

Deep Water: by Rebecca Lappa

Verse 1

You jumped off this sinking ship
Praying that you could make it
But just like the titanic
He caused ripples on your heart
Though you found hope to cling to Memories wash over you like glue
And when they clench their teeth it takes you back to the start

Pre Chorus

He won't hurt you again but your mind's not listening
No it won't, emotions kicking in, and you're drowning in your head

Chorus

(And) you're in deep water
Deep deep water
Can't swim no farther
The current's pulling you under
Know you're stronger
But you can't fight much longer/ You will fight longer
Will you be left for slaughter/ You won't be left for slaughter
In these deep waters

Verse 2

You smile and no one knows
Even when their numbers grow
Those fins start circling round
You watch them closing in Try not to feel ashamed
But you always lose this game
Their gnawing at yourcore
And you finally give in

Pre chorus

Shampoo's going down the drain but it will not reach your brain
Like a stain on a shirt that never leaves, and you're begging for release

Bridge

He held you below the surface, where the water filled your lungs
And you would suffocate
But you learned to embrace the struggle, fighting for survival you escaped
