Garnet Media Group's special publications are circulated widely throughout the Carolina community, as well as to visitors and prospective students. Each year, we produce six special publications: the football season preview, a Family Weekend edition, a semester-in-review edition, Best of Carolina, a year-in-review edition and Carolina Insider. These publications often commemorate special events or times in a student's life, making it perfect for a student to pick up, read through and hold on to for a long time. Publications such as Best of Carolina and Carolina Insider serve as tastemakers that inform new and returning students, as well as visitors and locals, on the best places to eat, explore, shop and be entertained in Columbia. Advertisers have an opportunity to make a lasting impact on the Carolina community by showcasing what they have to offer in these popular publications.

Since 1994, Garnet & Black magazine has been a leader for thoughtful discussion and style inspiration on campus. The magazine is known for its clean designs and long-form articles intended to encourage meaningful discussion on campus. Issues are also known to feature stylistic, high-quality fashion and photography. Published twice a semester, Garnet & Black is a great way for advertisers to position their businesses in front of thousands of readers.
The Daily Gamecock's website produces digital content daily and reaches thousands of readers each week. It includes content spanning breaking news, event previews and coverage, restaurant profiles and reviews, sports coverage and much more. The website's advertising opportunities give businesses and other clients a platform to promote their services to a wide-ranging audience of readers and potential customers.

Although Garnet & Black Magazine is a quarterly print publication, the magazine's website is updated regularly with content covering university culture, entertainment, student life, fashion and more. Students and Columbia influencers turn to Garnet & Black's website year-round for thought-provoking content revolving around USC and the surrounding area. Advertisers on Garnet & Black's website are able to strategically reach an engaged, socially aware and trend-conscious population within the Carolina community.

The Daily Gamecock's housing site makes it easy for students to see the amenities and unique features of each property so they can make informed decisions when searching for housing. This site is linked on the university's Off-Campus Living & Neighborhood Relations website, as well as dailygamecock.com and garnetmedia.org. Property owners and managers can contact sasmhome@mailbox.sc.edu for more information on the site and placing a listing.

Garnet Media Group's website was developed in 2018 as the home page and aggregation point for content from its partner student media outlets. The website highlights trending content from The Daily Gamecock, Garnet & Black, WUSC and SGTV, as well as the podcasts and special projects created by students on the cross-collaborative multimedia team. This site serves as a link between the organizations, creating a stronger base of audience members for each partner outlet. As journalism becomes increasingly digital, advertising on Garnet Media Group's website will reach a global audience of readers, viewers and listeners invested in the Carolina community.
SOCIAL MEDIA

Between Facebook, Twitter and Instagram, Garnet Media Group and its four content partners are constantly disseminating information and engaging with a combined social media audience of nearly 80,000. While The Daily Gamecock has the biggest social following with almost 57,000 followers on Twitter and Facebook alone, Garnet & Black, SGTV and WUSC also reach their own engaged, diverse populations with unique social messaging that embodies each organization’s brand. Please see your account representative for rates for The Daily Gamecock, WUSC, SGTV, Garnet & Black and Garnet Media Group.

EMAIL EDITION

The Daily Gamecock’s email edition is the 21st-century equivalent of tossing a paper onto the reader’s lawn every morning. The Daily Gamecock’s email edition is published Monday through Friday.

More than just a list of links, the email edition provides an engaging summary of The Daily Gamecock’s coverage to readers who like to keep up, but don’t have time to sit down with a paper or peruse the website each day. The open rate for the past year of daily email newsletters was almost 30%, nearly twice the estimated industry average of 17%.
SGTV, or Student Gamecock Television, has been producing high-quality programming for the Carolina community since its founding in 2006. Students brainstorm, write, film, edit and create video content that caters to a variety of interests, from news and sports to short films and entertainment. SGTV’s work has won awards on multiple occasions, including second and third place awards for “Best Vodcast” of 2016 from College Broadcasters, Inc., and the 2016 Student Silver Addy Award from the American Advertising Federation of the Midlands. SGTV also has a production team that can create a video for your group or business. For more information, please contact the production team by email at sasgtvpa@mailbox.sc.edu and sasgtvsm@mailbox.sc.edu.

WUSC’s programming includes news, sports, talk shows and a variety of music shows focusing on anything from world music to movie and TV soundtracks to punk rock — so long as it has not charted on the Top-40. The station transmits with a range of 30 miles and serves an international audience with a webcast that can be streamed at wusc.fm and on the RadioFX app.

UNDERWRITING

Though different from traditional advertising, underwriting for WUSC provides local businesses with the opportunity to be recognized as supporters of this popular station, which has been bringing diversity to Columbia’s airwaves since 1947. For more information on underwriting, contact your account representative.

PODCASTING

Podcasts are one of Garnet Media Group’s newest ways to reach an evolving audience of news and entertainment consumers. Covering a wide variety of topics, our podcasts cover everything from campus news and human interest stories, to international student experiences, to how to be and stay positive in college. These podcasts, which can be found on the Garnet Media Group website, Apple Podcasts, Google Play and Spotify, are becoming the newest way to reach an audience that wants their news and entertainment on the go and on demand.
DISCOVER COLUMBIA

Discover Columbia is the perfect way to connect USC students to your business and the greater Columbia area. This event is a local business showcase on Greene Street designed to help students discover all of the unique shops, restaurants, communities and activities Columbia has to offer. Greene Street crosses the center of campus, passing in front of the Russell House University Union, and is one of the most heavily traveled areas of campus.

Discover Columbia partners get a booth on Greene Street to pass out informational flyers and giveaways and are included in all on-campus promotions of the event through Garnet Media Group. Finding your niche in a new town can be difficult, but Discover Columbia helps students connect with businesses and organizations and form lasting relationships.
