THE 41ST GLOMERATA TO JOHN JENKINS WILMORE, FIRST AND ONLY MEMBER OF THE FACULTY TO SERVE FIFTY CONSECUTIVE YEARS . . . THE ONLY JOB HE HAS EVER HAD. DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING SINCE 1907; SYMPATHETIC FRIEND AND PATIENT COUNSELOR OF THE STUDENT. THE CHIEF HOBBY OF THE FORMER INDIANA FARM BOY IS THE PLANNING OF PROGRESSIVE PROJECTS FOR THE BETTERMENT OF THE INDIVIDUAL, THE COLLEGE, AND THE COMMUNITY FROM A PRACTICAL ENGINEERING STANDPOINT. DERIVES IMMENSE PLEASURE FROM OUTLINING VACATION TRIPS . . . MOST OF WHICH NEVER MATERIALIZE.

FOREWORD

RECLINE AT YOUR EASE AND BROWSE AMONG THESE PAGES. MANY OF THEM ARE BLITHE, TO BE SURE; BUT, WE HOPE, NOT TOO UNPALATABLE FOR THE DRYEST WIT. RECALL WITH PLEASURE YOUR HAPPY DAYS AT THE "LOVELIEST VILLAGE," YOUR PROBLEMS THAT NOW SEEM SO CHILDISHLY SIMPLE, AND YOUR DREAMS, THE UNMOLESTED DREAMS OF IMPETUOUS YOUTH.

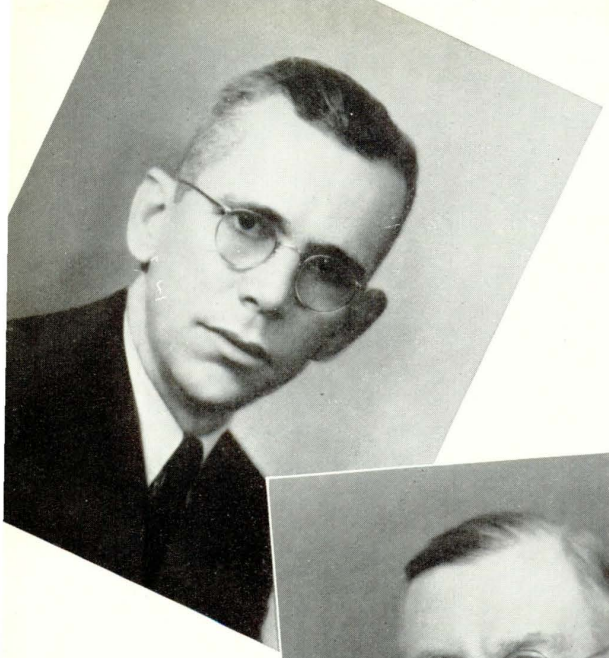
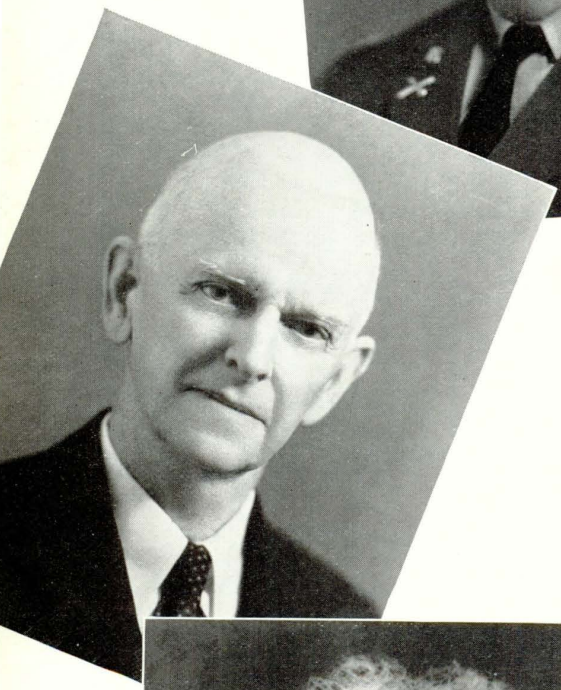
HIS EXCELLENCY
GOVERNOR BIBB GRAVES AND WIFE

First personages in the State are Governor Graves and his charming wife, Dixie Bibb, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Senator Hugo Black when that distinguished Alabamian was elevated to the Supreme Court. Senator Graves thus became the first Alabama woman to serve in the Senate of the United States. Both the Governor and his wife are descendants of the State's first governors and members of one of the oldest, most progressive and liberal families in Alabama. We are proud of the fact that the Governor and the Senator are genuine friends of Auburn. We appreciate their noble efforts in behalf of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Regardless of the many daily tasks required by the details of his administration as chief executive of the college, he never forgets the welfare and happiness of the individual student. Completing his third year as president, he has distinguished himself since his first day of office by constant and untiring efforts for the development of a greater Auburn. His long affiliation in educational circles and in the Alabama Extension Service well qualify him for the post of chief executive. His loyalty, sincerity, and unselfish consideration for his associates will always hold the genuine esteem and the most profound admiration of every Auburn man.

PRESIDENT LUTHER NOBLE DUNCAN





ADMINISTRAT

RALPH BROWN DRAUGHON

Executive Secretary

The Executive Secretary assists the President in all matters involving the administration of the College. Into his office come all the problems arising from relationships of faculty, student body, and patrons of the College. He handles the multitude of details connected with the formulation and expression of policies. His duties are infinite in variety. He acts as an adviser of men, secretary to the Executive Council composed of Deans of the College, and as general coordinator of college activities. All things come across his desk. Whatever the problem, it is his job to get something done about it.

LT. COLONEL FRED C. WALLACE

Head of the School of Military Science and Tactics

For the past eighteen years the School of Military Science and Tactics at Auburn has received the highest possible rating by the War Department during its annual inspections. The school comprises a Field Artillery and an Engineer unit of the senior division of the Reserve Officer's Training Corps. Upon graduation from the Military Department, the student may make application for appointment as a second lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps. The school offers courses which not only train the student for service in the regular army, but also training which is a valuable part of his general education.

GEORGE PETRIE

Dean of the Graduate School

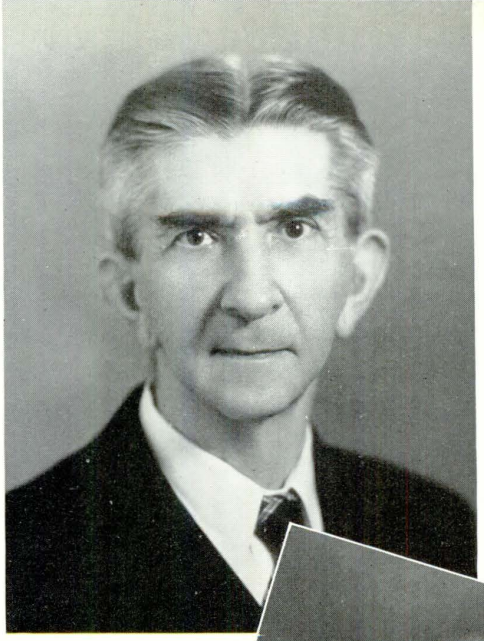
For more than fifty years the College has conducted courses in graduate work. The Graduate School offers the opportunity to study beyond the Bachelor of Science degree in nearly every department. Auburn is carrying out a great program of research, investigating the resources of the State and the most profitable way to utilize them. Research is emphasized as the chief characteristic of advanced study; thus the student is given training for leadership in the future progress of the State. The Master's degree is awarded those students who have successfully completed the requirements for it. Professional degrees are given for notable success in the practice of engineering after graduation.

MISS ZOE DOBBS

Dean of Women and Social Director

The growth of the women's student body is a remarkable feature of the recent development of the college. Attracted by the practical and scientific offerings of the institution, more and more women are enrolling as students. The Dean of Women encourages this movement and strives to develop close relationships between student and college, as well as wider participation in campus activities by women students. The Social Director approves all events placed upon the Calendar of the Student Social Committee, arranges for chaperones for dances, and handles all the details involved in entertaining the hundreds of visiting girls who come to Auburn for the dances.

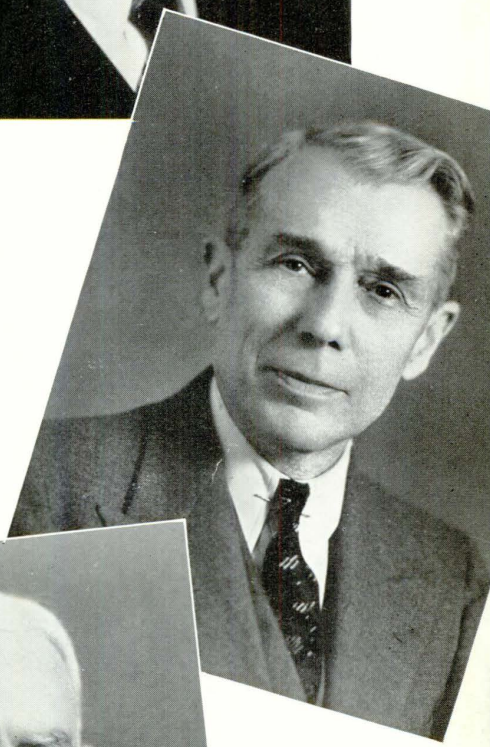
IVE OFFICERS



FREDERIC CHILD BIGGIN

Dean of the School of Architecture and Allied Arts

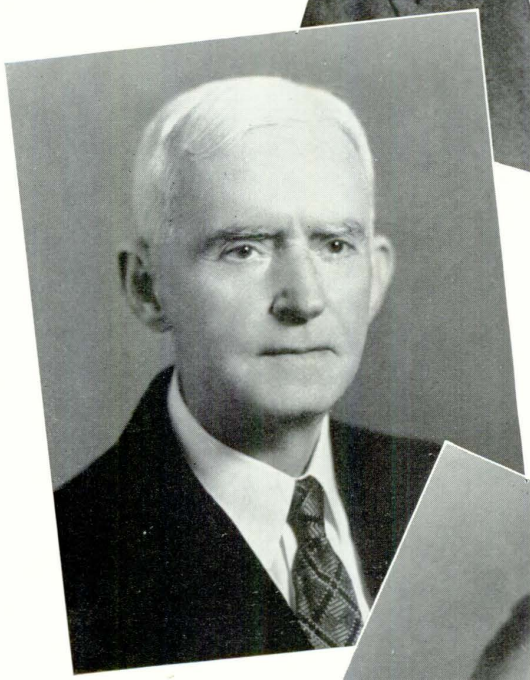
The School of Architecture and Allied Arts is composed of the Department of Architecture and the Department of Applied Art. Degree courses are offered in Architecture, Landscape Architecture, Interior Decoration, and Commercial and Graphic Arts. All are open to both men and women. The Department of Architecture is a member of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, and is endorsed by the American Institute of Architects through the award of its Annual Medal. The Department of Applied Art is a member of the Southern States Art League, and, in addition to its professional degree course, offers a broad foundation in all other lines of art work.



