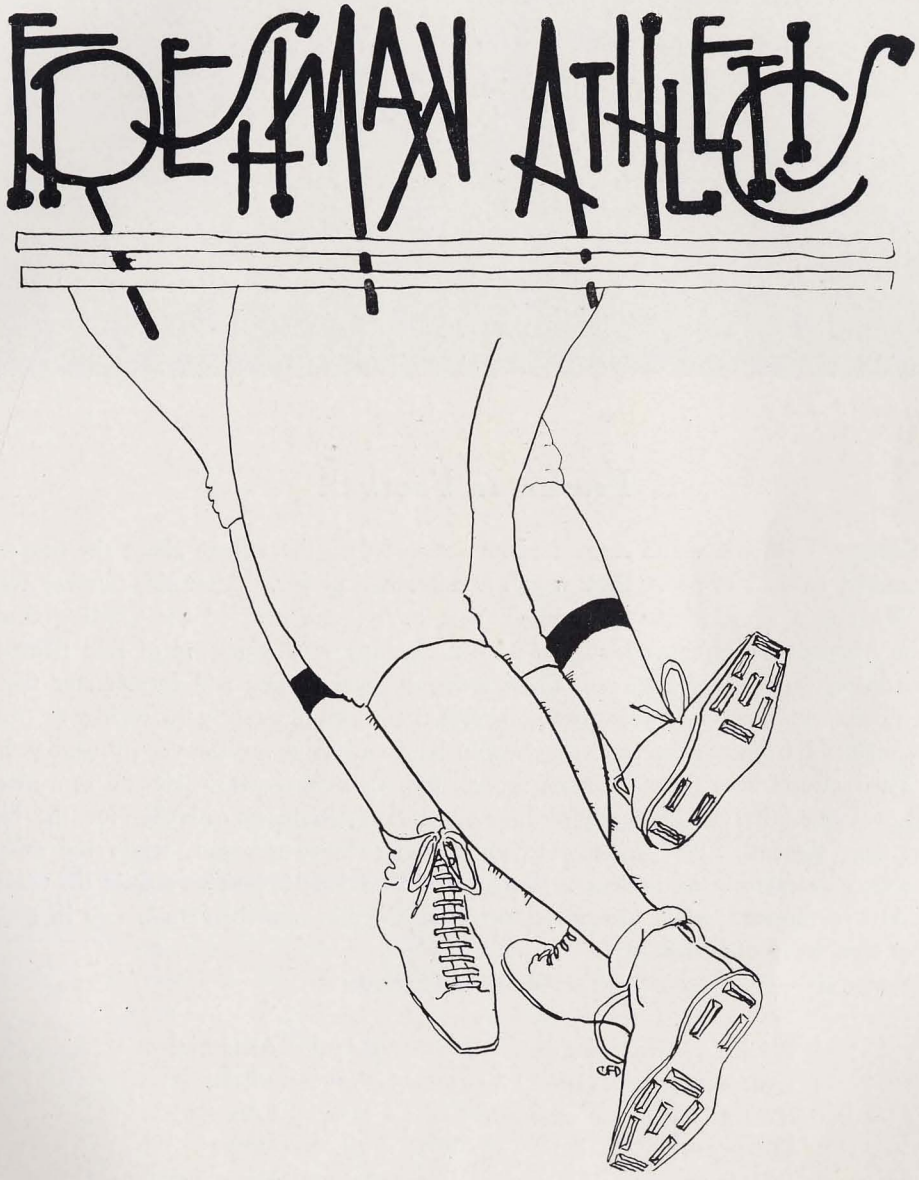




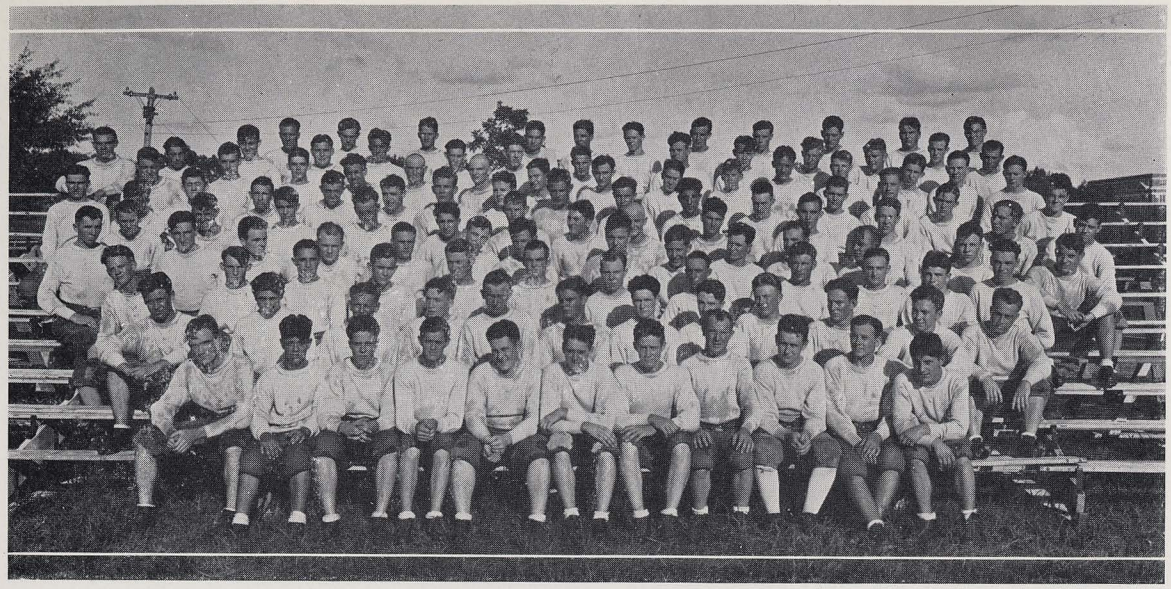


Coach Wilbur H. Hutsell

We wish to express the appreciation of Auburn students, Alumni, and supporters for the unexcellable work of Coach Wilbur H. Hutsell in finding and developing Auburn athletes. Coach Hutsell has not confined his work to track alone, but has spread his spirit of sportsmanship in other activities. A man who should be and is recognized as one of our greatest and most popular leaders.



