

If Ever I Cried

We, we never made a perfect pair
But three sides have made me feel like such a square
You, you introduced him as a friend
The truth would only hurt me in the end

CHORUS:

I've wasted my days, standing in line
Defending your ways, and waiting for a sign
Knowing too late, and being too blind
Now as I leave, glancing behind, I'm willing to grieve
But you might believe I don't mean my goodbye
If ever I cried

Truth is often wasted on the young
Youth is only tasted when it's gone

CHORUS:

I've wasted my days, standing in line
Defending your ways, and waiting for a sign
Knowing too late, and being too blind
Now as I leave, glancing behind, I'm willing to grieve
But you might believe I don't mean my goodbye
If ever I cried

I draw the line after serving my time
Accused of the crime of not being there
We never tried so our love slowly died
As we sat side-by-side playing solitaire
Not much to say, that was some New Year's Day
It seems that I paid for the wine that you shared in your lair
Secret stare, you didn't care

CHORUS:

I've wasted my days, lost all my nights
A fool on display under steaming red lights
Knowing too late, and being too blind
Now as I leave, glancing behind, I'm willing to grieve
But you might believe I don't mean my goodbye
If even one tear came away from my eye
You might believe I don't mean my goodbye
If ever I cried

I Win

What do I say?
When you smile and tell me your love was just some foolish game
And it's over

What did I do?
Or do you always walk away when the turn comes around to you?
And you don't want to play anymore

Everyone wants to be in love
Just a game isn't good enough
Tell me, what were you playing for?

CHORUS:

Well, I played 'cause I wanted to - never told a single lie
And I stayed 'cause I wanted you - always knew the reason why
I gave 'cause I wanted to, saved all my love for you
So if this is just a game to you, I win

What was the price?
Now that it's clear you made your every move with loaded dice
And it's over

What do you see?
Now that you've called it off, and made the perfect fool of me
Do you think that you know the score?

You say it's no big deal, well, I disagree
'cause it seemed pretty real to me
When I hit the floor

CHORUS

I may not know everything
But I've always, I've always known how to learn
And I still get to take my turn

CHORUS

So if this is just a game to you, then I'm sad for what became of you
If this is how you set me free, I'm not going to beg for a best of three
It's true I'll take some time to cry, but I won't lay down at your feet and die
Yes, if this is just a game to you, I win