JOHN JENKINS WILMORE

Dean of the School of Engineering

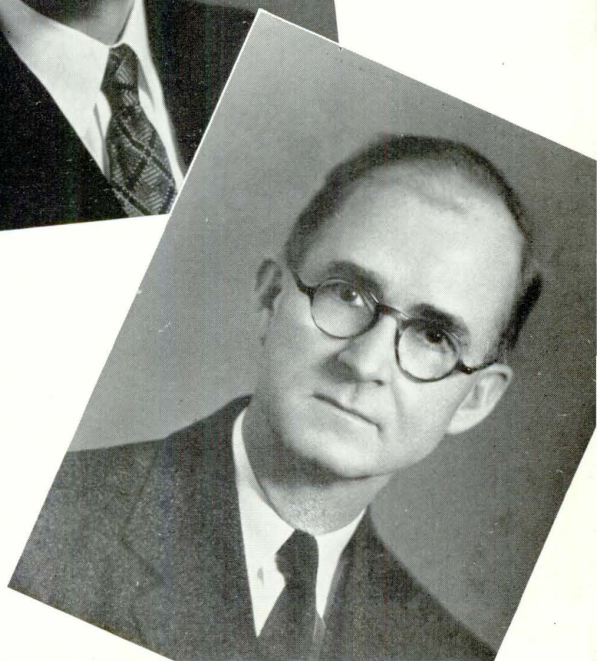
Auburn has long been noted for her excellent courses in the division of engineering. The School of Engineering includes the departments of Civil and Highway, Electrical, Mechanical and Aeronautical, Textile, Industrial Engineering and Shops, Machine Design and Drawing, and the Engineering Experiment Station. Closely associated with the School of Engineering is the work in Chemical Engineering under the School of Chemistry and Pharmacy. Graduates of Auburn's Engineering School are in constant demand in every section of the United States as well as in many foreign countries. The courses offered have a broad scope including training in industrial organization and plant management.



CLIFFORD LEROY HARE

Dean of the School of Chemistry and Pharmacy

The School of Chemistry offers four-year courses of instruction in chemistry and pharmacy which lead to the degrees of Bachelor of Science in Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, and Pharmacy. The school also offers the basic courses in chemistry for all the other schools in the institution. Special facilities are offered advanced students for doing research work on interesting problems in the more important fields of chemistry. The School of Pharmacy is a standard accredited school of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy for the training of pharmacists and of pharmaceutical chemists.



ZEBULON JUDD

Dean of the School of Education

A mark of distinction for the School of Education is the fact that it has placed a great majority of its graduates in responsible teaching positions during the last decade. Since the school was created, more than twelve hundred students have graduated with either Bachelor's or Master's degrees in Education. Recognizing school service as a profession with varied lines of activity, the School of Education has devised and set up a number of specialized curricula as preparation for the various fields of endeavor in elementary and secondary education, school supervision, and school administration. The school is cooperating with the State Curriculum Development program.

JOHN WINFIELD SCOTT

Dean of the School of Science and Literature

The School of Science and Literature embraces the departments of Economics, Sociology, English, Foreign Languages, History, Mathematics, Physical Education, Physics, and Secretarial Training. Degrees offered in this school are based on various combinations of subjects presented by these departments and, in some cases, subjects offered by other schools of the college. The courses lead to a B.S. degree along cultural and liberal lines, foreign service, business administration, pre-law, and pre-medicine (including pre-dentistry). The school also administers the fundamental cultural, scientific, and literary subjects necessary for the proper training of men and women in all branches of the institution.

ISAAC SADLER McADORY

Dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine

The School of Veterinary Medicine, through its trained graduates, meets the great demand for qualified veterinarians throughout the country in the work of prevention and eradication of diseases of animals. Graduates of the School are admitted by civil service examinations to appointments in the service of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture and to the United States Army, and also to membership in the American Veterinary Medical Association. The School of Veterinary Medicine at Auburn has been approved by the American Veterinary Medical Association, the Bureau of Animal Industry, and the United States Civil Service Commission.

MISS DANA KING GATCHELL

Acting Head of the School of Home Economics

The Alabama Polytechnic Institute offers courses dealing with all phases of home economics, leading to a wide range of occupations in practically every field open to women. Graduates of the School of Home Economics are holding responsible positions in schools and in other professional enterprises, and are rapidly making their influence felt throughout the nation. The faculty of the school includes teachers trained in child development, clothing and textiles, food preparation and serving, house planning and equipment, home management, nutrition, and household economics. The school also provides studies for graduate students.

MARION JACOB FUNCHESS

Dean of the School of Agriculture

The courses in the School of Agriculture are designed to provide both a broad foundation in the pure science and a fair amount of cultural subjects with the hope of producing graduates who are both versatile and cultured. The School of Agriculture has kept pace with the rapid advancement of agricultural methods, and each year sends out many graduates to take their places in the trained field of agricultural specialists. Practical solutions of many farm problems are solved on the numerous experiment stations located in various parts of the state. A liberal policy is followed in elective studies, thus assuring a broad education in addition to the specialized training.

IVE OFFICERS

POSEY OLIVER DAVIS

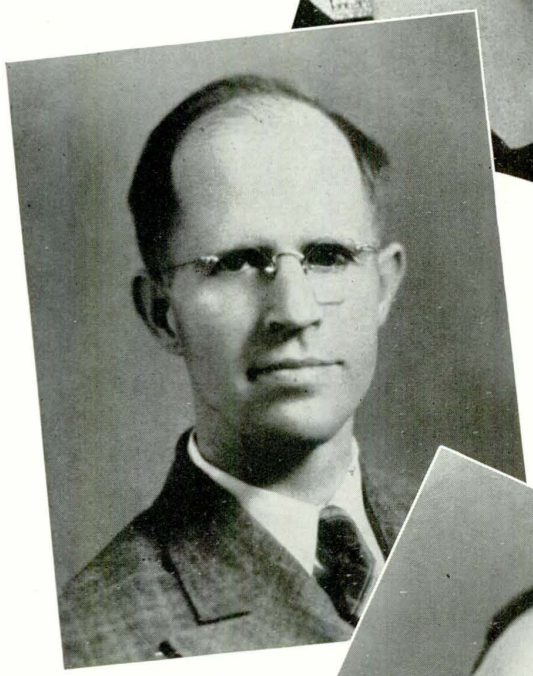
Director of Agricultural Extension Service

The Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute is a state educational service dealing directly with rural people and indirectly with all. Through county agents, home demonstration agents, assistants, and specialists the Extension Service extends Auburn into every county and community in Alabama. Instructional work of the Extension Service is based primarily upon research work done by the Experiment Station. The Extension Service has a large part, also, in administering the programs of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration which last year brought into Alabama $10,000,000 in benefit payments. It cooperates closely with the Soil Conservation Service, the Farm Security Administration, the State Department of Education, and other agencies engaged in educational development work. Headquarters are maintained at Auburn as one of the three major divisions of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The Extension Service personnel totals 373 men and women who are efficiently trained for their respective lines of work.

ROSA LEE WALSTON

Academic Adviser of Women Students

The position of Academic Adviser of Women Students is a new one on the campus, created especially to assist the women in problems arising in connection with their classroom work. The academic adviser helps students to decide on their courses, studies individual cases and makes recommendations as to the hour-load, and checks on points of weakness or strength as may seem desirable. In case of misunderstanding, the academic adviser serves as a mediator between student and instructor. Another function of this office is to give recognition to those whose scholastic standing is of unusual merit. The general problem of adjustment to campus life is carefully considered and an effort is made to interest girls in those organizations which have particular value for them. The response of the girls to this service indicates that it is meeting a real need.



CHARLES WESLEY EDWARDS

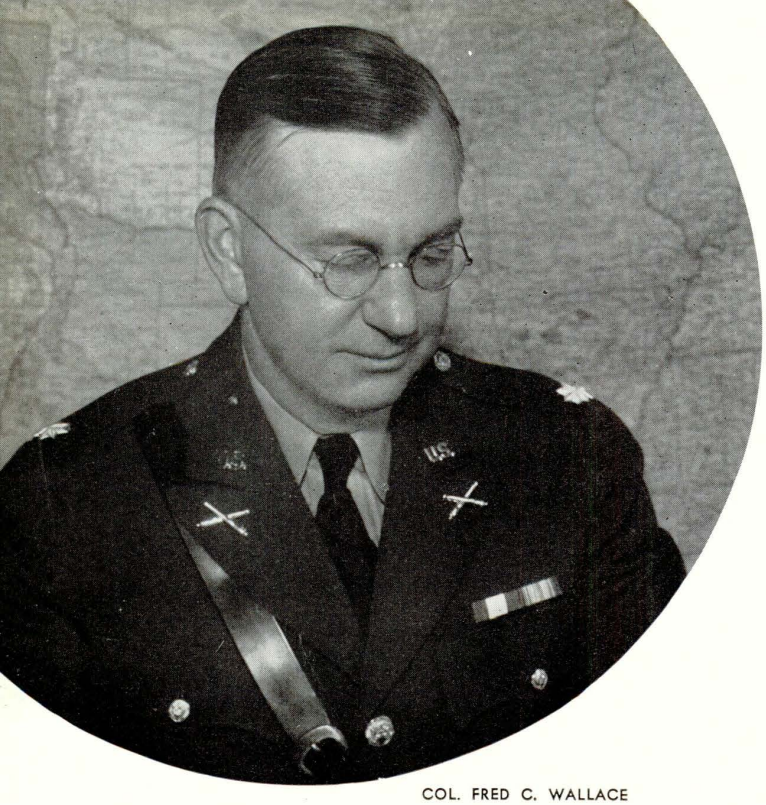
Associate Registrar

The Registrar's Office, where both current and permanent scholastic records are kept, is the veritable "nerve center" of academic activities at Auburn. Among the "thousand and one" details handled by the office is the acceptance of high school records submitted by new students and, in cooperation with the deans, the handling of scholastic records of those students who transfer from other institutions. Arrangement of registration procedure, commencement exercises, and conferences with students concerning their academic standing and the supplying of information on college records to prospective employers are some of the services performed by the Registrar's Office.

WILLIAM TRAVIS INGRAM

Accountant and Purchasing Agent

The accountant handles all the funds of the College, the Experiment Station, and the Extension Service. He acts as the purchasing agent for all divisions of the College. He is the "watch-dog of the treasury" in that all receipts and disbursements are cleared under his efficient supervision. He is the business manager of the College, the collector of fees, the adviser of the President on all financial matters. The administration of the National Youth Administration heads up in the Accountant's Office. He acts as the financial adviser of all student agencies and activities. His work is vital to the successful administration of the College.