FRESHMAN ATHLETICS



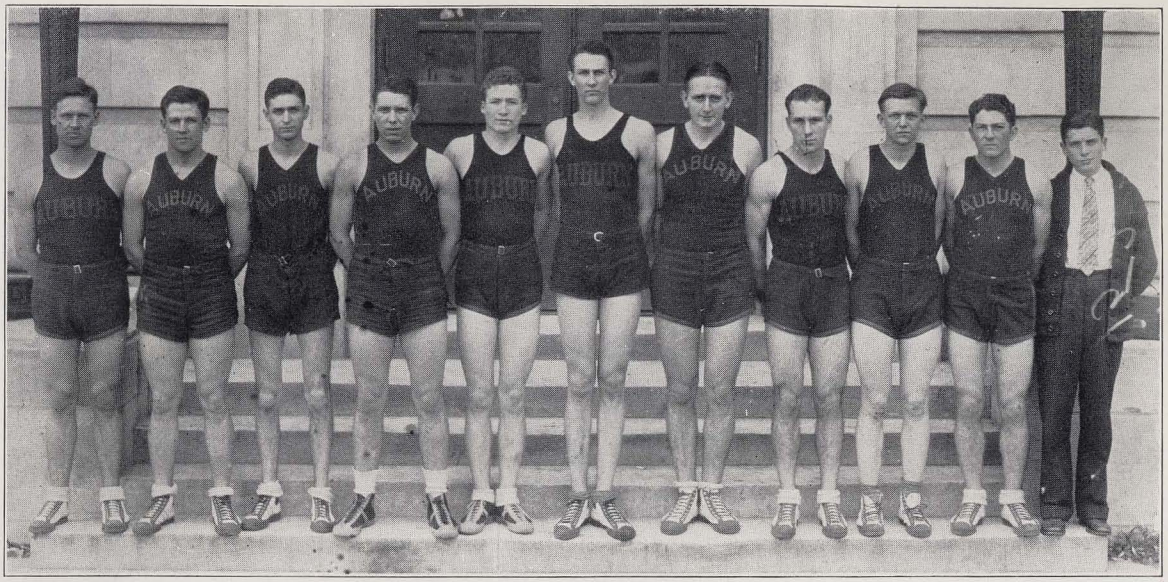
Freshman Football

Some 150 ambitious and eager freshmen reported to the village about the first of September, anxious to prove their worth as a football player. After this number was cut down to a squad that was handled more easily, was evolved the yearling team of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, with a coaching staff composed of Red Brown, John Shirey, and Pop Paterson. These men, all loyal alumni and former star football players at the Tiger institution, labored long and diligently in trying to produce material from the rat team that would be fit material for the varsity next year.

Their efforts bore fruit and even though the season was not considered as a most successful one, the coaches uncovered material that would be valuable for the big team next season. Five games were played and two were won, while the other three were defeats for the Rodents. Tulane and Birmingham-Southern were the teams that lost to the rats, while Georgia, Florida, and Tech took the rats in tow in good games that were played hard.

Numerals were awarded to the following freshmen:

Egge
Creighton
Stone
Holdcroft
Simpkins
Jordan
Hatfield
Pate
Harding
Kaley
Andrews
Jones
Locker
Bush
Kincaid
Young
Smith
Prim
Davidson
Tamplin



Freshman Basketball

The baby Tigers completed a very successful season, in fact the most successful one that the rat teams have had since the one of 1925. Coach Bohler and Assistant Coach Lee handled the destinies of the baby Bengals and were well pleased with the results that were obtained.

Although the schedule was not very comprehensive, there were several good teams that were defeated by the rats. Georgia Tech and Birmingham-Southern were among the high lights of the rat season, as these two teams, long traditional enemies of the Plainsmen, were handily defeated by the rodents. Twelve games were listed on the win side of the ledger, while one game resulted in a defeat of the baby Tigers by Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Eight numerals were awarded to the following men and a manager: Jordan, J. R.; Lumpkin, T. W.; Aldridge, O. G.; Stewart, J.; Lawson, H. B.; Kaley, C. P.; Hatfield, L. L., and Jones, W. C., manager.

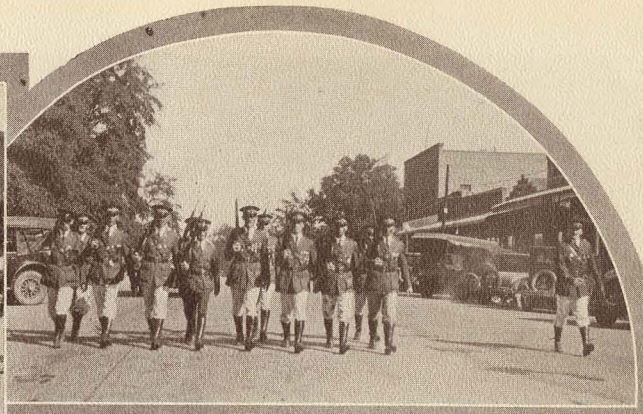
School Opens

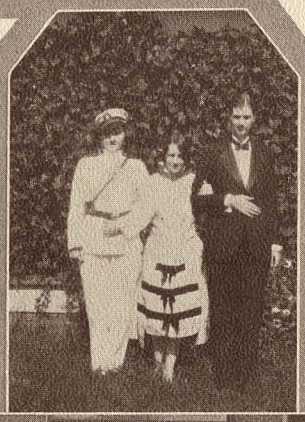
Someone with unusually keen powers of observation has said that the haze that invests the erring Freshman also sometimes helps him along. The college year starts with meeting old friends at the station, nabbing some unsuspecting Freshman, and registration.

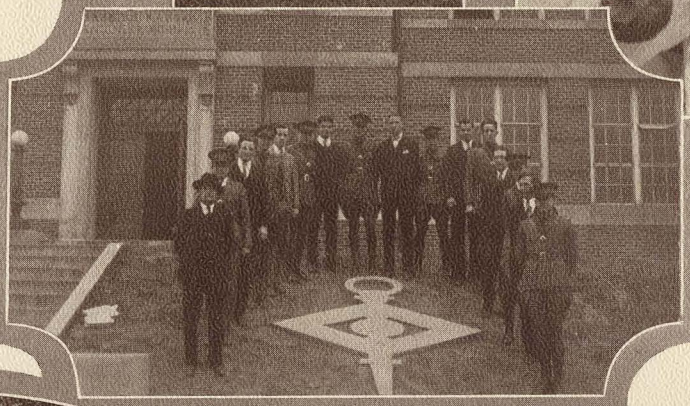
Then next the "Opening Dances." This consists of either someone rushing your girl, or maybe your rushing somebody else's.



Initiations

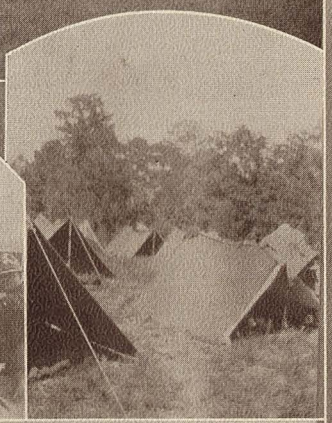
Auburn's public initiations are probably the most interesting of any college in the country. Here are a few snapshots to remind you of those events that cause so much comment on our campus. Everybody is having a big time, except the poor boy who is being shot down for treason, or maybe it was for losing step—but that's all right, every dog has his day. Believe it or not, they do not look like this always. Reports say that no great harm was done on this day.





Summer Camp

R. O. T. C. activities were resumed on June 6, at Fort Benning, when the Artillery and Engineer units "swung" into active participation in regular Army routine and in solution of their respective problems. Chances for "gold bricking" were immediately offered in the form of mapping, bridge building, hiking and range firing problems, etc., for the Engineers and riding, cleaning guns, g r o o m i n g horses, figuring firing problems, etc., for the Artillery men. For the benefit of the Artillery et al it might be well to mention that the Engineers modestly set a new record for stretching some timber across the Chattahoochee. Their record is 26 minutes, 10 seconds. Congrats! ! !

