

The Glass By: The Oh Chays

If you're eternally optimistic
And you're asked if the glass is half full
You'll say life is about perspective
Even when the road you're traveling leads uphill
And if you choose to be pessimistic
And let darkness invade every space
Then you'll never be happy with any amount
And your glass should be taken away

Chorus:

What if the glass to some degree
Is twice as big as what we need
I think even the dark has it's purpose
And the lessons come after the falls
Since we've only got so many trips round the sun
Just be thankful for any drink at all

If you're trying to live in the moment
You must focus on nothing but how
You must bravely stand up and replenish your cup
Put your trust in the power of now

There is one way to lighten your living
In the chaos, there's peace you can find
And In that peace you'll not want nor be thirsty,
Free your heart, free your soul, free your mind

Chorus