COL. FRED C. WALLACE

UNITED STATES

The chief source of personnel for the Officers' Reserve Corps lies in the units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps which have been instrumental throughout the country in its leading colleges and universities. Not only do those who take advantage of the R. O. T. C. training prepare themselves for useful service in the event of a national emergency, but also the training received in the handling of groups of men cannot help but foster latent qualities of leadership. Men able and willing to lead are an asset to any nation in either peace or war.

The authorities of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute recognize the benefits of military training and the fact that it is every man's duty to prepare himself for efficient service to his country in a period of national crisis. Enrollment in the Auburn unit is encouraged by the award of credits towards degrees on a basis comparable to the award of credits for other college courses.

All male students who are citizens of the United States and are physically fit are required to take the course in Military Science and Tactics during their Freshman and Sophomore years. Advanced courses, leading to commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps, are offered to a limited number as elective work. Qualifications for a commission require, in addition to the work at the college, attendance at one six weeks' camp. This feature of the training normally follows the Junior year.

About one-third of the training consists of drill. The remainder is devoted to lectures and practical instruction in a broad range of subjects applicable to the training of the officer.

ARMY AT AUBURN

In addition to carrying on its regular functions, the Military Department is also instrumental in assisting and sponsoring a number of other campus activities.
The Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Auburn is organized as a Field Artillery Brigade of two regiments, a mounted battery and a motorized battery, and one regiment of Engineers. Auburn is proud of its unit and of the high standard which it has constantly maintained.

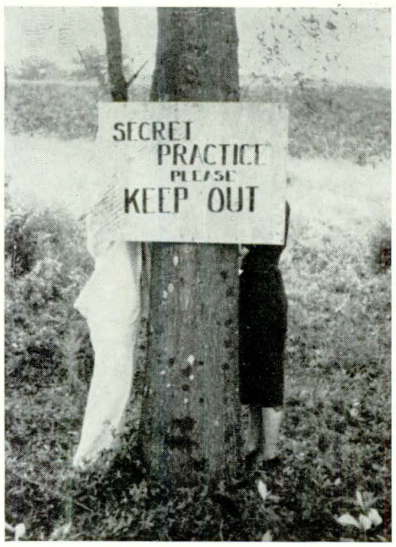
The eyes and ears of the world record Auburn men in action. The picture above shows the news reel gallery filming the Orange Bowl game.

BEING A STORY OF THE WISE

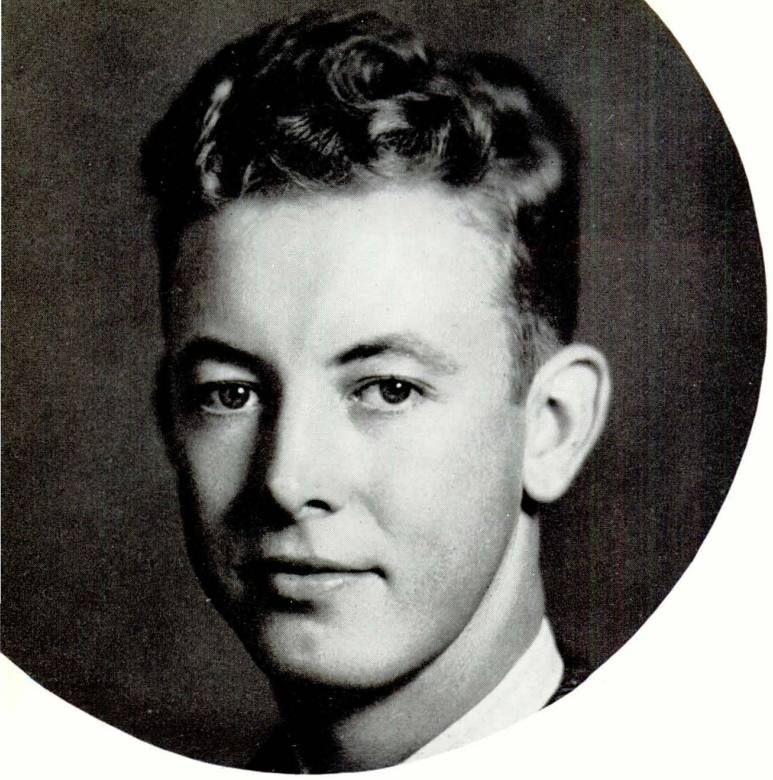
AND OTHERWISE

Excited rushees and harassed Greeks; registration's confusion and turmoil; meek Freshmen, swaggering Upperclassmen; "A" Club dances; mass meetings . . . noisy mobs and that "ole time religion"; football games . . . colorful, thrilling, breath-taking; raucous nickelodeons and tinkling glasses in local cafes; bull sessions and the feeling of warmth when dubbed a "reg'lar guy"; proms, parties, banquets . . . sentimental music, beautiful girls, the swish of gorgeous gowns . . . and the melancholy chiming in Samford tower; politics . . . worried, loquacious, back-slapping Juniors . . . jubilant winners and dejected losers; honor societies and the thrill of being tapped; final exams . . . wretched remorse and concerted, last minute cramming; agonized waiting for grades . . . then relief or disappointment, celebration or despair.

This is life at the "Loveliest Village."



This time an amateur photographer records an Auburn man in action.



MAX WELDEN, President

THE

In the Spring of 1930 a radical change in the student government at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute was effected. An Undergraduate Students' Association, composed of every undergraduate student on the campus, was organized. All student affairs are administered, either directly or indirectly, by this body. After eight years of trial and error and readjustment, the Undergraduate Students' Association has proven a far more valuable and effective instrument for student government than any other method attempted at Auburn.

The aims of the Undergraduate Students' Association are to deal effectively with all matters of student affairs; to keep alive and to perpetuate the traditions of our beloved college; to render the service of Auburn more valuable to the students by promoting the spirit of good fellowship and understanding between faculty and student; to discharge, faithfully and efficiently, the duties assigned to the association by the college administration; to work hand in hand with the administration in all matters affecting the welfare of the student body; to control and direct student finances; and to supervise all student activities in such a manner as to be of greatest benefit to the student body as a whole as well as a credit to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The official representative of the Undergraduate Students' Association is the Executive Cabinet, consisting of eleven students from the association. It is the duty of this group, individually and collectively, to carry out the aims and purposes of the Undergraduate Students' Association as sworn to during the installation ceremonies. The members of the Executive Cabinet are elected to office by classes in the annual Spring elections as follows:

According to the constitution of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, "The president and the treasurer shall be members of the Senior Class; the vice-president shall be a member of the Junior Class; and the secretary shall be a member of the Sophomore Class." Shortly after the election of the Cabinet members, another student election is held in which all the officers, with the exception of the treasurer, are elected. The treasurer is subsequently elected by the Cabinet members.

The sale of Senior Class rings and graduation invitations is controlled by the Executive Cabinet through committees. Chairman of the Ring Committee for this year has been Jack Owens, vice-president of the Cabinet. Floyd Pugh, the Executive Cabinet's only woman member, has been chairman of the Invitations Committee.

The Cabinet sponsors intramural sports for the student body, with all major and minor sports being organized for this competition. It is also in charge of the dance regulations, and is the governing body when changes are made in the rules. The Cabinet sponsors the publication of the "Rat Bible," an invaluable handbook for Freshmen, which is issued to new students at the beginning of every school year. These are but a few of the activities commanding the attention of the Executive Cabinet during the regular session.

RUTH LOWE	Treasurer
MARGARET WATKINS	President of Smith Hall
MARY HAYGOOD	Town Representative
GRACE NEWMAN	Freshman Representative

Women students at Auburn are governed by the Women's Student Government Association, which was organized in September, 1922. Miss Zoe Dobbs, Dean of Women, assisted in the organization and is at present an advisory member of the board.

The general executive body is the council, which has jurisdiction over all infractions of the constitution and regulations. Each woman student is a member of the organization, and each new woman student becomes a member by signing a membership pledge at the beginning of each semester.

The purpose of the organization is to meet the problems which concern the women students and to help them in every possible way.

The council is composed of the following officers: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, president of Smith Hall, town-representative, and Freshman representative. All of the officers except the Freshman representative are elected during the Spring to fill these positions the following scholastic year. The Freshman representative is elected in the fall.

The organization has taken an active part in convocations during the past school year in an effort to bring women students together. Teas, given weekly by other campus organizations, are all under the supervision of the Student Council, which has also taken an active part in sponsoring the second annual May Day celebration.

Virginia Holcombe, president of the Women's Student Government Association, has been very active during the school year on behalf of the co-ed group and has given unlimited time and effort to the duties of the responsible position she holds. She is also a member of Sphinx, an honor organization for women which chooses its members on the basis of scholarship, leadership, personality, and service.

Alumni Secretary Porter Grant and President L. N. Duncan examining plans for the new Stadium and Field House now under construction. (Below): Maurice I. Bloch, President Auburn Alumni Association.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Auburn's stadium is a certainty!

This is the official statement of the Alumni Association, the organization which has fostered the undertaking and has worked tirelessly for many years towards its accomplishment. A large amount of credit for the success of the venture goes to Maurice I. Bloch, of Selma, Alabama, who is now serving his third term as president of the association. Under his wise and capable leadership, a new era of rejuvenation and development has been experienced by the organization, and it has grown into one of the most valuable assets of the college.

Last year Mr. Bloch was instrumental in setting up an Alumni Endowment Fund. Boards and Committees were appointed; printed matter was distributed to all members; and every available force of the organization was put into play—all for the purpose of starting, and then perpetuating, the endowment fund. The present policy of the association is to use its revenue for the construction of something tangible for the school. It was decided that every penny of all alumni dues would be labeled for these projects and could not be touched for any other purpose.

The success of the new program was even greater than was at first expected. Consequently, it is entirely possible that the new stadium and field house, the first major objective, will enhance the beauty of our campus before the next regular school session is ended.

The site of the new stadium is to be the natural bowl on the west side of Drake Field. For the past several months workmen have been preparing the location, excavating where necessary, leveling, and installing a modern underground drainage system. Tentative plans for the field call for a 220-yard straightaway and a quarter-mile track to be included within the stadium. The field house, at the north end of the stadium, will house dressing rooms, offices for the coaches, and facilities for various indoor contests.

Another forward step was made by the association when Porter Grant, a former stellar end and member of the championship football team of 1932, was appointed Alumni Secretary. Mr. Grant has spent a great part of his time during the past year in traveling from town to town in the state organizing local alumni associations. As a result of his splendid efforts, a substantial increase in the total enrollment of the Alumni Association has been noted.

The Auburn Alumni Association is becoming larger and stronger as more men and women are graduated, while older members reach higher planes of prominence and success. It is of priceless value to the college.