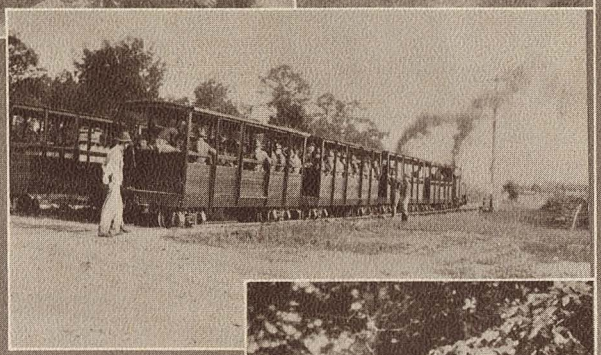


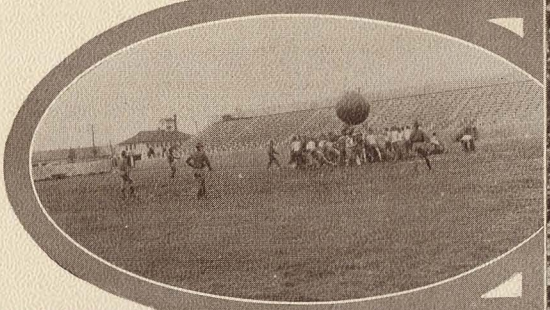
Summer Camp

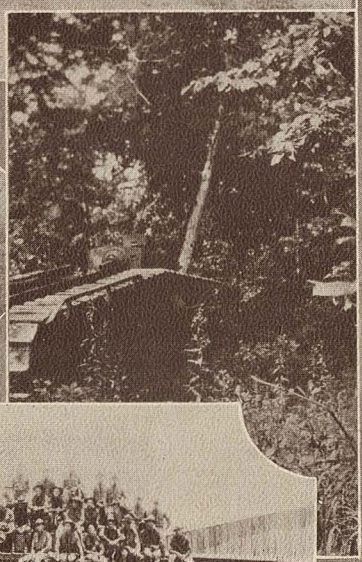
"Halt! Look Who's Here"—Something besides work—Dances, swimming, baseball, golf, volley ball, orchestra music and stunts.

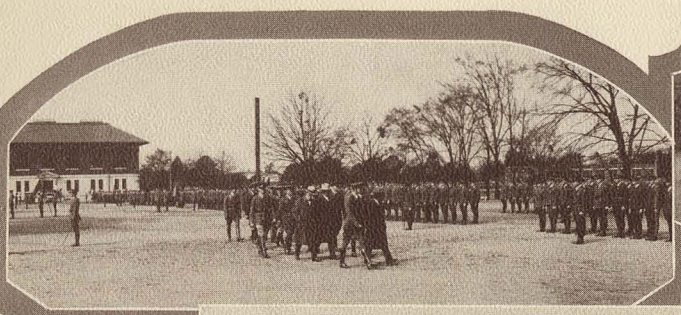
Many thanks to the officers for allowing our participation in the aforementioned activities, 'cause all were enjoyed by all, 'specially those Columbus dances—sweet gals, good music and a large evening was enjoyed by all, and a "sweet young Miss gracefully presided at the punch bowl in the cool of the evening," according to "Big Hoss."

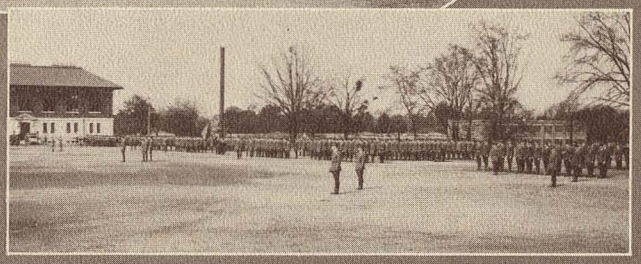
The Artillery wishes to express thanks to the Engineers for competition offered in the volley and baseball games and the Engineers return same for efforts exerted in the push-ball game and field day.

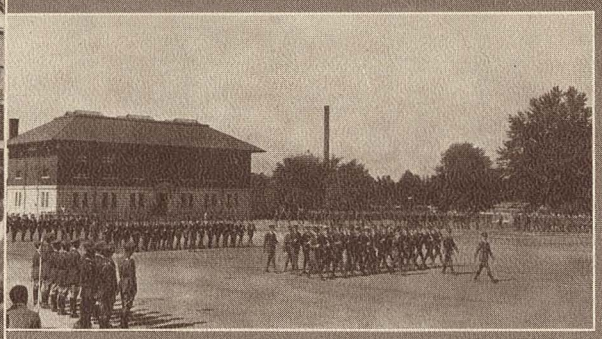


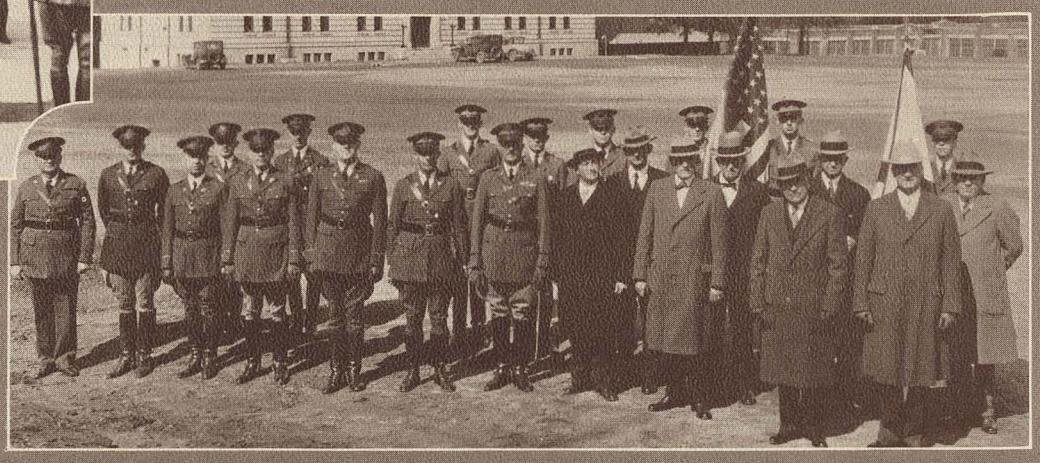








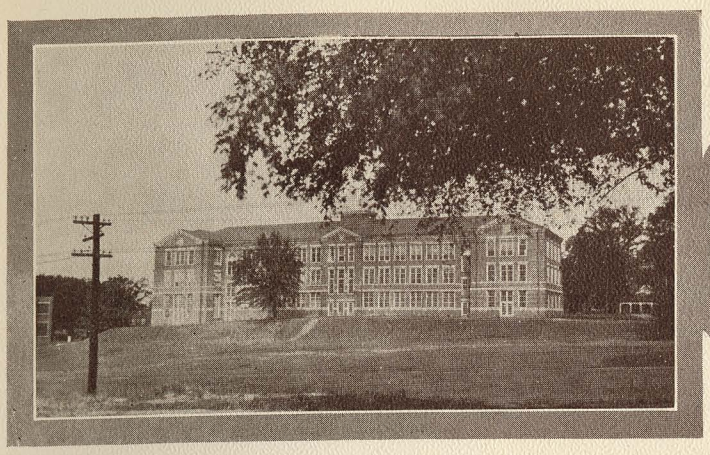




Washington's Birthday

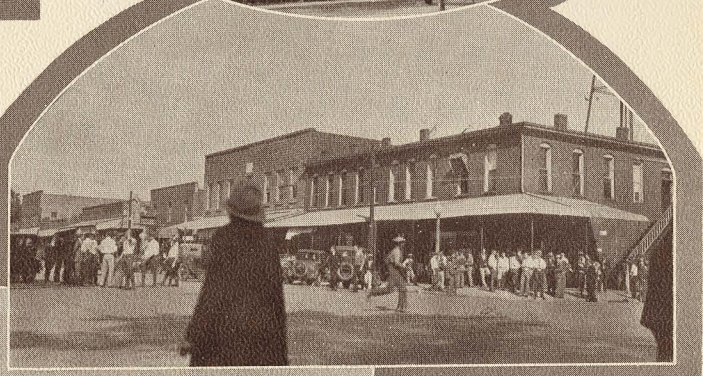
February 22 is always a red letter day in our college year—the only official holiday during the second semester. These few pictures are dedicated to the boys who did not cut drill, and who did not steal away to the larger centers of population over the week-end.

