

SANDBANKS

Nolan Hubbard

Do you remember the day
We took my parents car Drove on down to where the Sandbanks are, it's hard
To think it was our second date
I wont lie i was a little afraid
The air was falling through Your long dark hair
Tried to be a gentleman
But I had to stare so fair
Your skin in the dead summer heat
And that the way that the sun
Caught you smiling at me

Shadows started growing longer
was there something in the water casting a spell on me and you
It was a certain kind of feeling
Everlasting never fleeting
We found ours
And now we're here singing

Oh
Something about that day on the Sandbanks
Oh
something about that day on the
Sandbanks

I remember when you
Kicked up the water at me
Cleared out my eyes and What did I see
It was a sunset fading
You'd been painting

A picture in my memory
My heart had long awaited
We ran back to the car
Headed on our way but we didn't
Make it far before you said
Hey take the next road
I think maybe we should take the Long way home

Shadows started growing longer
casting a spell on me and you
It was a certain kind of feeling
Everlasting never fleeting

Oh
Sandbanks
Oh
Sandbanks

Oh
Sandbanks
Oh
Sandbanks
Oh
Sandbanks
Oh
Sandbanks
