

“Principal Ponderings” from Mrs. Humbert November 1, 2018

Parents and Guardians,

Monday, November 5th marks the end of the 1st Quarter for this school year! Wow, has it gone by quickly! Reports will go home on Nov. 20th.

It's so difficult to take over 300 hours of time together and mark it on a scale of E, 1, 2, 3 and record it neatly in one page of little boxes. I always worry that the marks might not paint a clear picture of who that child really is. Teachers want to make sure the marks made assures every parent that their child is loved, valuable, and an amazingly unique child of God. Teachers need to indicate areas where a child needs to grow/improve upon too.

I hope that the marks will allow each student to feel encouraged, recognized and supported. Most of all, we want to make sure that the marks made on that paper leave each child wanting to come back and keep working and improving and succeeding! That's a lot to put on one little piece of paper.

Perhaps you and your child could make a list of the things you think God would give you an “A for effort” in and a list of the things He would invite you to “stay in from recess and work on.” Then offer a prayer of thanks to your teacher and ask Him for some extra help.

Thank you!

Mrs. Humbert

P.S. Thanks to Katie Smith and her team of volunteers for a wonderful All Saints Party yesterday and for organizing the Community of Saints Party last night!
