

Tell Me You Love Me (Love In Progress)

Tell me you love me for the first time
When you can't hold it in
The seal is broken, the floodgates are open
Let the dance of emotion begin.

Tell me with flashes of lightning
C'mon, call to my shadows of doubt
No time to wait for angels of fate
This story should be straightened out.

And just like the rain falls down on a mountain
Just like lovers who've only begun
Show me the weight that leaves an impression
And I'll be the one...

Tell me you love me differently
Life is all about change
Pick your words like a puzzle, and struggle to show
How love is best rearranged.

Tell me without any sugar
Say this salt has lost its savour
Walking on egg shells so that we stick around
Won't do any favours.

The rain falls down on a mountain
Just like lovers know more can be done
Show me the pain that leaves an obsession
And I'll be the one...

Say you love me, say you don't Keep me guessing until I won't
I'm not concerned, with each petal pulled out
It's the last one, the last one that counts
It's the last one, the last one that counts...
