Where Trust And Confidence Are Paramount TM

I believe knowledge and wisdom are treasures to be shared. A key part of my daily routine is reading news and analysis from dozens of sources gaining knowledge about investment opportunities in various industries. I consider this a key element of my success in managing your portfolio. I also enjoy sharing my insights and opinions with you through my newsletter where I provide links to various articles related to topics such as money, health, lifestyles, retirement, taxes, etc. I hope that you find these articles as interesting as I did. I love hearing stories about how these articles have helped my clients like the story below:

My client read one of the Grail articles I shared in several newsletters which is a test that can potentially detect early stages of over 40+ cancers. He took the test after reading the article and said it probably saved his life!

These types of stories are what motivates me to continue to share my research. While you may not have time to read every article, hopefully you can pick a few that may apply to your life.

Optimistically Yours,

Raymond F. Saleeby Jr.
