

WTUR

THE SOURCE

TOP OF THE SOURCE

| # | Song: | Artist: |
|----|----------------------|---------------------|
| 1 | Why I'm Here at All | Jacko Hooper |
| 2 | Cameron Ave | Human Resources |
| 3 | Witchito Rico | Boy Pablo |
| 4 | Here They Come Again | Airbud |
| 5 | Nominated | Ginger Root |
| 6 | Years Don't Lie | PREP |
| 7 | Oh No | Blanks |
| 8 | Dig What You Dug | Wallows |
| 9 | Lucky Sue | Men I Trust |
| 10 | This Kind of Love | Peter the Human Boy |

TOP SONG REVIEW

Why I'm Here at All-- Jacko Hooper Music is a beautiful expression of the internal. Hooper channels sonic poetry in expressing the angst of humanity. A pontification of existence Hooper follows the soft snare building to the chorus with his thoughts. He addresses the largest question of them all; our existence. The song culminates in an unknown female vocal riff that leaves the listener haunted by the frustration and confusion carried by her voice.

For fans that like: Rainbow Kitten Surprise and Band Camino

Review by Nathaniel Boer

WTUR

SHOW OF THE WEEK

We Will Survive

Ethan Coppel
Andrew Edwards

Show Time
Saturdays @ 4 p.m.

We Will Survive

We Will Survive- A show hosted by two freshman film students Ethan Coppel and Andrew Edwards; this show focuses on the current entertainment climate from gaming to TV shows. This show is a perfect way to wind down your Saturday catching up on the mandalorian news and next generation gaming. These two up and coming radio talents will not disappoint.

For people who like: Kind of Funny Games Cast

Only on WTUR: The Source