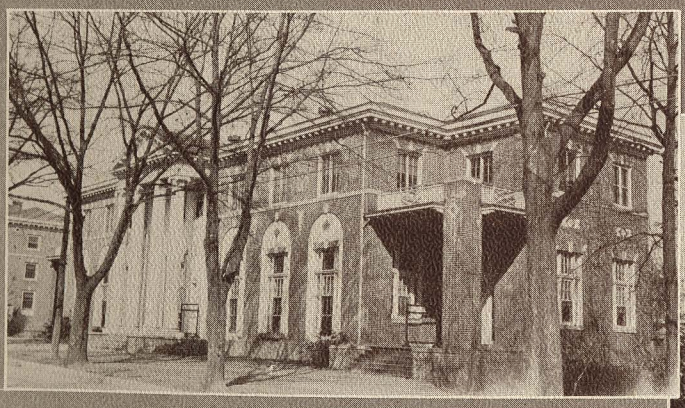
The Governor and the board of trustees journey to the village and see one of Auburn's famous military reviews.

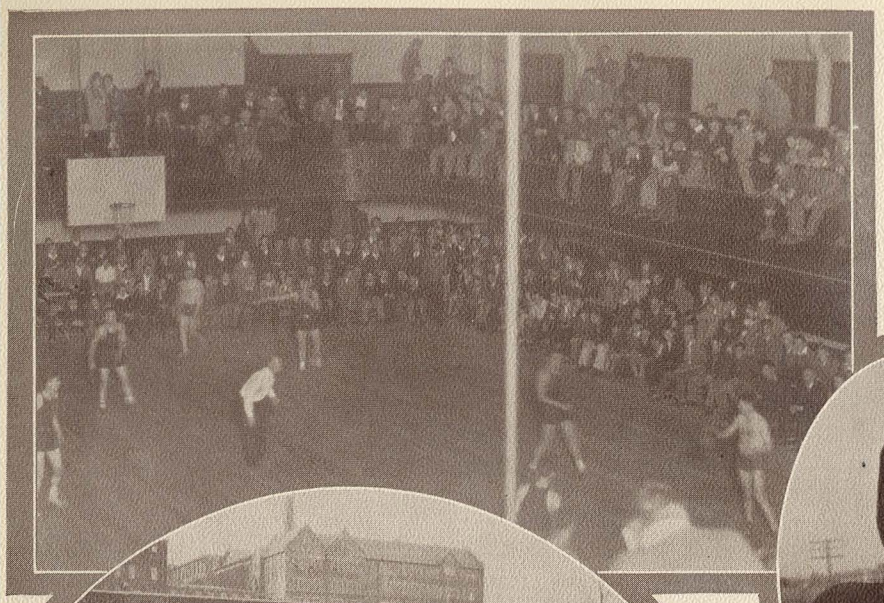


Auburn Scenes

Here are a few scenes that are familiar to all Auburn students. When all of your ships have come in and you sit back enjoying the fruits of your honest toil, we hope that these pictures will bring you memories of your connections with old Auburn and Auburn men.

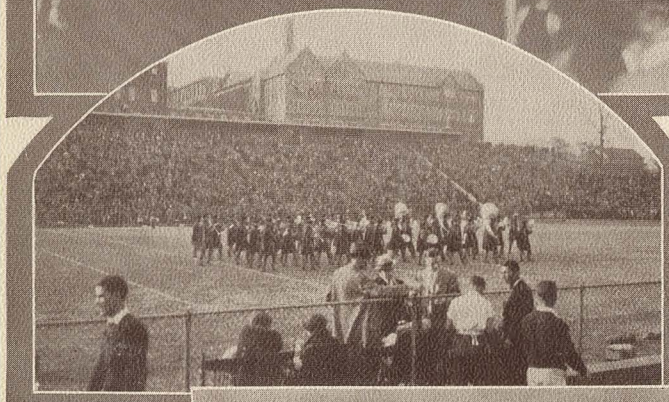


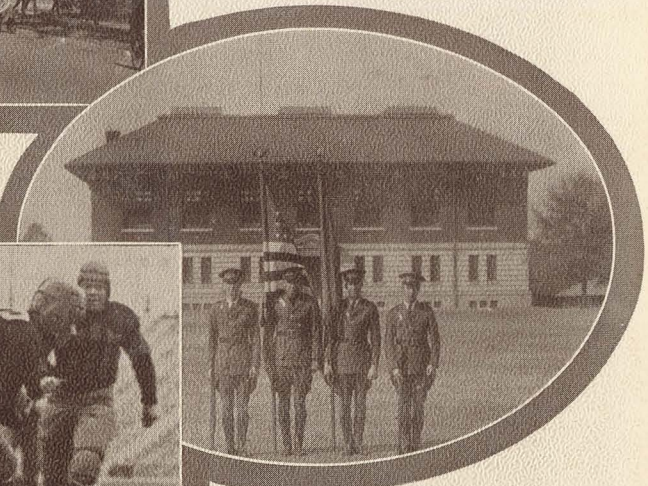


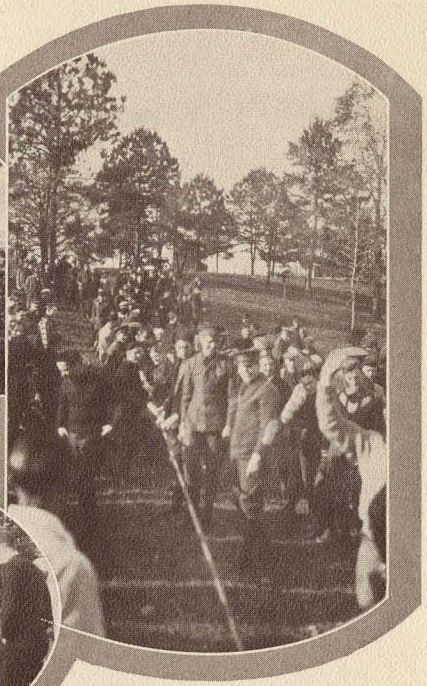


Auburn

The college year flies through the football season with its games and parades. It takes exactly a special train of Howard's "Bull Dog" rooters, a big brass band, and their best football team to attract the attention of the proud "Tiger." People who read the papers know that Howard's trip was quite a success from Auburn's viewpoint. Our famous Auburn Band is in demand everywhere. Here they are at the Tech game. From football we jump into basketball—Let's Go, Auburn.







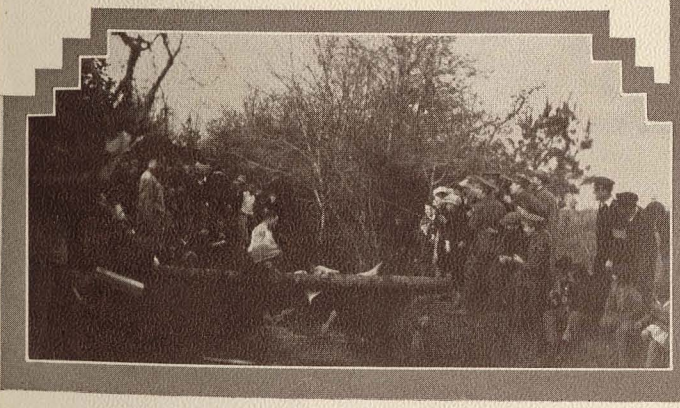
Auburn Life

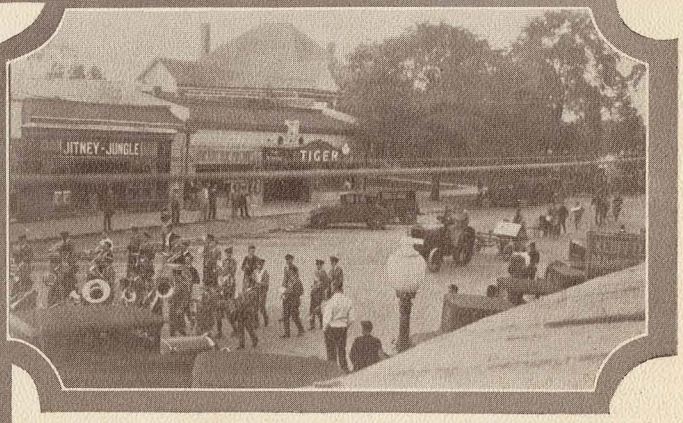
The All-College Hike provides enjoyment for everyone. Things begin to come off right away with the girls' football game, races, etc.

