

Make Sure Your Business Will Sail On Even if You Can't Steer the Ship

Research shows that the majority of entrepreneurs have key person life insurance and buy-sell agreements in place. However, in many cases, their insurance and buy-sells are outdated.

This means that there's a good chance that they are no longer adequate or properly structured to meet current needs. Given that for many business owners, their business represents the lion's share of their wealth, I believe these are very important items to address.
