DRAFT AGENDA

Tuesday, July 11, 2017 – Education-Housing Partnerships: Practitioner Pre-conference

10:00 am

Get the Conversation Going: Informal Working Groups

Connect with other practitioners in groupings of your choice to provide and hear updates, share and solicit feedback on specific initiatives, meet new colleagues, and get the day started! Working group options include: geographical (Midwest, East Coast, South, Pacific Northwest, West Coast), topic-specific (homelessness, out-of-school time, grade-level reading, child welfare, absenteeism, early learning, youth, post-secondary, FAFSA, family engagement, etc), and progress-made (organizations newer to this work and those further along).

12:00 pm

Lunch and Networking

1:00 pm

Learning from Peers

In small groups, hear from those with more developed partnerships and share insights with those just starting out.

2:00 pm

Making Data Sharing Agreements Work

Increasingly, a wide range of entities—housers, educators, cities—are using data sharing to increase effectiveness across systems. Yet, many systems still do not want to engage in data sharing or have encountered resistance. This roundtable not only discusses how partners made data sharing possible, but also looks to the future: how the process has gone since initial implementation, what partners have learned from their data sharing efforts, and next steps for the work.

James Bush, Director of Family and Community Partnerships, Seattle Public Schools
Andrew Lofton, Executive Director, Seattle Housing Authority
Kathleen Styles, Chief Privacy Officer, U.S. Department of Education