The "Ags" pull a big parade this year, with a band and everything.

Successful mass meetings are things that Auburn is noted for.

Life at Auburn is hard to portray with these few pictures, but anyway, everyone knows we have a good time.





TAKING a bold stand for a little levity, which surely has its place, even at college, the Humor Editors have soaked up some of the historical berry juice from the campus. Every history has two sides—the outside and the inside dope.

Offense is meant to no one. If you were given a part in this section and don't like it, turn over to the next page and laugh at the other fellow. Only men and women were selected, who were well known on the campus. If any one still feels hurt at anything herein contained, he may shout his grievance at the bare walls of the Glomerata office, glaringly vacant upon the absence of the satirists.

Laundry Sends Back Shirt

YOUNG MAY LOSE JOB —HOO RAY

All records for inter-collegiate miracle telling were broken last night when a freshman at Alumni Hall reported that a shirt which he sent in to the laundry three weeks before had been returned to him. Fearing some mistake, the Painsman sent its star reporter out to substantiate the report. The shirt in question was mangled horribly, almost beyond recognition. Identification was made by there being something over three thousand laundry marks on it. A certain Mr. Young, a former slaughter-house owner, and at present the owner of the student laundry, was found and quizzed. He says that there must surely be some mistake, that never before in the history of the Institute has anything of this nature taken place. The nearest thing to last night's incident on record happened when a senior had a handkerchief returned in 1897. Fearing a loss of contract, Mr. Young was profuse in his explanations that if anything of such an outrageous nature had happened, he would immediately fire his entire force.

This incident characterizes a general trend of laxity which has been making itself manifest for several months past. A laundry inspection committee appointed by President Knapp several weeks ago, made some startling disclosures. One of its discoveries was the basis of the famous "Collar Scandal". At that time the laundry nearly lost its contract when a collar was discovered in a back room that had so little starch in it that it could easily be bent with the aid of a crowbar. Another disclosure of the committee was a towel that had so few holes in it that paving bricks would not pass through it.

What the outcome of the situation will be is not yet plain, but if the shirt was actually returned to its rightful owner, there is hardly a doubt that the laundry will loose its contract.

BIGGIN TELLS OF TRIP

BEER GARDENS GREAT SUCCESS

Archie Biggin, Dean of Architecture at A. P. I., recently returned from a trip abroad. He consented to write a short account of his trip for the Painsman. We didn't really expect him to consent, or we never would have asked him. But no use crying over spilt milk. Here goes:

"I really ain't got no business a'doin' this, as I promised that I wouldent say nothin about what happened, so I guess I had better leave out that part where I got caught in a German Beer Garden. Anyway I got on a boat at New Orleans (or was it New York? I never did get my geography straight). On the way over the captain of the Ocean liner what was on the boat we got on came to me and says, "Don't yew want some dinner?" "Wal," sez I, "Captain, I'm jest like a horse; yew kin lead me to food, but I'll be gol durned ef yew make me eat." The rest of the time over was spent by me taking turns at the rail. I won highest honors, gitting distinction fer the most hours with the best average.

"Wal, the boat finally arove at France, and I got off in a hurry. The customs officials got me fer having a plug of King Pin in my hip pocket, but I gave him a lecture in History of Architecture, an he was tickled to death to let me go. The fust thing I did was go to a show so I could study Architecture sorta peaceful like you know. Then I hurried over to study the latest movement in the desine of saloon buildings, as that is a growin type in Alabama at present. After the first six licks of champagne I decided that the thing to do was rest a little after the trip, as I was startin to git a little sleepy anyway. The next day I took in a revue, and that night I took in the same revue with field glasses. That was about all there was in France, so I hauled luggage next day fer Belgium.

"The Belch cathedrals was great, exceptin that I went to one while the mass

TEN STUDENT COPS KILLED BY IRATE STUDENTS

(Loud Cheers)

Atlanta Pen, Jan. 25.—The Auburn 1929 Junior Prom has been a huge success, according to reports from the sheriff's office at Lee County. On the night of Jan. 24, open season was definitely declared on males from the ages of 1 to 100 and females of all ages. Immediately the student spies put on their other shirt and got busy peeping through the windows of fraternity houses. These windows had been stealthily washed for the occasion by sleuths beforehand, as the student spies would not have been able to see through them otherwise, due to the dirt having collected on their faces for several years, forming cakes over the eyes of these fine representatives of the Auburn student body.

Many spectacular incidences marked the great bust. At the Lambda Chi house someone threw a glass out of a second story window and seriously injured three student policemen. The person hurling the missile has not been apprehended as yet, but a banquet is planned for him or her as soon as the discovery is made. The Theta Chi house caught fire and burned to the ground. Fifty charred bodies of student policemen were found in the embers. One especially yellow one escaped. He explained that the others were of the opinion that someone had set the house on fire so as to get in a little hot work when the cops left their posts, and they stuck to the last. A student policeman had his neck broken in two places when he fell down the S. P. E. chimney. His dying words were that there was not enough room at the windows for him to look in.

One especially diligent student policeman was found under a bed in the Sigma Nu house. He said that he had taken that post for the purpose of catching late date hounds, but it is more likely that he went

ENGINEERS MAKE TRIP

HIXON FALLS DOWN AND GOES BOOM

The 1929 inspection trip of the mechanical engineers has just been completed, and the boys report a big time. Many interesting things were seen, some of which were of an engineering nature, and some of which had no bearing on the subject whatsoever. The trip was made to New Orleans. The reason for picking New Orleans was to give the students opportunity to study the derricks used on the municipal docks for landing large shipments of liquor, and to inspect large shipments of liquor landed by derricks on the municipal docks. The latter feature proved responsible for the success of the trip.

An account of the trip was obtained from Sid Stewart. He says:

"When we got on the train in Auburn everybody had three grips, which contained one shirt, one toothbrush, and twelve cubic feet of available space. Will mention in passing that on returning to Auburn each man had three grips which contained one shirt, one toothbrush, and practically no available space. One week after we returned from the trip each man had, again, twelve cubic feet of available space. Well, to get back to the trip, we got to New Orleans in good shape.

"The first place we went was to a hotel. We had trouble about finding a place to suit us, so it was decided to go inspecting. What we inspected was nobody's business, much less Professor Hixon's, so I will not say much about it. We did get down to the docks after a while, though, and the hoisting machinery was wonderful. Everything was built in pairs and went round and round. A very amusing thing happened while we were there. A warm looking little French dame was getting off a boat that had just struggled in and Prof. Hixon was so interested in getting a good view of her disembarkment that he forgot the simple fact that water begins where the dock leaves off. We fished for him with cane poles. The little lady said, "Oh, I'm so sorry!" He just looked up and smiled.