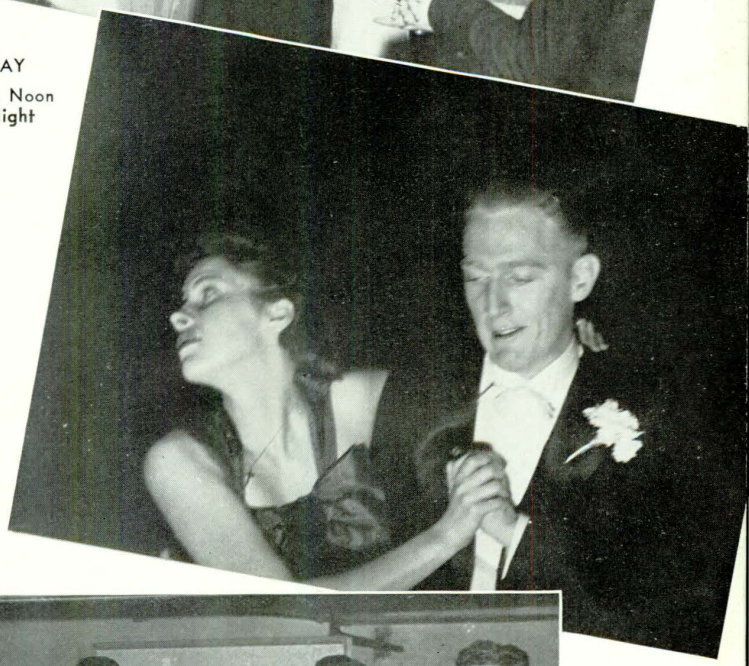
FRIDAY

Morning, Noon and Night



Although every week-end in Auburn is gay, the week-end of the Mid-Term Dances is known as the gayest of them all. Examinations have become history; out-of-town girls come by the hundreds; co-eds jam the local beauty parlors; the price of white ties goes up; the man at the floral shop makes his million. To the music of a big band, everyone swings out as if their life depended on it. It's one week-end you never forget

"Oh, listen to the Glissen of the slide trombone." That was the by-word during the week-end of the Junior Prom when Will Osborne presented his talented band of musicians to the "Fairest Village." Little Willie brought along the "whole works," beautiful and captivating Janice Todd, novel imitations, an excellent glee club, and the outrageous clown of the band, Bill Coburn. "Swing out!" were the orders of Skipper Osborne, and, boy, we swung.

The Prom was led by Miss Jane Dickson, a former campus queen (she's a schoolmarm now). For four years little Jane quickened the heartbeats of many an aspiring Freshman . . . especially Phi Delta Theta Freshmen. Her escort was Curty Farley, President of the Junior Class, who fills his executive post quite well.

"A Night in the City" was the novel theme for the dance decorations. Behind the orchestra was a color silhouette of a metropolitan city with towering skyscrapers over which the penetrating rays of huge searchlights were continually sweeping. Further enchantment was added to the scene by a large rotating crystal suspended in the ceiling, by subdued lights of variegated colors, and by likeness of fraternity crests hung at points of vantage about the hall.

THE AUBURN PLAINSMAN is the official semi-weekly student newspaper of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It is edited, financed, and published by the students of the institution and is the official organ through which their activities are publicized. The paper is in the charge of an editor and business manager who are elected by the members of the Junior Class from a group approved by the Publications Board.

Making its appearance this year as a completely reorganized, modern newspaper, The Plainsman carried out the "streamlined" trend of the present day. New type faces were adopted, heads were set "flush left," column rules were dropped from the editorial page, and every effort to facilitate easy reading was made. A beat system of news coverage was put into effect, a morgue was installed in the newspaper office, and a managing editor was appointed to assist the editor in every way. Efforts were made to organize the staff along the best practical lines of large daily papers.

The staff of the paper is made up of students who are interested in the work and the pursuit of their duties is entirely voluntary. However, consistent work is a prerequisite to being listed on the mast head which carries the names of the entire editorial and business staffs. It is largely through the cooperation of the staffs that the editor and business manager are able to make a success of the paper.

Although the major part of The Plainsman was devoted to local campus news, many stories of other schools had their part in making it more valuable to the students. The editorials were mainly concerned with the problems confronting students in their life at college, but many of them were devoted to the creation of deeper philosophic thought and interest in the problems of the world. Regular editorial columnar features gave discussions of campus news and national news.

CLARENCE PRUET
Business Manager

PLAINSMAN

The Plainsman featured a series of student opinion polls during the year to get, so far as possible, an accurate cross-section of student thought. For the first time in the history of the institution, the paper sponsored a creative writing contest to encourage the student authors of poems, essays, and short stories. Prizes were awarded to those contributing the best work in each field.

The heads of the paper spent their time alternately basking in the light of praise and laboring under the load of criticism. Yet, whatever the result, it may be said that a conscientious effort was made to succeed.

With the aid of the Editorial and Business Staffs and the advice of the Publications Board, we have found this job of putting out a book to be a lot of fun. Once again Auburn bids Godspeed to a large class of graduating Seniors. This time they number 531, bringing the grand total up to 7,393. The Senior class of 1938 is one of quite some distinction. As a group it has always been noted for its participation in outside activities. In the first year of its existence, it gained the unique distinction of inaugurating the annual Freshman Hop, an affair which shows promise of being perpetuated as another Auburn custom. In the fashion of their predecessors, the men and women of this group will carry with them the glorious traditions and valuable teachings of character that four years of association on this campus trace so indelibly on one's mind.

They will seek their fortunes in a manner that will be a credit to their Alma Mater.

The Junior year is perhaps the most exciting year of all for the Auburn undergraduate. For it is during this year that the aspiring collegians' dreams either attain complete fulfilment or cruel oblivion. To the Junior Class is assigned the privilege of electing the incumbents of most of the major offices for the coming year. Consequently, toward the end of the year, the politically-ambitious, back-slapping Junior is very much in evidence . . . ever in search of the elusive vote. Another element contributing to the topsy-turviness of life as a Junior is the fact that the honor societies select most of their pledges from members of the Junior Class. It is little wonder, then, that the average third year man displays a much more mature countenance than that of even the Senior.

CLASS OFFICERS

JOHN IVEY . . . . . President
JACK DUNLOP . . . . . Vice-President
GEORGE HILLER . . . . . Secretary
ROBERT CHAPMAN . . . . . Treasurer
RUTH LOWE . . . . . Historian

The Sophomore has just completed the mentally trying and physically exhausting "Rat" stage. Therefore, he lets it be known generally that he is now a man of the world. His store of knowledge as to how to "get around the Dean" or how to "put one over on the Prof" is positively amazing. However, the success of many a campus enterprise is largely dependent on the Sophomore. For it is during this year that the student begins to branch out into extra-curricular activities which appeal most to his individual tastes. Some go out for the staffs of the publications, others for dramatics, debating, and the like; while still others aspire for athletic honors. In every case, the enthusiasm and vigor which the Sophomore exhibits in a new activity draws marked comment.

CLASS OFFICERS

EDGAR STOVALL . . . . . President
MEREDYTH R. HAZZARD . . . . . Vice-President
JOHN ARNOLD . . . . . Secretary
JAMES HUNTER MARTIM . . . . . Treasurer
PRUDENCE OZIER . . . . . Historian

"Freshman!"

This is the blood-chilling command most often directed at the docile first-year man. For a few weeks, while he is being orientated, the Freshman lives like a hunted animal, ever alert to escape chastisement at the hands of the heartless tyrant, the upperclassman. However, he soon learns that the ordeals in store for him are mostly products of his own imagination, and he soon begins to enjoy himself immensely. Then follows the horseplay at which the Freshman is so proficient. Of course, the fact that he is a first-year man entirely exonerates him from many an escapade that would be considered outrageous if perpetrated by an upperclassman. For this reason alone, many consider the "Rat" year as the happiest of all.

