Item 5 Fees and Compensation

FEES AND COMPENSATION

Crosswalk Investment Advisory, Inc. is compensated for the management of investment portfolios by charging a management fee. Fees are negotiable. Fees may be charged up to the industry maximum amount of 3%.

The basic Management Fee Schedule is as follows:

Market Value of Account	Annual Fee
From 0 - $249,999.99	1.50%
$250,000 - $499,999.99	1.35%
$500,000 - $999,999.99	1.25%
$1,000,000 - $2,499,999.99	1.00%
Over $2,500,000	.75%

Fees will be comparable to industry standards, based on the complexity of the management of the account. Fees are charged for the quarter ahead. Fees are not collected for services to be performed more than six months in advance. The value of the account is calculated based on the closing values of the managed assets on the last business day of the calendar quarter. New accounts may be charged a prorated initial fee based on the amount of time left in the quarter. Pro-rated fees may be applied if the client deposits or withdraws $5000 or more in a single day. Clients may select one of the following two options for the payment of fees:

1. Clients will receive an invoice, which will include, among other things, the amount of the fee, how the fee was calculated, the value of the assets on which the fee was based, notice that the fee is a prepaid fee, and the time frame which the fee covers. Payment of the invoice is due within 30 days of the date of the invoice. If payment has not been received and no other payment arrangements have been made, Crosswalk Investment Advisory, Inc. may terminate the advisory agreement according to termination guidelines.

2. Clients will have their fees directly removed from their account. However, Crosswalk Investment Advisory, Inc. will never have custody of any client funds, as there will always be a custodian arrangement in place, for example with Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. or another broker/dealer. The client must provide written authorization permitting the fee to be paid from the client's account at the independent custodian. The custodian must also send to the client a statement, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts disbursed from the account. The client will be sent notification of the fee at the same time the custodian is sent the fee deduction request. Notifications will include, among other things, the amount of the fee, how the fee was calculated, the value of the client's assets on which the fee was based, notice that the fee is a prepaid fee, and the time frame which the fee covers. Fees will normally be deducted from the client's account within 10 days after the end of the quarter, or within 10 days of opening a new account.

Financial Planning and Consulting fees are charged on an hourly basis ranging from $85- $150/hour and are negotiable. The client will receive an invoice showing a description of the service, the time involved and the amount of the hourly fee, and the total amount of the fee.

TERMINATION

A Client Investment Advisory Agreement may be cancelled at any time, by either party, for any reason upon written notice to the other party. Upon termination the prepaid fee will be promptly refunded. If the agreement is terminated within five business days from the date of inception, all fees which have been paid will be promptly refunded.

Potential Risks of Investing with Stocks, Bonds, Mutual Funds, EFT's, and Options

Stock Market Risk: This is the possibility that stock prices overall will decline over short or extended periods. Smaller companies normally involve greater risk than larger, established companies and their stock prices may fall further and faster than large companies, although this is not always the case.

Liquidity Risk: This is the possibility that some investments may be difficult to trade or not be able to be traded at all because there is not enough interest in the security.

Interest Rate Risk: Bonds and bond funds can lose value if there is a change in interest rates. Normally, if interest rates rise, bond values will fall and if interest rates decline, bond prices will increase.

Credit Risk: This is the possibility that an issuer of a bond may default on its obligation to pay interest and/or principal.

Call Risk: Many fixed income securities allow the issuer to repay the debt early. This may mean that the holder of the bond may have to reinvest proceeds in lower interest rate bonds.

Style Risk: This is the possibility that returns from a specific type of security a mutual fund or ETF invests in will not perform as well as the overall market.

Foreign Risk: Investing in foreign securities, in addition to the same market risk of U.S. securities, involve the added risk of loss due to political, economic, legal, and regulatory issues.

Options Risk: Options risks include the risk of losing all of your principal. Certain options strategies risk unlimited losses.

This helps ensure that no particular client is favored over another client. Shares are allocated in proportion to the size of the order placed for each account. If the order is partially filled, Crosswalk Investment Advisory, Inc. will normally allocate shares pro rata based on the original order, but may increase or decrease the amount if it would be impractical to allocate a small number of shares among accounts involved in the transaction. Employees will not participate in trading done on an aggregate basis, but may trade after client trades have been executed.

Clients will receive written account summaries from Crosswalk Investment Advisory, Inc. on a semi-annual basis, unless they request to receive one more often. These reports, which can be customized for the client, generally show information such as positions, account balance, and whether or not the account made or lost money. Year-end reports normally include tax-related information. These reports should be compared to the statement which the broker dealer such as Charles Schwab and Co. sends out on a monthly basis. The statement by Charles Schwab and Co. will show, among other things, investment positions, transactions which have occurred, income and expenses, and fees.