"The only real work we had was keeping Professor Hixon's mind on the serious side of the trip. One time he went off and stayed two days. We went to all the jails and speakeasies but no Hixon. We finally found him down on a side street watching a street-roller. We had a time getting him home.

"After taking it all in, or at least as much of it as we could hold like gentlemen, we boarded the train and gave the conductor a drink, and here we are, no engineering the better."

Atkinson Has Catastrophe

It will be very much regretted that Professor Atkinson of the No Speeka Da English Department is confined to his bed as a result of an unfortunate happening which took place several days ago.

It seems that Atkinson was walking down a street in Opelika last Thursday when he was confronted by a rather tough looking man who (as well as he can remember) was pushing a go-cart. The man started talking to the Professor in broken English, and after a little while the conversation began to get rather heated. By this time a large audience had gathered. It was learned that the talk left all pretense of being in English, and was being carried on in Spanish. Atkinson admits that he did not understand a word that the man said. As things got more heated the crowd began to disperse. Finally the go-cart man picked up a large paving stone and struck Atkinson on the head.

The Sheriff immediately took things in hand and a hasty investigation disclosed that Y. A. Elizondo was the man who struck Atkinson.

"He accused me of passing three men in the same half year," Elizondo explained.

Choo Choo, Choo Choo, the train is leaving and I am going home! Won't all the little girlies in Birmingham be glad? Oh, boy, how I envy them!

Here comes Notasulga. Hello, girls. Oh look at the cute little cow! Isn't he just precious? He has a fly swatter on one end and a hat rack on the other. And just look at those funny little handles. Well did you ever! (Young thing across the aisle: Sir!)

I'll declare! Here's Cheehaw. Hello, girls. Bet you wish you were on this train. Don't you, now?

Think I'll write a letter to the sweet little girl. There's nothing else to do. Here goes:

"Dear Lib:

"Here I am on the train getting cinders in my poor little eyes. All to see you, too. Bet you're glad I'm coming to see you. You're a lucky girl, Lib, 'cause all the women are crazy about me. 'Scuse me, Lib."

Oh hello girls.

"Now. We just went through Davidson, and I saw an old friend. Had to speak to him, you know, 'cause friends are getting so scarce. Oh, hell, pardon me again."

Hello, girls.

"Another friend, you know. The man with apples and oranges just came by, and of all the rudeness! He actually wanted me to buy a piece of obscene literature. ME! Of all people. Well, it wasn't so bad, after all. Just a hair dirty. No worse than the humor section of the Painsman.

"Well, Lib, it's time for us to be pulling into Montgomery, so must say ta ta. Ta ta.

"Yours only little itsy-bitsi,

Gosh, I'm glad that's over. That woman takes up too much of my time.

Hello, Girls!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor The Painsman,
Auburn, Ala.
Dear sir,

Recently I read an article in your paper entitled "Petrie Gets Hair Cut." As a technician of no little renown, I object.

It has been many years since I was in Auburn. Since then the town has grown, the college has expanded, and no banks have been robbed. Since then I have traveled the world and been in every nook and corner of the globe, and nowhere have I seen a greater misrepresentation of fact in print than the above mentioned article. In the first place, the very title of the thing is a statement of the impossible. For support of my statement I cite a passage from Otto Lutz' "The Life and Habits of a Billiard Ball." Mr. Lutz also states in a later chapter of the same volume that "the Barber's Union, in 1868 appealed to Congress to enact a law making hairless billiard balls illegal, in-so-far as they were 'compositions in restraint of trade,' Congress, having many members who had never had success with hair restorers, did not pass the act and the matter is now a dead letter."

Francois Petiers in his illustrious work "Le Histre Le Head Hairlessque Le Me Down to Sleep" tells of some of the notable incidents where hairless heads have played important parts in the history of the great countries. Quoting:

"The success of the English at the Battle of Waterloo was a direct result of the Duke of Wellington's bald head. On the afternoon of the battle Napoleon was directing his armies from a point on the top of a large hill. The battle was being fought in a valley to the west of this hill, and the Duke of Wellington was watching from another hill to the west of this valley. The victory seemed assured to the French armies until suddenly the sun came out from behind a cloud. The sun, shining on Wellington's bald head, blinded Napoleon on the opposite hill. Becoming confused, Napoleon gave the order to retreat instead of advance, and the French were routed."

Petiers tells also of how Caesar's bald head came near disrupting the Roman empire:

"It is a historical fact that Anthony's head of dark brown hair was a source of jealousy on Caesar's part. One day, during a visit of Anthony to Cleopatra, Caesar arrived in Egypt on business. Anthony had come on the same business, and they tied up. Quite a melee ensued, and at the culmination of it Cleopatra was told to choose between the two. She summed up her choice in the following characteristic Egyptian manner:

"Oh Caesar, Emperor, King of Lands,
My choice be to you, my good sense demands,
Delightful the way his curly hair stands,
But it gets olive oil all over my hand."

Anthony, feeling that he had gotten a dirty deal, threatened to resign from the Empire.

So, Mr. Editor, I bring forth my objection against your article "Petrie Gets Haircut." Maybe "Petrie gets Shave," but "Petrie gets Haircut," never!

Yours truly,

Ben Places, '98.

Auburn Foot Prints

When your work is bearing down,
And your tests are tough;
When your spine is bent around,
And you have had enough;
When you're tired of everything,
Feeling blue and harried,
Remember the hell your professors get—
Remember, kid, they're married.

Meditations on This and That

By Benjamin Provokes

(Editorial note:) The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the opinions of the editorial staff. They would be if we had the guts.

The time has come when I must write another column for this rotten publication. I hate to write. I hate to do anything. I hate to see anything be done, unless I can say something unthinking, unfair and untrue about it. Anything that is done right, I hate. But nothing is done right, so I love everything. I just finished saying that I hated everything, so that proves I'm a liar. Everybody knew this already so what does that prove? Just about as much as anything I ever say proves. Here goes my usual line of nothing:

It seems that with the size school we have here at Auburn we would have a real administration. Never in the history of A. P. I. has such a condition been found, that now exists in the executive offices at Auburn. The President isn't any good, the secretaries aren't any good, the school isn't any good, ain't nothin' no good. Not that I could do any better, or offer any useful suggestions, but I'm just a chronic gripe.

What with the mental attainments of men that Auburn could get into its faculty, why keep the present bunch of num-skulls on the payroll is more than I can see. In fact it's more than I want to see. Why should I want to see anything good in anybody as long as the Painsman will print my narrow opinions as they really are? Anyway, it's a hell of a faculty.

The social end of this Institution is going to ruin. In fact it's been to ruin for a long time, although no one has noticed it but myself. I'm always the first one to notice anything going to ruin, and if it hasn't gone to ruin, I always have hopes that I can make the public think it has. Down with the social order of A. P. I. and A. P. I. itself for that matter.

The college publications are rotten. The reason for this is plain to see. In the first place, I don't write for all of them. Then too, I don't write all of the ones I write for. I am generally conceded (conceited) to be the most efficient man of letters in Auburn. So far I am the only one who has noticed this, but I am the only one who notices things in their real light anyway. The Painsman is terrible, the Cajoler unreadable (except the numbers that I was able to jump on with both feet), the Alabama Farmer should be discontinued, and the Auburn Engineer is the worst I've read. I don't know anything about Engineering, but it must be the worst for the reason.

Anything that is ever done is not done right, and if it was I wouldn't admit

Prexy's Paragraphs

The price of trowsers has gone to enormous heights in Auburn the last few years. I am wondering if this is not the direct result of hazing. In the old days, it seems, the Auburn freshman resorted to having the worn parts half soled (I mean the worn part of the trowsers), but evidently that is out of custom. In any event hazing must be stopped, as the freshmen at the S. A. E. house keep me awake hollering every night. What is more pitiful than the sight of a freshman with his ankles in his hands in a total state of subjection? Why, the answer is simple. A sophomore with a mind constructed so that he enjoys this sight.