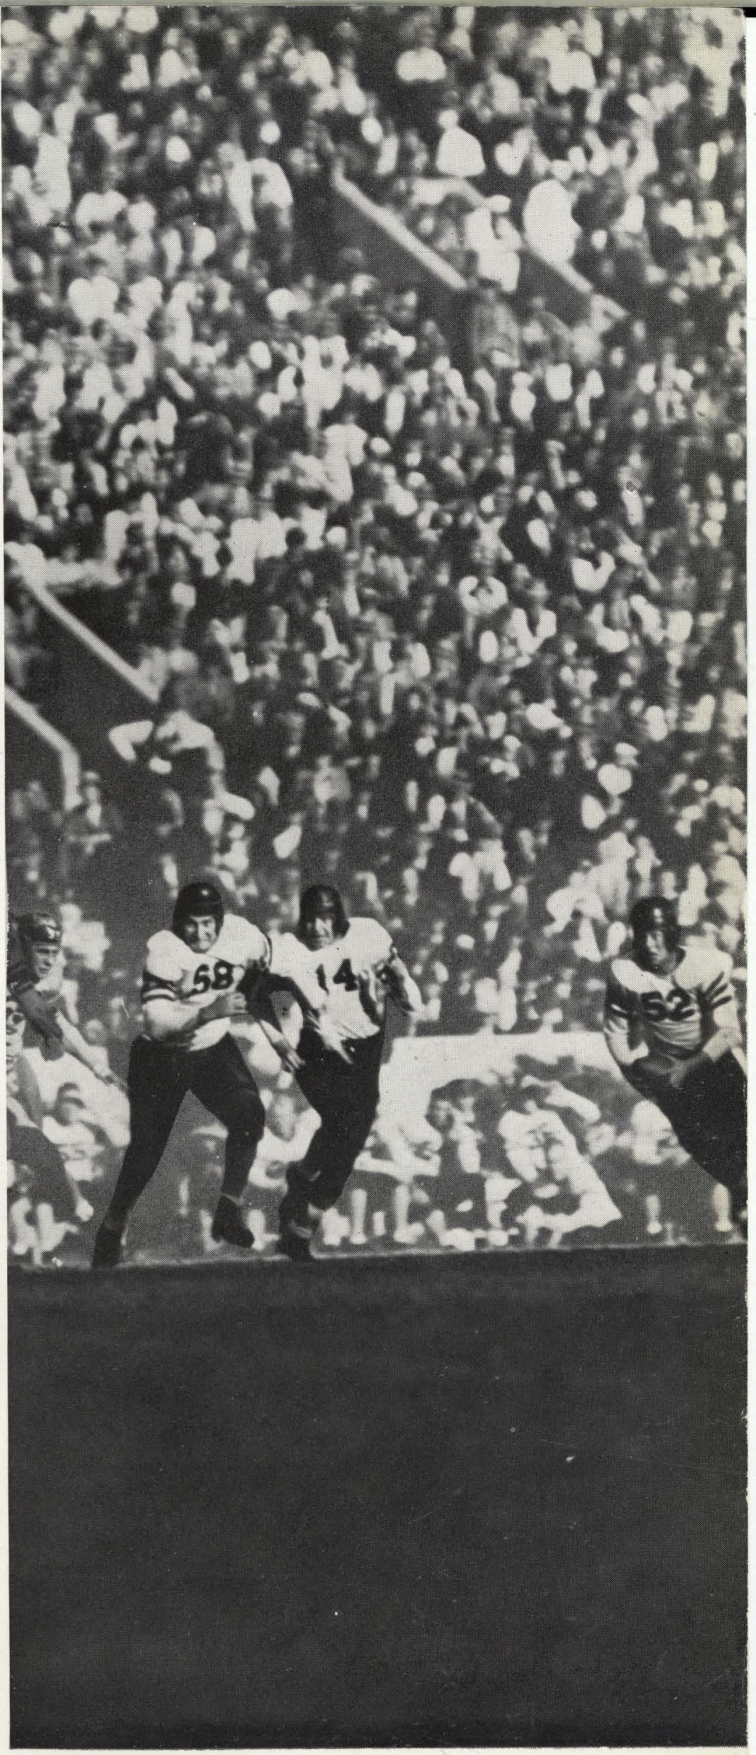
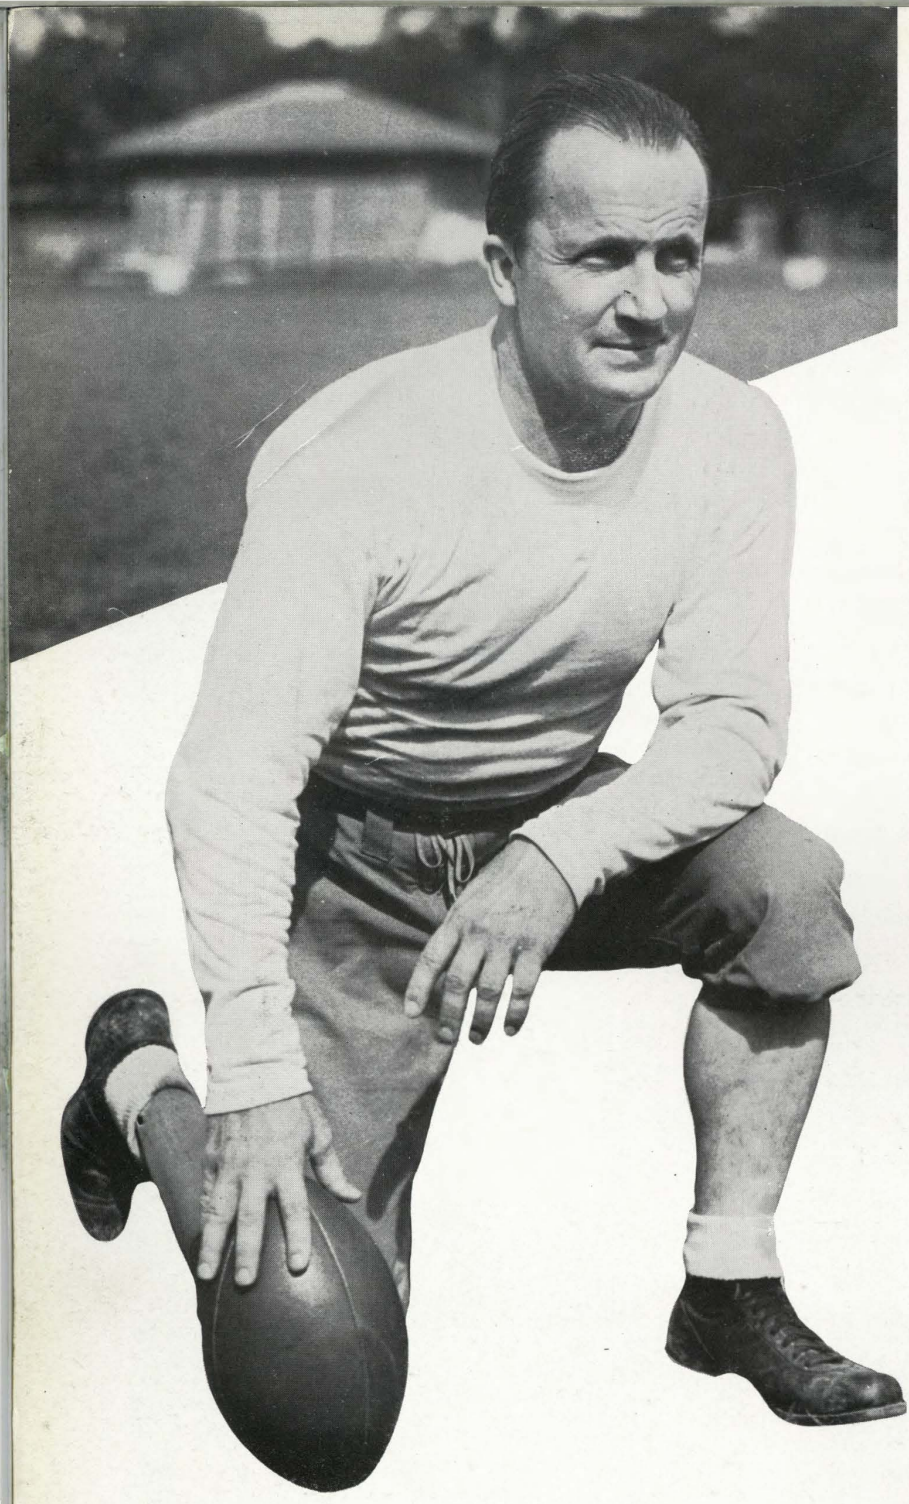
SMASH!

Facing one of the hardest schedules in the country Auburn surprised all followers by winding up in third place in the Southeastern Conference with a record of four wins, one loss, and two ties. During the 1937-38 football season the Plainsmen won six games, lost two, and tied three, and received a national rating of Number 10 by Paul B. Williamson, rating expert. And this is even more significant when one considers that Auburn met six of the twenty-four Williamson leaders. At the start of the season Coach Jack Meagher and his assistants had the difficult task of molding a team, many players of whom were inexperienced, around three regulars that returned from the 1936 football team. Even though the Tigers were expected to pack a fast and bewildering attack, the experts placed them in the second flight of the conference, explaining that they should be weaker from tackle to tackle than last year and that their suicide schedule would prove to be too hard a task for Auburn to handle. Even though Auburn did not play a single game at home and were required to travel great distances they took each game in stride, turning in brilliant performances in some and making no alibis for the others, and when their football togs were stored away for another year it was found that the 1937 Plainsmen had turned in a highly satisfactory performance for the season. The 1937 Tiger line was regarded as one of the best in the country and will go down in Auburn's history as one of the strongest frontwalls that it ever produced.



THEY'RE OFF!



COACH JACK MEAGHER

SKIPPER

FINISH 1938 SEASON

Coach Jack Meagher and his able staff proved again this season their ability to make the most of whatever was available. There was at the beginning of the season plenty of good, though inexperienced, material, but as the season progressed these players were molded into a smooth, coordinating group that functioned as a unit. Skipper Jack's ability as a handler of men is well known. An accomplished psychologist, he could take an apparently battered and worn-out team and in one week bring it back to top form, full of fight and determination. A head coach alone cannot make a successful football team—he has to have capable and industrious assistance. Dell Morgan, aided by Boots Chambless and Buddy McCollum, producing smart and resourceful lines; Jimmie Hitchcock instilling skill into the backs; Wilbur Hutsell the ever-willing trainer; and Ralph Jordan instructing his freshmen proteges furnished that able assistance to Coach Meagher.

The Auburn line of late has come to be regarded as one of the nation's best, and this was especially true of the Tiger's 1937 forward wall. This year's Auburn line will go down in history as one of the strongest that Coach Dell Morgan has coached.

AND THE BOYS
WITH FINE RECORD

Lester Antley's rise to the captaincy of the Auburn eleven was a well-earned honor. For two years he was an understudy to Walter Gilbert, Auburn's All-America center, and, consequently, received little publicity. This year he proved to be the power behind the team and set the pace for the Auburn squad as a dependable competitor and a consistent performer.

Billy Hitchcock, alternate-captain, was hampered somewhat this season with injuries. When able to perform he thrilled the crowds with his brilliant punt returning ability, his smooth flowing stride, a dazzling change of pace, and a shifty pair of hips.

Rex McKissick was recently chosen as Auburn's most outstanding athlete of the year. During his three years of varsity competition Rex has participated in football and basketball, being captain of the latter this year. This is an honor strived for by many but achieved by few.

Auburn, 19; Birmingham-Southern, 0

Auburn launched its 1937 football campaign at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery by defeating the strong Panther eleven of Birmingham-Southern, 19-0. In their opening game of the season the Tigers showed an improved passing attack, quick launching of its plays and a reserve team that could drive the ball down the field. The punt returning of Billy Hitchcock was the outstanding feature of the game, with Ralph O'Gwynn, Charlie Haynsworth and Pelham Sitz also showing up well. The touchdowns were scored by Sitz, Hitchcock, and O'Gwynn, with Bo Russell converting the extra marker.

TWO TIES FOLLOW

Auburn, 0; Tulane, 0

Playing in their first Southeastern Conference game of the year, the Auburn Tigers and the Tulane Greenies battled to a scoreless tie on a flooded field in New Orleans. Both outfits ripped and tore at each other with all the attacking weapons—smashes, end runs, passes, forwards, and laterals, quick kicks, punts and place kicks—but when the chips were down neither could cash in. The Plainsmen threatened twice with attempted field goals—Bo Russell and Garth Thorpe doing the booting—and also had other scoring opportunities but failed on all these. Despite the poor offense displayed by the Bengals they played a great defensive game, with their line showing up especially well.

Auburn, 0; Villanova, 0

The Plainsmen took leave of Southeastern Conference warfare in their next encounter and journeyed up to Philadelphia to battle the mighty Villanova eleven. This fracas saw an inspired, alert and fast-improving Auburn team fight an inspired and veteran Villanova outfit to a 0-0 deadlock. The Tigers had one golden opportunity to score when they recovered a fumble on their opponents' three-inch line, but the half ended before they could line up to run a play. The Tigers also threatened two other times in the first half before being checked by time, and a set of Eastern officials that they failed to understand several times also hampered Auburn somewhat. Auburn's powerful line never gave an inch without a stiff onslaught, and it gave a fine defensive performance throughout.

In their second conference engagement Coach Jack Meagher's charges stepped out and turned a pre-game defeat into a rout as a brilliant Auburn line fashioned a startling 33-7 upset of Mississippi State in Birmingham. The Tigers scored by virtually every known fashion, including a blocked punt in the second period which really clinched the contest. The Maroons staved off four threatened touchdowns before Haynsworth plowed over for the first tally. The second marker followed shortly when Russell blocked a punt and Happy Sivell fell on the ball in the end zone. Dutch Heath dashed 29 yards to score, and their fourth tally came about after a 70-yard drive, with Speck Kelly passing to Jimmie Fenton for the score. A third-string backfield duplicated the pass for the final score, Cantrell tossing one to Whatley.

