

Financial Affidavit

Key document used to collect financial data, including all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities.

The financial affidavit is the backbone of any divorce settlement. Full disclosure and accuracy are imperative, but it is also important to note that the affidavit changes frequently as new information comes to light. This document may sound straightforward, but it can be surprising how many people are not involved in family finances and are ill-prepared to compile the necessary information.

Source: <https://institutedfa.com/learning-center/top-ten-divorce-terms-know/>

The Hock Group | Baird | www.thehockgroup.com | 602-224-4900

For information purposes only; Baird does not provide legal or tax advice