I got a letter from the University of Alabama the other day asking if there were any engineering courses being taught here. After extensive questioning of the engineering faculty I was compelled out of honesty, to report that there were none being taught. What could have been more humiliating?

By return mail I got a letter from Alabama saying that they believed one truth deserved another, and admitting that nothing was being taught there. What could have been more invigorating?

Clean sportsmanship is one of the most enlightening of our relationships. I wish I could impress the boys with its importance. The other day I was going through Ramsay Hall and saw a boy peeping around the corner at a co-ed with malice in his eyes. The next thing I knew he drew back and hit the young lady with an eraser

That was a very unthoughtful and unsportsmanlike thing to do, what with all the brickbats available right outside.

Ex Sheriff Felt Bilious and Upset

Windy Bluff, Fla.—Mr. I. R. Loony served the people of Pile County as Sheriff for ten years. When he got through he was very upset. He writes:

"At the close of my tenth term as Sheriff I was bilious and upset. My hair was falling out and I had developed ingrowing tow nails to say nothing of bunions, and two of my toes had grown together.

Sick headaches were frequent and was always dizzy and in a fog. A kind friend told me of Merriford's "Pink-Cyclone." After taking only eight boxes my toes separated and my dizziness left me. I am a new man. Let us sing praises to Lydia Pinkham and Mulford's "Pink-Cyclone."

What Do Women Crave?

Women want cave men for their husbands and sweethearts. None of this drug store cowboy stuff for a real girl—No Service!

I'm the Gedunk

I'm the Gedunk who's writing this paragraph on "I'm the Gedunk." I rave on unconscious of the fact that I am always ready to criticise every little wrong done by anybody, verily making a mountain out of a molehill. As for me, "O, I never do anything to be criticized for." Now, just look at that cold over there. Bla, Bla.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Miss Zoe Sobbs

Dear Miss Sobbs:

I am a very refined and cultured young lady, and love the higher things in life. I love music and spend most of my time practicing. My favorite compositions are "It's Tight Like That," "Four or Five Times" and "Empty Bed Blues." Could you please advise me as to some gentleman on this campus who loves beautiful music.

Hightonely,

Mrace Goom.

Dear Miss Goon:

Don't despair. Sheik Langston is still in town.

Doe Sobbs.

Dear Miss Sobbs:

I am a professor at Alabama Poly. Inst. My wife has just found out why the girls make such good grades in my Sociology class. Please advise me as to the best thing to do.

Regretfully,

B. D. H.

Dear Mr. B. D. H.:

I would advise you to invest all of your capital in Railroad Mileage.

Doe Sobbs.

Dear Miss Sobbs:

I am a very attractive co-ed. I have beautiful blue eyes and black hair. My figure is superb. I know how to wear my beautiful clothes. Why don't I get a rush?

Hopefully,

Dillie Bove.

Dear Miss Bove:

If you are really a co-ed meet George Washington Smith and all your troubles will soon be over.

Doe Sobbs.

Dear Miss Doe Sobbs:

I am a member of the Nu Sigma fraternity, but I am very unpopular on the campus. Please advise me how I may become popular.

Pete Hauwshaw.

Dear Mr. Hauwshaw:

If you wish to become popular take your pin off and bury it. Move to another town (the further the better). Let your beard grow as a disguise and use an alias, and I am sure that no one will ever find out about your great misfortune.

Doe Sobbs.

Dear Miss Sobbs:

Please do not put this letter in your wastebasket, for I am in sore need of your council. I am a Senior in high school and am very popular with high school boys. I met W. C. at a football game and fell in love with him. He says he loves me very much. He is an Auburn student. Do Auburn men tell the truth?

Love-sick,

Lotta It.

Dear Miss Lotta It:

Don't trust him too far. They all belong to the Fruit Pickers Union.

"When I got to Germany the Mayor come out and appoligised for the late World War. I told him as how it was perfectly all right seein as how so many buildings had been destroyed, and thus more architects havin got jobs, whereas they would otherwise have starved like the other architects. There wasn't nothin of importance in Germany exceptin those beer gardens, so I decided to pull out early.

"When I got into Spain I had a hard time keeping those senior eata women away from me so as I could study other art and figures and stream lines. Spain was a big success, as I got fed up on Spannish omelets and probably wan't have em fed so often to me now. The hot tomalies wus great.

I ain't speaking of the female hot tomalies.

"I next sailed fer England and Scotland, where I wus royally entertained with lookin at the interior design of English jails. There was lots of food fer thought in them, but very little food fer the stumick. Scotch whiskey proved only a sad imitation of our good Old Lee County Corn, whereas the sheriff sells it in Lee County and anybody can sell it in Scotland.

"After a few sad farewells to the Prince of Wales and his family. I started the long return rail siege, and here I am.

"Ain't no place like Auburn, after all."

This Week's Fantasy

The room was crowded with eager faces. Cigarette smoke curled upward into thin, nervous ribbons; everywhere there was an air of eager expectation. A man rose to speak—stillness prevailed, stillness that was pregnant with expectation. The man spoke—he was the president.

"Professor Robinson will say a few words."

"Aw Hell," sounded around the room.

Silence, broken by sighs.

it. Since everything I write is a gripe on something, I can't understand why the Painsman continues to run my column. The Editor hasn't any sense, so that accounts for it.

The athletic end of the school is in bad shape. Not that losing games shows this, but just because. If we had won every football, basketball, tennis, swimming, rifle and ping-pong match it would still be in bad shape. I said so and I ought to know. My old man could whip yours with one hand behind his back.

Now that my educated opinions are set forth, let me explain why I do not sign my real name to these articles. You see, I jump on some pretty big men sometimes, and it might not go well with me to have them find out who I am. After all, I have to get a diploma, and what good would it do me if I'm maimed for life?

Yours for more scathing cynicism and, in the end, blacker chaos.

Auburn Dances Big Success

under the bed for a drink.

At the Thursday night dance three men were given notices that they were to leave town for actually lighting CIGARETTES on the dance floor. These poor misled devils were Bob Blakey of Notasulga City (near Loachapoka), Toby Howe of some poor town, and George Morgan of Opp, Covington County. Later developments were that Andy Anderson was shipped from the Institute for muttering the words, "X X X." This is verified by Anderson in an interview.

Dick Jones narrowly escaped being put on the black list for having purchased two three-ounce bottles of lemon extract in one day from a local grocer. Norman Illges was put on probation for having buttered his toast too thick at the Thendara banquet, and for drinking ice tea without a chaser.

In summing up the large social event Miss Dobbs said, "Everything went over fine; although no one was admitted to the last two dances, the music was great. I know because I was there."

The 1929 Glomerata

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS

Volume XXXII

This volume of the Glomerata is the culmination of the efforts on the part of the Staff to produce an appropriate record of the activities at Auburn during the year.

The publication of this book is due not alone to the Editor or to any one man, but instead to the student body which has rendered invaluable aid in this momentous piece of work. We, the Staff of the 1929 Glomerata, take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation for the wonderful co-operation that we have received from the students and faculty.

SMITH McMILLAN

The Plainsman

Under the leadership of Ludwig Smith, editor-in-chief, assisted by a corps of skilful writers, a positive business staff, and the immediate co-operation of our new president, Doctor Knapp, an ideal, long the dream of former editors, has become an actuality. The Plainsman for the entire year has been a semi-weekly publication, thus accomplishing the first step toward the final goal of a daily issue, an achievement promised by Editor Smith and Doctor Knapp for the very near future.