The statistics show the Tigers' superiority, but they fail to enumerate the furious charging of Bo Russell, Freddie Holman, Happy Sivell, and Rex McKissick, which made the final result inevitable from the start. Auburn made 15 first downs to Mississippi State's 8, and reeled off 172 yards on running plays to 25 for State. The losers connected with passes good for 125 yards, however, to overshadow the 72 chalked up by the winners.

TIGERS SWEEP ON

Auburn, 21; Georgia Tech, 0

Performing in a manner that was only slightly less amazing than their smashing 33-7 victory over Mississippi State the previous week, the Auburn Tigers again rose to new heights to completely crush the razzle-dazzling Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets, 21-0, in Atlanta. All of the touchdowns came in the first half, but the score actually does not reveal the tremendous superiority of the Tigers over the Engineers. Sivell scored his second tally of the season when he literally "stole" the ball on the 16 and scampered over for the first score. Fenton slipped through a hole on the 26 opened by Freddie Holman and then stepped and stiff-armed his way for the marker. Fenton added the final tally that came about after a 55-yard drive behind the running of Kelly and Heath. He also converted all three extra points.

Auburn, 7; Rice, 13

Rice, the champions of the Southwest and victors in the Cotton Bowl, temporarily halted the Tiger march the following week by defeating Coach Meagher's men, 13-6, in a bitter battle staged in Houston, Texas. Two long returns of punts and two touchdown passes thrown by the bulky Earnest Lain proved to be the margin of victory for the Owls. Rice shut out the starting Auburn team and then had enough in reserve to keep a courageous second team from taking the game away from them in a third period drive. Sitz scored the lone Bengal tally and Thorpe converted, after the ball had been worked down deep into Rice's territory. George Kenmore stole the show—he punted like an expert, threw passes and skirted through the line in brilliant fashion, with George Wolff also coming in for praise for his work at tackle.

BEST GAME OF THE SEASON

Auburn, 20; Tennessee, 7

Turning in their most spectacular victory of the year, the Auburn Tigers, paced by the brilliant broken field running of Jimmie Fenton and George Kenmore, smashed over the Tennessee Vols to the tune of 20-7 at Legion Field in Birmingham. The entire Auburn line turned in a sterling performance against the Vols, not letting up once during the entire 60 minutes of play. It was one of the finest lines in all the history of Auburn teams, the entire line functioning as a unit. Tennessee stopped five Auburn scoring chances before Kenmore took a 20-yard pass for the score. Their second marker was scored on a 44-yard drive, featuring two passes thrown by Fenton and a touchdown heaved by Kenmore to Pig Walker. The last tally was made possible by Hitchcock, who turned in the most superb piece of broken field running of the game by carrying the oval to the 14, from whence Sitz smashed over center for the touchdown.

Jimmie Fenton had his day of days and rightfully deserved the Blue Key award for the most outstanding player of the game. He punted 'em a mile, he ran all over the gridiron, he threw passes and he ran interference, and there was no getting into the territory he guarded.

ROUGH GOING

Auburn, 7; L. S. U., 9

Two costly fumbles by the Auburn Tigers, one good for a field goal and the other a touchdown, gave Louisiana State breaks enough for the Bayou Tigers to chalk up a 9-7 victory in Baton Rouge. However the Plainsmen stamped themselves as a football team as capable and as courageous as they come in this losing performance. After L. S. U. had made good both its breaks, Kelly almost brought the game out of the fire for Auburn with his brilliant punt returning. He returned one to midfield, and Fenton and Sitz advanced the ball to the 14, with Sitz going over. Five minutes before the final whistle, Kelly returned a punt 56 yards before being downed on L. S. U.'s 20. From this point the Tigers ran into tough circumstances—incomplete pass and three penalties. Pushed back to midfield, Thorpe tried a field goal but the ball fell short of the uprights.

Auburn, 0; Georgia, 0

For the third time this season the Auburn Tigers were held to a 0-0 score, this time by the Georgia Bulldogs. Had the breaks been with the Plainsmen they would have won the game easily. George Kenmore went over for a touchdown on a 12-yard sweep early in the fourth quarter, but the play was called back. Garth Thorpe tried three goals from placement but Lady Luck was against him on all three tries. The forty-second meeting of the old rivals was featured by brilliant line play by both teams, with Fenton easily being the outstanding back on the field.

The Bengals from Auburn brought their ten-game schedule to a gallant climax in Jacksonville when they subdued Florida's fighting 'Gators, 14-0. The better part of the game was played in Florida's territory and only a stubborn 'Gator eleven that fought courageously until the end kept Auburn from turning the affair into a rout. A 42-yard drive, culminated with Fenton's magnificent streak down the sidelines behind perfect interference, set the stage for the first tally. A bad punt, an offside penalty, runs by Kelly and Heath and a pass from Kelly to Goon Harrison brought about the second touchdown, with Kelly going over for the score. Fenton converted both extra points.

THE ORANGE BOWL GAME

PLAINSMEN TRIM MICHIGAN STATE IN CLASSIC

AUBURN, 6; MICHIGAN STATE, 0

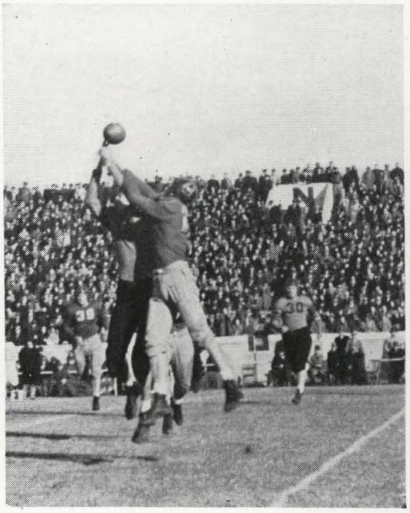
For the second successive year Coach Meagher accepted an invitation to play in a post-season game. This season Auburn was invited to oppose Michigan State in the Orange Bowl at Miami. The permission was given by the Southeastern Conference officials when they voted to lift the ban that forbade conference teams to play post-season games in bowls other than the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl. The game with the Spartans of Coach Charlie Bachman was the Tiger's second post-season affair in as many years. Last January 1, the Plainsmen squared off with Villanova in Havana in the feature attraction of the Cuban National Sports Festival, the game ending in a 7-7 tie. In tackling Michigan State the Bengals tied up with one of the leading clubs in the Middle West and one of the finest in the country, being the country's ninth team in the percentage of games won and lost in the past five years.

AGGRESSIVENESS CONQUERS POWER

Auburn 6

Upholding the tradition of Southern football in a grand style, the Auburn Plainsmen romped over Michigan State, 6-0, before 19,000 paying customers in the Orange Bowl game played on New Year's Day in Miami, to become the first Southern team to gain a victory in the Orange Bowl classic.

The only touchdown of the day came early in the second period. Just before the first quarter ended, Speck Kelly ran off-tackle for a 25-yard gain to place the ball at midfield. At this stage of the game each coach substituted an entire new team. An exchange of punts saw little George Kenmore bringing back Ciolek's punts from his 4 to the Spartan's 36 in a sparkling run. After an off-side penalty against the Bengals, Kenmore passed to Ralph O'Gwynn, who caught the oval on the enemy's 2-yard line. Pel Sitz rammed the line three times, getting only a yard in all. Then O'Gwynn swept to his left on a wide end run and tallied. Garth Thorpe's placement went wide.



Although well in the lead the Tigers stage a last-minute drive for another touchdown

Michigan State never threatened once, Auburn holding the upper hand throughout the contest. The powerful Bengal eleven made 12 first downs to State's 2, and outgained the Charlie Bachman coached eleven from scrimmage, 203 yards to 32 yards. Auburn returned kicks 108 yards to 54 yards for the Spartans.

The Auburn line play, both on offense and defense, was too much for the powerful Spartans. The entire team gave an exhibition of speed and cleverness that was captivating, and but for penalties at critical moments the Plainsmen would have turned the game into a rout.

Within three minutes after the opening kick-off the Bengals had roared down to Michigan State's 12, where an offside penalty and a fourth down pass cost them the ball. Auburn, with Kelly and Fenton carrying the ball, threatened several times in the second half. Kelly, a fast, shifting back, carried the ball thirteen times and gained a total of forty-seven yards. Fenton shared the individual honors with Kelly, carrying the oval twelve times for a total of fifty yards.

At intermission the civic spirits of Miami put on a pageantry that delighted the almost capacity crowd that attended the Orange Bowl game. Eight or ten bands played and paraded and altogether put on a colorful show.

In this game a group of small and spirited Auburn athletes demonstrated to the world the unassailable fact that speed and technique were more potent assets than size and strength. They made the old and familiar Notre Dame attack look to be what it always is when properly executed—the most devastating attack that football has ever known.

TED HUSING

"Colonel" Ted was at the mike end of a nation-wide Columbia hook-up when Auburn took the field against Michigan State. Auburn was indeed fortunate in having such a brilliant commentator to broadcast her season's climax. The account Mr. Husing gave was accurate and colorful, and hearing it was almost as satisfactory as sitting in the Orange Bowl itself. Although the description was a strictly impartial one, we of the Plains like to feel that the New Year's Day performance of the Tigers made the "Colonel" a genuine Auburn follower.

NEWSPAPERS OVER THE NATION

The various quotations below were taken from newspaper articles written by leading sports writers of the nation

GRANTLAND RICE, Collier's—Quote: Through the South and the Southeast most of the leading teams were well matched in playing strength—such teams as Auburn, Vanderbilt, Alabama, L. S. U., Georgia Tech, Duke, North Carolina, Tulane, Tennessee —where Auburn carried by all odds the heaviest burden. And don't forget that schedules such as Auburn faced can make a killing difference when compared to the schedules of those who play only four or five hard games.

MORGAN BLAKE, Atlanta Journal—Quote: The finest looking football team we saw all year was the day Auburn gave Tennessee such a licking at Birmingham.

BOB PHILLIPS, Birmingham Age-Herald—Quote: Take it from one who was hard to convince, the Auburn Tigers of 1937 were one of the country's real good teams. A great set of coaches and a great set of players did a great job of tackling that bruising schedule.

STUART X. STEPHENSON, Montgomery Advertiser—Quote: The boys have so completely taken the football world by surprise that I'm afraid that the critics are going to admit that Auburn has one of the country's leading elevens.

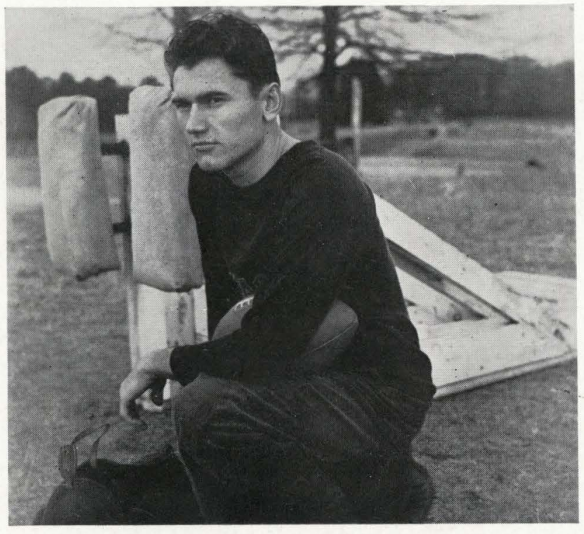
THAT GREAT AUBURN SPIRIT

ED SPRAGUE, Football Manager



"The Great Auburn Spirit" was kept alive in no uncertain terms this year by our excellent squad of cheerleaders. Their "never say die" attitude and amazing energy won for them the admiration of the entire student body, and it is little wonder that the Auburn spirit was the subject of so much comment at the football game this year. Head Cheerleader for the year was Jack Adams, ably assisted by Charlie O'Reilly, "Flash" Flowers, and "Chick" Hatcher. For the first time in history, Auburn had two girl Cheerleaders, June Tooker and Dot Greene, who, donned in their silken uniforms, captivated the stands by their stunts.

Another unsung hero of the past football season is Ed Sprague, Senior Manager of football. Ed was always on the job, no matter what the duties nor how long the hours. Future managers might do well to emulate his personality and aggressiveness.

PROSPECTS FOR NEXT YEAR

The publication of numerous All-America and Southeastern Conference teams found Auburn placing several men on these mythical all-star elevens. Ralph Sivell was placed on the third team of the Associated Press All-America, besides being mentioned on many similar teams. In the A. P. All-Southeastern eleven for 1937 Sivell was placed on the first team at guard, Bo Russell on the second team at tackle, and Jimmie Fenton on the third team at halfback. Many other Auburn players received honorable mention on other important selections, including Billy Hitchcock, halfback; Freddie Holman, tackle; Lester Antley, center; Dutch Heath, fullback; Milton Howell, guard; Speck Kelly, halfback; George Kenmore, halfback, and Pelham Sitz, fullback.

Auburn is already being placed in the upper bracket of football for 1938. According to Coach Meagher, "Auburn will have a good football team this fall. Maybe not so good as last year, but it could be better if our freshmen develop rapidly." The main losses are Sivell, All-Southeastern guard; Capt. Antley, a fine center; Holman, heavy and capable tackle, and Fenton, regarded by his coach as the South's best back. Those returning are headed by Bo Russell, 198 pounds of tackle talent; Milton Howell, who became a fine guard as a sophomore last year; Stancel Whatley and Max Harrison, a fine pair of sophomore ends, and Speck Kelly, a real speedster of the gridiron. Also back for duty will be Oscar Burford, end; George Wolff and Bill Nichols, tackles; Vernon Burns and Garth Thorpe, guards; Malvern Morgan, center; Marion Walker, Osmo Smith, and John Davis, quarterbacks; George Kenmore, Ralph O'Gwynn, Geter Cantrell, and Bill Mims, halfbacks, and Pelham Sitz and Charlie Haynsworth, fullbacks. A large group of frosh grid aspirants are untried in varsity competition, and must remain on the questionable list until October. A trio of these performers seem to stand out above the rest: Brody McCorkle, a 175-pound fullback; Dick McGowan, a 185-pound blocking, kicking, and passing back; and Ernest Mills, a 200-pound tackle.

Auburn's freshman squad did not come up to the standard that Coach Jordan's charges have set in the past. In their first encounter, the fighting Tiger Cubs were vanquished by the Birmingham-Southern frosh, 13-12. In the second game a belated fourth quarter attack enabled the Florida freshmen to defeat the Cubs, 13-2, and in their final game Auburn and Georgia Tech battled to a 7-7 deadlock.

As this book goes to press the 1938 football schedule has not yet been announced, but the Auburn Tigers will play the same schedule as this season. The ten games to be played will include Birmingham-Southern, Tulane, Villanova, Mississippi State, Georgia Tech, Rice, Tennessee, L. S. U., Georgia, and Florida.

THE "A" CLUB

One of the most active organizations on the campus is the Auburn "A" Club, composed of varsity athletes who have won monograms in any one of the four major sports, football, baseball, basketball, and track. Managers and cheerleaders are also eligible for membership in the organization during their Senior year.

The fundamental purposes of the organization are to bring athletes in close touch with one another, to keep all campus athletics on a high plane, to foster and to keep alive the "Auburn spirit," and to advise and aid in all student activities.

Election to the club comes immediately after awards have been made in the major sports. Part of the initiation is made public and has always been a source of much amusement to students. Among the indignities the poor neophytes are required to suffer are those of going to classes in tuxedos, and leading mules, chickens, squirrels, and the like around with them wherever they go. The pledges must appear with all wearing apparel donned backwards and must walk backwards for several days.

The club sponsors the annual "A" Day, which is usually held during the latter part of March. All classes are excused on this day. A new feature on the "A" Day program, started last year, is the election by the student body of Miss "A" Day, who rules over the day's activities. Among the athletic events that draw much interest and enthusiasm is the Interfraternity Track Meet. Each fraternity enters a track team, and to the scorer of most points goes a handsome trophy. Boxing and fencing exhibitions always attract a large number of spectators to the gymnasium. Two other feature events of the day's festivities are a baseball and a polo game. Auburn is represented in both of these contests by varsity teams. The "A" Club is very active in social life on the campus. "A" Club dances are held throughout the winter session and once a week during the summer session. These affairs have gained the reputation of being the best of the season with the possible exception of the major dance sets. They are always attended by a large number of visiting girls and alumni as well as a great many students. Another affair sponsored by the "A" Club is the annual election of Miss Homecoming. The winner of the election is the sponsor for the Auburn homecoming football game. That night, the "A" Club gives its climax of the social season, the Homecoming Dance. At this time Miss Homecoming is presented to the student body.

Billy Hitchcock, this year's president, is largely responsible for keeping the "A" Club on such a high plane of activity and progressiveness. Not satisfied with being an outstanding member of the football and baseball teams, Billy is also an honor student, having maintained a scholastic average of nearly 90 for his entire college career. This is an achievement seldom attained by men who are required to spend long hours on the athletic field.

BASKETBALL SEASON

A FINE TEAM MAKES FINE RECORD

Replacing Joel Eaves and Andrew Curlee, two mainstays of last year's quintet, was the big problem facing Coach Ralph Jordan at the start of the current basketball season. His 1937 aggregation finished the season with the remarkably good record of 11 wins and four losses, and finished in third place in the Southeastern Conference.

At the start of the season Coach Jordan moved Captain Rex McKissick to a guard position to take care of the vacancy created by Curlee, who dropped out of school. Energetically he carried out his job, and secured cooperation and team work which made the team a smooth functioning unit. With two years of varsity competition behind him, and his characteristic spark and drive, he was responsible to a great extent for the spirit, fight, and team work shown by the squad.

The Tigers starting team was usually composed of Malvern Morgan and Crawford Holmes at forwards, Tommie Edwards or Red Childers at center, and Captain McKissick and Ray Gibson at the guard positions. This combination worked nicely together in all of the games to date and gave promise of developing into a crack outfit. Morgan, the probably high scorer of the season, was leader of the Tiger attack, having a deadly eye for the basket. Although slow-moving, he was always at the right spot at the right time. Holmes is one of the best ballhawks ever to play on the local floor, playing good basketball all season, always consistent, always fighting. Edwards, a potentially great player, and Childers waged quite a battle for the center berth until the latter received a wrenched knee in the Oglethorpe game. However, Edwards took care of the pivot position in great shape and should prove invaluable next year. Gibson, at guard, rounded out the first team. Gibson's height proved to be very valuable to the team, besides being aggressive and a good shot.

Playing the role of understudies to the regulars were J. P. Streetman, Cecil Wallace, Bob Dickinson and Bill Dudley at forwards, Ernest Pappas, Orville Ginter and Bruce Renfroe at guards, and Theron Karge and Homer Gossett at center. These reinforcements were a valuable asset to the starting five and proved themselves to be capable courtmen on numerous occasions.

Auburn opened its intercollegiate basketball schedule by trouncing Sewanee in a two-game series, 36-31 and 38-19. In the first game the score was close throughout, with Sewanee taking an early lead, but the Bengals overcame this lead and were out in front at halftime, 19-18. The final period also was tight, with Ray Gibson sinking two shots in the last few minutes of play to clinch the game. His total for the game was 13 markers.

SUMMARY OF THE GAMES

BASKETEERS STAND HIGH IN CONFERENCE

The second contest was marked by alert defensive playing by the Plainsmen, who soon overcame an early lead, never to be headed thereafter. Morgan led the Tiger attack with 13 points.

The Auburn cagers stretched their intercollegiate winning streak to three straight when Malvern Morgan shot ten field goals to lead the Tigers to a 49-39 victory over the Birmingham-Southern Panthers. Morgan was the leading scintillant of both clubs, with Crawford Holmes, who has quite a dependable eye for the basket himself, sharing honors with Morgan by gathering in ten markers.

In their next conference starts Auburn took a two-game series from Oglethorpe, 46-43 and 49-14. In the first encounter the shooting of Holmes, who collected 16 points, was the highlight of the affair, while in the second game the work of Morgan, Edwards, and Holmes, who connected with 12, 12, and 10 points, respectively, was outstanding.

At this writing there are games with Sewanee, Georgia, Georgia Tech, and Florida yet to be played. The Conference Tournament, which every conference member is eligible to attend, is to be held on March 3 and 4 in Baton Rouge, and with continued improvement in their team play, Coach Jordan's proteges should prove to be a real threat in this tournament.

TRACK SEASON

COACH HUTSELL'S SEVENTEENTH YEAR

For the sixteenth time in as many years the dean of the Tiger coaching staff led his charges to a successful track season. Even though Auburn's 1937 track and field team opened the season against Georgia with less balance than any cinder outfit Coach Wilbur Hutsell has ever instructed at the Plains, the Tigers won three of their four dual tests and won third honors at the Southeastern Conference carnival in Birmingham.

Prospects for a winning track and field team for 1938 look better than last year. Even though Coach Hutsell loses such stars as Kilgore, Williams, Rodgers, Gilbert, Lawrence, B. McGhee, and lately, Bill Ellis, there are good prospects to fill these losses. In the sprints there will be Kelly Dickinson and Cockrell; 440—Kelly and Wendling; 880—Capt. Gresham; mile—Capt. Gresham and Gibson; two-mile—Swanner, Turner, J. S. Roberts; hurdles—Sellers, Morgan, and South; pole vault—Sprinkle; high jump—Morgan, South, Sprinkle and Sellers; broad jump—Dickinson and Sprinkle; shot and discus—Burns, Bulger, Ham and Thorpe; javelin—D. Rogers and Heath. Based only on last year's performances, the point winners this year are expected to be Speck Kelly, the backbone of the sprint detail; Bob Dickinson, who as a freshman last year set records of 10.0 in the 100 and 23.3 in the broad jump; Captain Monsey Gresham, whose slowest time in his last three 880's was 1:58.4; Charlie Morgan, who set a freshman record of 15.6 in the high hurdles and 6 feet in the high jump; Dave Sprinkle, who has cleared 13 feet in the pole vault and 23 1-4 feet in the broad jump, and Chet Bulger, ineligible as a freshman but who shows unusual promise in the shot and discus.