Editor Smith's editorials have been fearless and have not gone unchallenged. He has praised and he has condemned, although his steadfast policy has been that of constructive criticism. Proof of the widespread interest in his editorials exists in the Letters to the Editor department wherein both sides of hotly contested issues have had their space.

To Tom Brown and his Reporter's Club goes the credit for the accurate, painstaking gathering of the body of the paper—the news. To J. D. Neely goes the credit for the beautifully symmetric appearance of that vital organ—the front page. In J. B. McMillan, famous as Benjamin Provost, the Plainsman has had the brilliant services of a caustic columnist unequalled by any college publication in the country. Expert, keen analyzations of athletic activities have been handled by Carol Porter, a noted sportsman in his own rights.

The Cajoler

The Cajoler is a new publication. The purpose in its organization was to disclose college life in its lighter moments, and to offer a medium of publication for the current humor, art, and literature of Auburn. The need of such a publication has long been felt, and the Cajoler is endeavoring to fill the need in the best manner possible.

The organization of a new publication represents a tremendous amount of effort. The ordinary reader has no conception of the time and work required. Insofar as a successful year has been completed, however, it is felt that a large part of the difficulties have been passed, and that the magazine is definitely established on the campus.

The Cajoler has tried consistently to keep its humor clean, yet spicy. The too-evident trend of college humorous magazines is toward the obscene and harmful, and the theory of those who do not know is that to be a success with the younger element a college magazine must be risque. If the Cajoler has disproved this theory, one of its highest aims has been accomplished.

The co-operation of the Auburn student body has been greatly appreciated, for without this co-operation the organization of the magazine would have been impossible. The support of the student body will be necessary for the future success of the Cajoler, and the staff feels confident that it will receive that support in the coming year.

The Alabama Farmer

The Alabama Farmer, published by the Agricultural Club of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is a monthly magazine devoted to the interests of the students of agriculture, the farmers of Alabama, and agricultural workers of Alabama. A Board of Control, elected by the club, has direct charge of the publication.

The magazine has a wide circulation throughout the state. All high schools of the state, county and home demonstration agents, Smith-Hughes teachers of agriculture, professors of the Institution, many Auburn Alumni and progressive farmers are among the subscribers to the magazine. The Alabama Farmer publishes much valuable information which the farmers of the state take advantage of, and is the principal organ of one of the strongest departments of the Institute.

The Auburn Engineer

The Auburn Engineer is a monthly publication issued by the engineering societies and the Architectural Association of Auburn. It is the purpose of the magazine to provide a means of expression of the engineering and architectural students and to stimulate an interest in their work outside the class room. It consists of articles written by students, members of the faculty and by outside, experienced engineers and writers. News from the engineering societies and from other parts of the campus has also been incorporated. An Alumni section is arranged to keep the students in touch with graduates from the engineering departments.

The purpose of this society is set forth in the following preamble of the constitution:

"Whereas: Feeling the need of some organization in the Senior Class of this institution which, wholly independent of the social and other relations, shall seek to gather together the most prominent and influential men of the class and to the institution, this society is organized."

Ten men are selected from the Junior Class in May of each year by the retiring members, and these ten men compose the active membership during the following year. To wear a Spade is a goal which all underclassmen may seek as the highest honor an Auburn man may obtain.

Omicron Delta Kappa

Founded at Washington and Lee University, 1914

Omega Circle

Established 1928

The purpose of the Omicron Delta Kappa Fraternity shall be threefold:

First: to recognize men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities, and to inspire others to strive for conspicuous attainments along similar lines.

Second: to bring together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life and thus to create an organization which shall help to mould the sentiment of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest.

Third: to bring together members of the faculty and student body of the institution on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

A student was visiting in Chicago and decided to buy a Panama hat. Going into a store, he asked the price of one that looked good to him.

The clerk replied: "Fifteen dollars."

The student asked: "Where are the holes?"

The clerk appeared bewildered for a moment, but managed to ask: "What holes?"

The student replied: "The holes for the ears of the ass that would pay fifteen dollars for a hat like that."

A man, age 40, and a girl, age 14, went before a justice of the peace to get married.

Justice of Peace: "Sir, you can't marry that girl. She is a minor. Have you her father's consent?"

Man: "Say, who do you think that big bozo with the gun is—her aunt?"

The Impossible Woman

I used to think it possible
Some women could be true;
But that was in the happy past,
Before I met with you.
And tho' you played me for a fool,
I learned a thing or two—
Just how impossible it is
For women to be true.

The Raving

(With apologies to—aw, what's the use?)

Once upon a midnight dreary, as I knelt there weak and weary
With my last and only dollar near me on the floor,
Praying there aloud to heaven that my eyes might see a seven;
Or my wrist might twist a 'leven as it used to do before—
Only this—and nothing more.

Filled with gravest apprehension, filled with thoughts I dare not mention,
I beheld my "Crappers" rolling—rolling on the floor—
And I couldn't help from thinking—as I heard their wicked clinking—
That my dollar bill was sinking—sinking there upon the floor.
Thinking that my lonely dollar, that I had had before,
Should be with me—nevermore.

Then those wild, revolving "bones" I addressed in guttural tones—
Pled with them in fashion never used before,
Told them in a voice a-quiver of the candy I could give her,
If those dice would only shiver—with a seven on the floor.
Five and two, or better still, just a little three and four—
Come on, SEVEN—nothing more.

Then my prayers were rudely ended—and a husky voice descended
From the gloom behind me, near the outer door—
'Twas the toughest of the "Coppers," with the means wherewith to stop us—
And if need be then to flop us—to the lockup—we abhor—
To remain there—evermore.

With no thought that he should hinder, I leaped wildly through the window—
Leaving far behind me—all the kale upon the floor.
And when leaving I was grieving at the picture past believing—
On the dice upon the floor . . .
'Twas a SEVEN—nothing more.

Years have passed—no more I squander, yet my mind does ofttimes wander
To the toughest sort of Copper and the kale upon the floor.
And I feel myself grow sicker—like a drink of moonshine liquor—
And hear that seven's mighty roar.
Now Ambition's dreams are deadened, and the dice are dusted o'er,
To be rattled—nevermore.

My Gal—Maybe

I.

Got a new gal,
And I think she's fine;
Loves me truly,
And she says she's mine.

But I'm not sure,
And I won't take chances,
'Cause she's been to the Auburn dances.

II.

She wears swell clothes
And spends lots of money;
Loves me truly,
And calls me honey.

But I'm not sure,
And I won't take chances,
'Cause she's been to the Auburn dances.

III.

Got a little car
And a big sedan;
Loves me truly,
And calls me her man.

But I'm not sure,
And I won't take chances,
'Cause she's been to the Auburn dances.

IV.

Now ain't life hell,
I'm asking you?
Loves me truly,
But is she true?

But I'm not sure,
And I won't take chances,
'Cause she's been to the Auburn dances.

A Message to Young Business Men

If a big financier should say to you, "I am interested in you, young man. I want to help you build up your business and your personal estate as well. All my knowledge, experience and facilities are at your command"—

Would you hesitate to accept such an offer? One of the biggest financiers in the Birmingham district is saying just that to you now! The name of that financier is

Kipling Revised

When a wild and pop-eyed driver
  Shoots his auto down the street,
He can make the public step about
  On light and nimble feet;
He can make the bravest tremble,
  He can make the boldest quail,
But they say the female driver
  Is more deadly than the male.