BASEBALL SQUAD

RESUME OF 1937 SEASON

Auburn's baseball nine closed one of its most successful seasons in many years by winning the Southeastern Conference baseball championship in 1937, with a record of eight wins and one loss. Coach Dell Morgan's charges finished the season with the outstanding record of 21 victories and four losses, which included games with conference foes and many of the leading semi-pro outfits in this section.

In their first conference appearance the Tigers subdued Georgia Tech, 3-2, and then defeated Georgia in a two-game series, 7-4 and 12-7. In their next league start the Bengals again took Georgia into camp, 2-1 and 7-2, and emerged victorious over the Florida 'Gators by the scores of 9-7 and 9-4. The Plainsmen split a doubleheader with Georgia Tech in their final conference appearance of the season, winning the first, 6-5, and dropping the second tilt, 3-2.

Auburn's pitching staff for last season was made up of Joel Eaves, John Paul Tipper, Dick Swindle, Lester Antley, and Dan Sellers, with Swindle turning in the best performance of the group with a record of seven wins and no losses. The infield was composed of Bruce Taylor and Malvern Morgan at first, John Mason at second, Billy Hitchcock at shortstop, Frank Hamm and Charles Chitty at third, and "Chink" Whitten and Francis Riddle doing the catching. Patrolling the outfield were Speck Kelly in left, Captain Sidney Scarborough in center, and Monroe Hayes in right.

SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS

Almost matching his pace-setting mark of .397 as a sophomore in 1936, Billy Hitchcock again captured the batting championship for last season with an average of .391, hammering out six home runs two doubles and 28 singles in 92 official trips to the plate. He was followed in line by Malvern Morgan, .366; Monroe Hayes, .337; Bruce Taylor, .333; and Joel Eaves, .310.

Prospects for another championship club look exceedingly bright for this season as this book goes to press, despite the graduation of Captain Scarborough, CF, Mason, 2B, Taylor, 1B, Eaves and Tipper, both pitchers, and Hamm, 3B, who dropped out of school. The problem of filling these positions will cause Coach Morgan some concern, but he is blessed with some fine prospects coming up from the freshman ranks, including George Kenmore, who plays a whale of a game at second base, and Bill Gallagher, who will probably be converted into a third baseman. The pitching staff will also be a big problem for Coach Morgan, with Swindle and Antley the only two with experience.

POLO ON THE PLAINS

Under the capable direction of Captain L. E. Jacoby, who succeeds Captain W. J. Klepinger as varsity coach, the spring polo season officially opened February 1 with eighteen candidates for the A squad and an initial turn-out of forty-five men for the B squad.

Only two varsity players from last year's team remain on the squad, Captain Robert McNulty and Alternate-Captain Miller Herren. Keen competition is expected for the vacancies created by the loss of Bacon and Hurd, and no predictions as to who will make up the team with McNulty and Herron can be made at this writing.

The team will take a northern road trip the latter part of April and tilts with Missouri, Iowa State College, Illinois, Culver Military Academy and Ohio State have been arranged. All college teams played on this trip have been invited to play at Auburn and the remainder of the schedule will be made up of army teams in this vicinity.

Second row: Almquist, Dunlop, Argo, Vines, Simpson, Knox, Brown
Third row: Cowan, Ivey, Patterson, Hamel, Davis

SWIMMING

With seven veterans returning and some fine material coming up from the freshman ranks, prospects for the 1938 swimming team look good. Coach Chambless and Captain Ray Kierstead are well pleased with the progress of their squad and express their belief that the team is potentially a very worthy aggregation. The schedule for the season has not yet been completed as this book goes to press, but negotiations for meets with Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Florida, Maryville College, and Georgia, have been made, as well as contests with several other Southern teams.

The veterans returning to form the nucleus of the team are: McCue, back-stroke and diver; Kierstead and Forbes, dash men; Lyons, Martin, Smith, and Laney, distance men. In the various events, the Tigers will probably be represented as follows: 440, Lyons and Laney; 220, Lyons and Franke; 100, Forbes and Todd; 50, Kierstead and Paul; back-stroke, Ousley, Campbell, and McCue; diving, Perry, McCue, and Thomas; breast-stroke, Mohns, Heathcote, and Snyder.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

The Women's Athletic Association is an honorary organization composed of women students of Auburn. The association cooperates with the Physical Education Department in promoting health, interest in play, and recreation, and the spirit of sportsmanship among the students.

There are a number of recreational clubs on the campus. These are Hiking, Tennis and Badminton, Archery, Dancing and Fencing.

Tournaments are held each year in the following competitive sports among women students: volleyball, basketball, tennis, badminton, speedball, archery, and shuffleboard. Teams participating in these tournaments are made up of sororities, clubs, and various other organized groups of students.

The director of physical training for women is Miss Fannie Stollenwerk. She is ably assisted by Miss Louise Kreher, who is also in charge of dancing instruction.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

A new program for the development and expansion of recreational activities was launched by the college this year. Professor Ernest B. Smith, for seven years the Supervisor of Intramural Sports at the University of Michigan, was engaged by the administration to serve as Director of Intramural Sports.

Mr. Smith proposes, insofar as possible, to provide opportunities for each individual, whether student or faculty member, to participate in some form of physical activity. Numerous tournaments, to be participated in by teams from fraternities, faculty members, and independent students, have been planned. They will include such sports as touch-football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, and swimming. In addition, Mr. Smith hopes to provide facilities for unorganized play in each of the above sports and also in golf, badminton, shuffleboard, ping-pong, and handball. An extensive program of recreational activities is also planned for the Summer Session.

"MISS AUBURN"

Because of her remarkable ability to make friends; her happy faculty to mix in the proper proportions serious study and socialibility; her appealing quality of remaining the same Sara in spite of the many honors heaped upon her; and because of her exceptional beauty, her sincerity, and her unaffected amiability; the student body of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute has selected Miss Sara Smith for the coveted title of "Miss Auburn", the highest attainable honor on the campus for a woman student.

FRATERNITIES ON THE PLAINS

Auburn points with pardonable pride to the remarkable spirit of good fellowship that exists between her fraternity and non-fraternity men. No man need feel that his opportunities on the campus are lessened because he does not belong to a social Greek organization. The spirit of independence prevails.

Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity was founded at Columbia University in New York City in 1910. Its colors are Lavender and White. Tau Omicron Chapter was established in 1937.

Tau Epsilon Phi, Auburn's newest social fraternity, has progressed rapidly since its installation on May 15, 1937. It was admitted to membership in Auburn's Interfraternity Council in November, 1937. Maurice Bloch, president of Auburn's Alumni Association, was initiated into Tau Epsilon Phi on November 27, 1937, and with his advice and supervision it is destined to take its place amongst the other fraternities on the campus.

Theta Upsilon Sorority was founded at the University of California in 1914. Its colors are the colors of the rainbow; and its flower is the Iris. Iota Chapter was established at Auburn in 1935.

The honorary fraternity is the reward of the student who has proven his worth by outstanding achievement during his college career. Membership is limited to those who display characteristics of scholarship, industry, and, in general, the characteristics of all-around college men. It is for this reason that the existence of the honor society is justified and respected on the Auburn campus.

Purpose of this society is set forth in the following preamble of the constitution:

"Whereas, feeling the need of some organization in the Senior Class of this institution which, wholly independent of the social and other relations, shall seek to gather together the most prominent and influential men of the class and to the institution, this society is organized."

Ten men are selected from the Junior Class in May of each year by the retiring members, and these ten men compose the active membership during the following year. To wear a Spade is a goal which all underclassmen may seek as the highest honor an Auburn man may obtain.

Omicron Delta Kappa, national honor fraternity, was founded at Washington and Lee University in 1914, its purpose being three-fold:

First: To recognize men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities, and to inspire others to strive for conspicuous attainments along similar lines.

Second: To bring together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life and thus to create an organization which shall help to mould the sentiment of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest.

Third: To bring together members of the faculty and student body of the institution on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHER FOR

1938 GLOMERATA

To always work with men as dependable, efficient, and personable as Don Johnson has proved to be in handling the photographic work for the 1938 "Glomerata" would be a pleasure to look forward to in later life. The quality of his work speaks for itself, and to say that his work is Service Personified is no exaggeration.

Of Her 20,000 Ex-Students . . .

WHO HAVE become leaders in engineering, agriculture, chemistry and pharmacy, architecture and allied arts, education, veterinary medicine, business, home economics, and the United States Army

WHO HAVE, from day to day and year to year, contributed to the South's and the Nation's development

WHO HAVE, in their own particular way, added to the enrichment of American life

AND WHO WILL, as the years pass and succeeding younger classes take their places in the ranks of educated, well-trained citizens

Continue to Carry Forward the Spirit of Auburn

To the end that learning, intelligence, and hard work may bring greater human happiness to America's millions.

SWAN SONG

AS we entered the GLOMERATA office to write this last bit of copy, we began to realize for the first time that this darn thing is about finished. In one way we are glad and in many ways we are sad. As we opened the door we had to kick the paper out of our way in order to be able to advance further. The office was quiet except for one of the staff members pecking the typewriter in an effort to write his much neglected girl friend a letter, explaining to her that he will be able to write more often now that the Glomerata is finished.

It is a sad affair for all of us. We have shot the works in an effort to make all the discounts, balance all the budgets, get this book to you by May 1st and still be on time for that class that meets every morning at 8:00.

Well, maybe we do feel that we have shot the works, but right now no one knows more than we, that without the assistance of a great many people it would have been May 1, 1939, before you would have received this book.

We wish to express our appreciation to the following who have contributed so much to the publication of this volume: The members of the staff who have had to cut about as many classes as we have; Mr. Kirtley Brown, our advisor who has contributed many helpful suggestions; Mr. Elmer Salter, for helping us collect the pictures and copy for the athletic section; Mr. Cecil Brooks, our staff photographer who has gone so far as to stand on his head in order to get the proper angle on his subject; Miss Pattie Haney, for helping us read the proof and correct our many mistakes; Miss Allie Glenn, who saw to it that we had our check waiting for us at the end of every month; Mr. Travis Ingram, for keeping us from spending more money than we had; Mr. Don Johnson, the photographer who made the pictures for the class section and did a swell job of it; Mr. Bob Faerber, Mr. E. G. Fitzgerald and Mr. Roy Hickman of the Alabama Engraving Company; Mr. W. A. Benson, Mr. R. G. Benson; Mr. Joe Ledbetter and Mr. Dan Eadie of the Benson Printing Company; Mr. Marion Ware, Prof. C. R. Hixon and Albion Knight, for helping us with the views of the campus; and all others who in any way assisted in the successful publication of this volume.
